The Challenges Of Famine Relief Emergency Operations In The Sudan:

The Challenges of Famine Relief Francis Mading Deng, Larry Minear, 1992 The Challenges of Famine Relief focuses on the two famine emergencies in the Sudan in the 1980s the great African drought related famine of 1984 86 and the conflict related famine that afflicted the southern Sudan in 1988 91

The Challenges of Famine Relief Francis M. Deng, Larry Minear, 2011-03-01 For nearly a decade international efforts to combat famine and food shortages around the globe have concentrated on the critical situations in sub Saharan Africa In the Sudan the largest country in Africa prolonged drought complicated by civil strife and debilitating economic problems has caused widespread human suffering The Sudan illustrates the proverbial worst case scenario in which urgent food needs have been denied food has been used as a weapon and outside assistance has been obstructed The Challenges of Famine Relief focuses on the two famine emergencies in the Sudan in the 1980s the great African drought related famine of 1984 86 and the conflict related famine that afflicted the southern Sudan in 1988 91 Francis Deng and Larry Minear analyze the historical and political setting and the response by Sudan authorities and the international community The book outlines four problem areas exemplified in the response to each crisis the external nature of famine relief the relationship between relief activities and endemic problems the coordination of such activities and the ambivalence of the results The authors identify the many difficulties inherent in providing emergency relief to populations caught in circumstances of life threatening famine They show how such famine emergencies reflect the most extreme breakdown of social order and present the most compelling imperatives for international action Deng and Minear also discuss how the international community alerted by the media and mobilized by the Ethiopian famine moved to fill the moral void left by the government and how outside organizations worked together to pressure Sudan s political authorities to be more responsive to these tragedies Looking ahead the authors highlight the implications for future involvement in humanitarian initiatives in a new world order As recent developments in Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union demonstrate such humanitarian challenges of global dimensions are no longer confined to third world countries As the international community apportions limited resources among a growing number of such challenges more effective responses to crises such as those described in this book are imperative

The Root Causes of Sudan's Civil Wars Douglas Hamilton Johnson, 2011 Sudan s post independence history has been dominated by political and civil strife Most commentators have attributed the country s recurring civil war either to an age old racial divide between Arabs and Africans or to recent colonially constructed inequalities This book attempts a more complex analysis briefly examining the historical political economic and social factors which have contributed to periodic outbreaks of violence between the state and its peripheries In tracing historical continuities it outlines the essential differences between the modern Sudan s first civil war in the 1960s and the current war It also looks at the series of minor civil wars generated by and contained within the major conflict as well as the regional and international factors including humanitarian aid which have exacerbated civil violence This introduction is aimed at students of North East Africa and of conflict and ethnicity It should be useful for people in aid and international organizations who need a straightforward analytical survey which will help them assess the prospects for a lasting peace in Sudan Douglas H Johnson is an independent scholar and former international expert on the Abyei Boundaries Commission

Protecting the Dispossessed Francis M. Deng, 2010-12-01 An estimated 25 million people worldwide are internally displaced a significantly larger population than the 18 million refugees Victims of civil wars forced relocation communal violence natural and ecological disasters and gross violations of human rights they lack such human necessities as food shelter clothing safety basic health and education But because they remain inside their countries they don't receive the same protection and assistance from the international community as those who cross borders and become refugees Their plight however is drawing increasing international attention In March 1992 Francis Deng was appointed Special Representative of the United Nations Secretary General to study this harrowing situation In this book a substantially revised version of his report to the UN Deng examines the causes and consequences of internal displacement the legal standards for protection and assistance enforcement mechanisms the prevailing conditions in the affected countries and the urgent need for an international response In a compelling first person narrative Protecting the Dispossessed follows Deng's investigation and is based on interviews and information from governments international organizations individuals and visits to several countries in Europe Africa and Latin America Deng argues that sovereignty entails a responsibility to ensure the safety and welfare of the citizens and to protect fundamental human rights the international community must uphold this standard and make violators accountable While he acknowledges that steps are being taken in the right direction he maintains that there is still much to be done He presents a bold proposal one that requires substantial changes in the international system in the politics of major governments and in the relations between states He proposes a three phase strategy aimed at monitoring conditions worldwide to detect impending crises

Subnationalism in Africa Joshua Forrest, 2004 This examination of the politics of ethnicity and nation building in Africa stresses the trend towards subnationalist autonomy and away from a singular state centric system based on the Western model Forrest ranges across the continent to explore a variety of subnational movements

Global Visions Jeremy Brecher, John Brown Childs, Jill Cutler, 1993 We live in an era of globalization in which pollution satellite broadcasts and products from the global factory stream across national borders Today's globalization is mostly globalization from above an effort to expand the wealth and power of the wealthy and powerful In Global Vision scholars and activists from more than twenty countries in all parts of the globe explore a startling alternative globalization form below

The Humanitarian Enterprise Larry Minear, 2002 Epilogue discussing the international response to the terrorist attacks of 2001 and the war in Afghanistan A fundamental text about the future of humanitarianism in the twenty first century International humanitarian activities have grown enormously in scale over the past decade and the complex links between humanitarian work and the worlds of politics and military engagement have become increasingly contested

Larry Minear uncovers what international humanitarians including the UN national governments the Red Cross and many private relief and development agencies have learned about performing humanitarian work well and the arguments that remain unresolved

What is a Disaster? E.L. Quarantelli, 2005-06-27 Are conflict situations such as the ethnic clashes in Yugoslavia or Rwanda terrorist attacks and riots the same kind of social crises as those generated by natural and technological happenings such as earthquakes and chemical explosions In What is a Disaster social science disaster researchers from six different disciplines advance their views on what a disaster is Clashes in conceptions are highlighted through the book's unique juxtaposition of the authors separately advanced views A reaction paper to each set of views is presented by an experienced disaster researcher in turn the original authors provide a response to what has been said about their views What is a Disaster sets out the huge conceptual differences that exist concerning what a disaster is and presents important implications for both theory study and practice

Masses in Flight Roberta Cohen, Francis M. Deng, 2012-01-27 Since the end of the Cold War increasing numbers of people have been forced to leave their homes as a result of armed conflict internal strife and systematic violations of human rights Whereas refugees crossing national borders benefit from an established system of international protection and assistance those who are displaced internally suffer from an absence of legal or institutional bases for their protection and assistance from the international community This book analyzes the causes and consequences of displacement including its devastating impact both within and beyond the borders of affected countries It sets forth strategies for preventing displacement a special legal framework tailored to the needs of the displaced more effective institutional arrangements at the national regional and international levels and increased capacities to address the protection human rights and reintegration and development needs of the displaced

The Uprooted Susan F. Martin, 2005-01-01 The Uprooted is the first volume to methodically examine the progress and persistent shortcomings of the current humanitarian regime The authors all experts in the field of forced migration describe the organizational political and conceptual shortcomings that are creating the gaps and inefficiencies of international and national agencies to reach entire categories of forced migrants They make policy based recommendations to improve international regional national and local responses in areas including organization security funding and durability of response

The Palgrave Handbook of Peacebuilding in Africa Tony Karbo, Kudrat Virk, 2018-01-30 This handbook offers a critical assessment of the African agenda for conflict prevention peacemaking peacekeeping and peacebuilding the challenges and opportunities facing Africa's regional organisations in their efforts towards building sustainable peace on the continent and the role of external actors including the United Nations Britain France and South Asian troop contributing countries In so doing it revisits the late Ali Mazrui's concept of Pax Africana calling on Africans to take responsibility for peace and security on their own continent The creation of the African Union in 2002 was an important step towards realising this ambition and has led to the development of a new continental architecture for more robust conflict management But as the volume's authors show the quest for Pax

Africana faces challenges Combining thematic analyses and case studies this book will be of interest to both scholars and policymakers working on peace security and governance issues in Africa

United Nations Reform and the New Collective Security Peter G. Danchin, Horst Fischer, 2010-01-28 In 2004 the Report of the Secretary General's High Level Panel on Threats Challenges and Change emphasised the linkages between economic development security and human rights and the imperative in the twenty first century of collective action and cooperation between States In a world deeply divided by differences of power wealth culture and ideology central questions today in international law and organisation are whether reaffirmation of the concept of collective security and a workable consensus on the means of its realisation are possible In addressing these questions this book considers the three key documents in the recent UN reform process the High Level Panel report the Secretary General's In Larger Freedom report and the 2005 World Summit Outcome document The chapters examine the responsibilities commitments strategies and institutions necessary for collective security to function both in practice and as a normative ideal in international law and relations between state and non state actors alike

Business Education and Training Samuel M. Natale, 2000-04-12 Co published with the Oxford Philosophy Trust this is the seventh volume in an enlightening series on clashing values in the worlds of business and education Containing papers co published with the Oxford Centre for the Study of Values in Education and Business this volume traces the most recent changes in both areas of study Through its focus on the latest advances in technology and their impact upon universities and the world market this work provides insight into current dialogues on values between universities businesses and technology

Droughts Donald A. Wilhite, 2016-09-17 Drought draws together contributions from over 75 leading international researchers in the field to present the most comprehensive body of research on the physical and social dimensions of drought to date Including an extensive range of case studies covering the most drought prone and most affected countries the contributors examine new technology planning methodologies and mitigation actions from recent drought experiences worldwide Following a discussion of the critical concepts of drought the work is divided into the following additional parts causes and predictability monitoring and early warning techniques impacts and assessment methodologies links between drought and other global issues conclusions and future challenges

The Laws of War Michael Howard, George J. Andreopoulos, Mark R. Shulman, Michael Eliot Howard, 1994-01-01 This book explores not only the formal constraints on the conduct of war throughout Western history but also the unwritten conventions about what is permissible in the course of military operations Ranging from classical antiquity to the present eminent historians discuss the legal and cultural regulation of violence in such areas as belligerent rights the treatment of prisoners and civilians the observing of truces and immunities the use of particular weapons siege warfare codes of honor and war crimes The book begins with a general overview of the subject by Michael Howard The contributors then discuss the formal and informal constraints on conducting war as they existed in classical antiquity the age of chivalry early modern Europe colonial America and the age of Napoleon

They also examine how these constraints have been applied to wars at sea on land and in the air planning for nuclear war and national liberation struggles in which one of the participants is not an organized state The book concludes with reflections by Paul Kennedy and George Andreopoulos on the main challenges facing the quest for humanitarian norms in warfare in the future

Internal Displacement Thomas G. Weiss, David A. Korn, 2006-09-27 This new volume traces the normative legal institutional and political responses to the challenges of assisting and protecting internally displaced persons IDPs The crisis of IDPs was first confronted in the 1980s and the problems of those suffering from this type of forced migration has grown continually since then Drawing on official and confidential documents as well as interviews with leading personalities Internal Displacement provides an unparalleled analysis of this important issue and includes an exploration of the phenomenon of internal displacement and of policy research about it a review of efforts to increase awareness about the plight of IDPs and the development of a legal framework to protect them a behind the scenes look at the creation and evolution of the mandate of the Representative of the Secretary General on IDPs a variety of case studies illustrating the difficulties in overcoming the operational shortcomings within the UN system a foreword by former UN high commissioner for refugees Sadako Ogata Internal Displacement will appeal to students and scholars with interests in war and peace forced migration human rights and global governance

Beyond Friend and Foe Volker Heins, 2011-01-19 The book provides a thematic account of the changing political thought of critical theorists from Adorno to Habermas and Honneth Its purpose is to establish the relevance of this tradition for contemporary political theory and philosophy

Sovereignty as Responsibility Francis M. Deng, Sadikiel Kimaro, Terrence Lyons, 2010-12-01 The authors assert that sovereignty can no longer be seen as a protection against interference but as a charge of responsibility where the state is accountable to both domestic and external constituencies In internal conflicts in Africa sovereign states have often failed to take responsibility for their own citizens welfare and for the humanitarian consequences of conflict leaving the victims with no assistance This book shows how that responsibility can be exercised by states over their own population and by other states in assistance to their fellow sovereigns Sovereignty as Responsibility presents a framework that should guide both national governments and the international community in discharging their respective responsibilities Broad principles are developed by examining identity as a potential source of conflict governance as a matter of managing conflict and economics as a policy field for deterring conflict Considering conflict management political stability economic development and social welfare as functions of governance the authors develop strategies guidelines and roles for its responsible exercise Some African governments such as South Africa in the 1990s and Ghana since 1980 have demonstrated impressive gains against these standards while others such as Rwanda Somalia Liberia Nigeria and Sudan have failed Opportunities for making sovereignty more responsible and improving the management of conflicts are examined at the regional and international levels The lessons from the mixed successes of regional conflict management actions such as the West African intervention in Liberia the East African mediation in Sudan and international efforts to urge talks to end the conflict in Angola indicate friends and neighbors outside the state in conflict have important roles to play in increasing sovereign responsibility Approaching conflict management from the perspective of the responsibilities of sovereign Current Bibliographical Information Dag Hammarskjöld Library, 1993 Humanitarianism Contested Michael Barnett, Thomas G. Weiss, 2013-03 This book provides a succinct but sophisticated understanding of humanitarianism and insight into the on going dilemmas and tensions that have accompanied it since its origins in the early nineteenth century Combining theoretical and historical exposition with a broad range of contemporary case studies the book provides a brief survey of the history of humanitarianism beginning with the anti slavery movement in the early nineteenth century and continuing to today s challenge of post conflict reconstruction and saving failed states explains the evolution of humanitarianism Not only has it evolved over the decades but since the end of the Cold War humanitarianism has exploded in scope scale and significance presents an overview of the contemporary humanitarian sector including briefly who the key actors are how they are funded and what they do with their money analyses the ethical dilemmas confronted by humanitarian organization not only in the abstract but also and most importantly in real situations and when lives are at stake examines how humanitarianism poses fundamental ethical questions regarding the kind of world we want to live in what kind of world is possible and how we might get there An accessible and engaging work by two of the leading scholars in the field Humanitarianism Contested is essential reading for all those concerned with the future of human rights and international relations
