Crouter,1998-01-01 Recently the roles of fathers and husbands in families have been recognized as important issues They appear in legislation aimed at deadbeat dads social movements including the Million Man March and Promise Keepers in the development of advocacy groups and in think tanks Therefore contemporary research on men in family relationships has very mixed results Some studies show that fathers have small effects on child development and in preventing antisocial behavior whereas others suggest no effects Other research claims that the primary importance of men in families is in their role as providers Although some studies state that the husbands and fathers most vital work occurs in new families others indicate that it is when their offspring reach adolescence Confusing the issue even further labor market trends predict that men s family roles may diminish Based on the presentations and discussions from a recent national
