The Ceramics of South-East Asia Roxanna M. Brown,1977 The Ceramics of South-East Asia Roxanna M. Brown,1988

This is a reprint of the 1988 second edition of the standard work on Southeast Asian ceramics In this second edition the author takes into full account the developments in the last decade to bring her original study up to date and also takes the opportunity to revise the text where necessary In addition a large number of new illustrations both in color and black and white have been included together with drawings and maps The outcome is virtually a new book completely reset and reillustrated

Southeast Asian Ceramics John N. Miksic,2009 Southeast Asia is known to many as a region teeming with tourist destinations economic opportunities and ex colonies but a lesser known facet is its colourful and myriad cultures in which ceramics form an integral part of the social fabric Focusing primarily on the Classical Period 800 1500 CE this book views ancient Southeast Asian culture through the lens of ceramic production and trade influenced but not completely overshadowed by its powerful neighbour China In this landmark publication noted archaeologist and scholar John N Miksic constructs a vivid picture of the development of Southeast Asia s unique ceramics Along with three contributing authors Pamela M Watkins Dawn F Rooney and Michael Flecker he summarizes the fruits of their research over the last forty years beginning in Singapore with the founding of the Southeast Asian Ceramic Society in 1969 The result is a comprehensive and insightful overview of the technology aesthetics and organization both economic and political of seemingly diverse territories in pre colonial Southeast Asia It is essential reading for all those with an interest in the economic history of the region and also for anyone who seeks a better understanding of the brilliant but too often underestimated material culture of Southeast Asia

The Routledge Handbook of Archaeology and Globalization Tamar Hodos,2016-11-18 This unique collection applies globalization concepts to the discipline of archaeology using a wide range of global case studies from a group of international specialists The volume spans from as early as 10 000 cal BP to the modern era analysing the relationship between material culture complex connectivities between communities and groups and cultural change Each contributor considers globalization ideas explicitly to explore the socio cultural connectivities of the past In considering social practices shared between different historic groups and also the expression of their respective identities the papers in this volume illustrate the potential of globalization thinking to bridge the local and global in material culture analysis The Routledge Handbook of Archaeology and Globalization is the first such volume to take a world archaeology approach on a multi period basis in order to bring together the scope of evidence for the significance of material culture in the processes of globalization This work thus also provides a means to understand how material culture can be used to assess the impact of global engagement in our contemporary world As such it will appeal to archaeologists and historians as well as social science researchers interested in the origins of globalization

The Maritime Silk Road Franck Billé,Sanjyot Mehendale,James Lankton,2025-10-01 The Maritime Silk Road foregrounds the numerous networks that have been woven across oceanic geographies tying world regions together often far more extensively than land based routes On the strength of the new data which has emerged in the last two decades in the form of archaeological findings as well as new techniques such as GIS modelling the authors collectively demonstrate the existence of a very early global maritime trade From architecture to cuisine and language to clothing evidence points to early connections both within Asia and between Asia and other continents well before European explorations of the Global South The human stories presented here offer insights into both the extent and limits of this global exchange showing how goods and people travelled vast distances how they were embedded in regional networks and how local cultures were shaped as a result

Gunn,2021-09-03 Imagined Geographies is a pioneering work in the study of history and geography of the pre 1800 world In this book Gunn argues that different regions astride the maritime silk roads were not only interconnected but can also be construed as imagined geographies Taking a grand civilizational perspective five such geographic imaginaries are examined across respective chapters namely Indian Arabic Chinese Japanese and European including an imagined Great South Land Drawing upon an array of marine and other archaeological examples the author offers compelling evidence of the intertwining of political cultural and economic regions across the sea silk roads from ancient times until the seventeenth century Through a thorough analysis of these five geographic imaginaries the author sets aside purely national history and looks at the maritime realm from a broader spatial perspective He challenges the Eurocentric concept of center and periphery and establishes a revisionist view on a decentered world regional history This book will definitely interest history lovers from all around the world who wants to know more about how their forebears viewed their respective region and how their region fits into world history with local uniqueness Gunn takes large themes and makes them understandable He is not afraid to make the grand statement and to look at the sweep of history all in one arc I admire that greatly this is not history for the faint of heart But it is history well done and history that can show the forest from the trees Eric Tagliacozzo John Stambaugh Professor of History Cornell

University This is one of the most ambitious and insightful books that I have read on pre Modern maritime Asia The author offers fascinating perspectives on how this vast region was imagined charted and experienced over many centuries That requires mastery of an immense range of scholarship and primary sources His aim is to knit this watery world together into a conceptual whole This mission is accomplished with style and discipline Andrew R Wilson John A van Beuren Chair of Asia Pacific Studies U S Naval War College
