The Philippines Public Policy And National Economic Development:

The Philippines Frank H. Golay, 1968 The Philippines: Public Policy and National Economic Development Frank H. Golay, 1961 Economic research study comprising an analysis of the impact of economic policy on economic growth in the Philippines covers the economic administration the social structure the economic structure monetary policy fiscal policy industrial policy agricultural policy nationalization etc Literature survey pp 428 to 445 and statistical tables State Structure, Policy Formation, and Economic Development in Southeast Asia Antoinette R. Raquiza, 2013-06-17 Why do some small developing countries industrialize and others don't? What factors account for different economic performance among states that are vulnerable to external shocks? Crony capitalism and political instability? This book argues that the answer lies in the structuring of state power specifically the way different sets of governing elites political leaders and economic technocrats are embedded in political organisations and state institutions and the way these elites relate to each other in the economic development policy process Conducting a comparative historical analysis of Thailand and the Philippines the book argues that the institutional settings of governing elites influence economic outcomes In Thailand political power traditionally connects to state institutions in ways that has limited the impact of political turnovers and global downturns conducive to long term industrial activities In contrast Philippine state power derives from family networks that merge social and political power suited to fast moving short term commercial interests In focusing on this political and institutional story the author analyses the current development dilemmas of countries weighed down by historical legacies of unstable regimes dependency and social conflict and how they are likely to develop in the future The Philippines Frank H. Golay, 1961 Public Policy, 1998-07 The Matrix of Policy in the Philippines Harvey A. Averbach, John E. Koehler, Frank H. Denton, 2015-03-08 The prevailing view of the state of Philippine society is bleak the Philippines it is alleged is suffering from unsatisfactory economic growth mounting corruption increasing lawlessness and declining morale To arrive at an accurate assessment of current problems and future prospects the authors have undertaken a broad quantitative analysis of politics economics crime and dissidence within the country Addressing the problems systematically measuring alternative explanations and interpretations their analysis is directed to a clearer articulation of information and policy decisions within the Philippines and a more realistic view of the country For the benefit of other social scientists or countries who wish to make a similar study the appendices list in detail the data used by the authors Originally published in 1971 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 In the Name of Civil Society Eva-Lotta Hedman, 2005-11-30 In the Name of Civil Society examines

Philippine politics in a highly original and provocative way Hedman's detailed analysis shows how dominant elites in the Philippines shore up the structures of liberal democracy in order to ensure their continued hegemony over Philippine society This book will be of interest to everyone concerned with civil society and the processes of democratization and democracy in capitalist societies Paul D Hutchcroft University of Wisconsin Madison What is the politics of civil society Focusing on the Philippines home to the mother of all election watch movements the original People Power revolt and one of the largest and most diverse NGO populations in the world Eva Lotta Hedman offers a critique that goes against the grain of much other current scholarship Her highly original work challenges celebratory and universalist accounts that tend to reify civil society as a unified and coherent entity and to ascribe a single meaning and automatic trajectory to its role in democratization She shows how mobilization in the name of civil society is contingent on the intercession of citizens and performative displays of citizenship as opposed to other appeals and articulations of identity such as class In short Hedman argues the very definitions of civil and society are at stake Based on extensive research spanning the course of a decade 1991-2001 this study offers a powerful analysis of Philippine politics and society inspired by the writings of Antonio Gramsci It draws on a rich collection of sources from archives interviews newspapers and participant observation It identifies a cycle of recurring crises of authority involving mounting threats from above and below to oligarchical democracy in the Philippines Tracing the trajectory of Gramscian dominant bloc of social forces Hedman shows how each such crisis in the Philippines promotes a countermobilization by the intellectuals of the dominant bloc the capitalist class the Catholic Church and the U S government In documenting the capacity of so called secondary associations business lay professional to project moral and intellectual leadership in each of these crises this study sheds new light on the forces and dynamics of change and continuity in Philippine politics and society

The Philippine Economy Arsenio M. Balisacan, Hal Hill, 2003-03-06 This book examines all major facets of the Philippine economy and development policy Contributors to this volume look both to the past and to the future and their approaches are variously descriptive analytical interpretive and comparative The book assesses trends since the 1980s identifies major policy issues and provides a balance sheet of achievements and deficiencies over the past decade and beyond It highlights future challenges that need to be addressed if the country is to embark on a sustainable durable and equitable growth trajectory The book also offers lessons from the country's development experience which may be relevant for many countries at the present time The volume has particular relevance for the country's policymakers academics and the business community and will also appeal to a broader international audience

Changing Identities of the Southeast Asian Chinese Since World War II Jennifer Cushman, Gungwu Wang, 1988-11-01 In June 1985 a symposium Changing Identities of the Southeast Asian Chinese since World War II was held at the Australian National University in Canberra This volume includes many of the papers from that symposium presented by ANU scholars and those from universities elsewhere in Australia North America and Southeast Asia Participants looked at the current thinking about the parameters of identity and shared their own research into the complex issues that overlapping categories of identity raise Identity was chosen as the focus of the symposium because perceptions of self whether by others or by the individual Chinese concerned appear to lie at the heart of the present day Chinese experience in Southeast Asia It is also evident that identity wears many guises and that we cannot talk about a single Chinese identity when identity can be determined by the different political social economic or religious circumstances an individual faces at any given time One of the distinctive characteristics of all the essays in this volume is that they are written from an historical perspective While the papers focus on how recent developments in Southeast Asian society have shaped Chinese identity they also discuss those changes in terms of the historical matrix from which they developed Because many of the essays in this volume combine an historical overview with more recent statistical data it should serve as a useful companion to the increasingly popular case studies in which much of the writing about the Chinese in Southeast Asia is now cast

Philippine Politics and Society in the Twentieth Century Eva-Lotta Hedman, John Sidel, 2005-11-29 The only book length study to cover the Philippines after Marcos' downfall this key title thematically explores issues affecting this fascinating country throughout the last century Appealing to both the academic and non academic reader topics covered include national level electoral politics economic growth the Philippine Chinese law and order opposition the Left local and ethnic politics
