The use of airspace Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Transport Committee,2009-07-10 The Government's Future of Air Transport strategy aims to significantly increase UK airport capacity over the next two decades to accommodate the predicted growth in demand for air travel New runways at Heathrow and Stansted airports are two of the key airport development proposals If all the White Paper supported airport development proposals came to fruition current Government forecasts predict that the number of passengers passing through UK airports will increase from 241 million passengers a year in 2007 to 455 million passengers a year in 2030 This UK growth matches air traffic predictions for the whole continent Eurocontrol the European Organisation for the Safety of Air Navigation predicts that European air traffic will double by 2020 If rising demand for air travel is to be met effectively through additional airport capacity a corresponding increase in airspace capacity must be realised However a country's airspace the portion of atmosphere above its territory and territorial waters controlled by that country is a finite resource UK airspace particularly in the South East of England is already some of the busiest and most complex to manage in the world This will almost certainly require improvements in the efficiency of the UK air traffic management system The Committee's inquiry aims to look at how to meet these challenges Its findings are aimed at those organisations responsible for airspace related decisions in the UK the CAA NATS and the Department for Transport Passenger numbers and freight demand globally have declined in 2008 and in the first months of 2009 In its conclusions and recommendations the Committee covered the management of airspace strategy change and co ordination in airspace management environmental impacts of airspace changes and European developments

The Early Anglo-Saxon Kingdoms of Southern Britain AD 450-650 Sue Harrington,Martin Welch,2014-07-31 The Tribal Hidage attributed to the 7th century records the named groups and polities of early Anglo Saxon England and the taxation tribute due from their lands and surpluses Whilst providing some indication of relative wealth and its distribution rather little can be deduced from the Hidage concerning the underlying economic and social realities of the communities documented Sue Harrington and the late Martin Welch have adopted a new approach to these issues based on archaeological information from 12 000 burials and 28 000 objects of the period AD 450 650 The nature distribution and spatial relationships of settlement and burial evidence are examined over time against a background of the productive capabilities of the environment in which they are set the availability of raw materials evidence for metalworking and other industrial craft activities and communication and trade routes This has enabled the identification of central areas of wealth that influenced places around them Key within this period was the influence of the Franks who may have driven economic exploitation by building on the pre existing Roman infrastructure of the south east Frankish material culture was as widespread as that of the Kentish people whose wealth is evident in many well furnished graves but more nuanced approaches to wealth distribution are apparent further to the West perhaps due to ongoing interaction with communities who maintained an essentially Romano British way of life
