Nuclear Weapons and Scientific Responsibility C. G. Weeramantry, 1999 Several years ago when this work first appeared it had become apparent that scientists who play such a key role in the nuclear enterprise needed to be alerted to the many questions of conscience and legality that were inextricably interlinked with their work These questions lay at the heart of the nuclear weapons problem for whatever the political and military leaders might ordain the manufacture of such weapons was a plain impossibility without the active assistance of the scientific profession Yet no substantive work on this topic had until then been attempted Such a work appeared at that time to be an urgent and important need If the problem was then acute and serious it is even more so now The power of nuclear science has grown and with it has grown the power of the individual scientist to initiate new developments The changes in the world order that have occurred in the intervening years enable individual scientists to hold themselves out as available for employment Those who seek their expertise may include not only governments but other entities as well The power of global destruction that these scientists command renders it imperative that they be alerted on a continuing basis to the problems of conscience that arise Hence the need for a re issue of this work for which there had been many requests from concerned scientists professional groups socially concerned organisations and also from lawyers The book is re issued in its original form but updated by the inclusion of more recent work as contained in extracts from three judicial opinions upon the matter

Internationalization to Prevent the Spread of Nuclear Weapons Stockholm International Peace Research Institute, 2020-11-19 First published in 1980 the original blurb read In August September 1980 the second Review Conference of the Non Proliferation Treaty NPT will take place in Geneva As this Treaty is the most important barrier to the proliferation of nuclear weapons the results of the Conference will obviously have major effects in the field of arms control and disarmament The implications of the recent International Nuclear Fuel Cycle Evaluation INFCE are that the technological capabilities of many countries are such that there is no technical solution to the problem of the spread of nuclear weapons to countries that do not now have them Thus it appears that if there is a solution at all it must be political in nature A possible element in such a political solution is the internationalization of the sensitive parts of the nuclear fuel cycle that is those parts that have the potential of producing fissile materials to make nuclear weapons Although the intricacies of a system of internationalization are still unresolved the concept if realized would provide another powerful political barrier to nuclear weapon proliferation a reinforcement for the aims of the NPT itself Against this background and as a follow up to its first symposium and the resultant book Nuclear Energy and Nuclear Weapon Proliferation SIPRI convened a second international group of experts to continue its discussions of issues pertinent to the forthcoming NPT Review Conference The meeting took place at SIPRI in Stockholm 31 October 2 November 1979 when the feasibility of internationalizing the nuclear fuel cycle was examined SIPRI's views on this complex approach are expressed in Part 1 of this book Internationalization to Prevent the Spread of Nuclear Weapons Part 2 contains the papers that were presented at the symposium

Political Manipulation and Weapons of Mass Destruction

Ben Cole,2017-12-11 Concerns about CBRN Chemical Biological Radioactive Nuclear weapons have featured prominently in both political debates and media reporting about the ongoing threat from al Qaeda since 9 11 This book provides a chronological account of al Qaeda's efforts to acquire a CBRN weapon capability and the evolution of the al Qaeda leadership's approach to actually using CBRN weapons set against the context of the politicisation of the threat of CBRN terrorism in US security debates Ben Cole explores how the inherently political nature of terrorist CBRN threats has helped to shape al Qaeda's approach to CBRN weapons and shows how the heightened political sensitivities surrounding the threat have enabled some governments to manipulate it in order to generate domestic and international support for controversial policies particularly the 2003 invasion of Iraq He assesses the relative success of the al Qaeda leadership's political approach to CBRN weapons together with the relative success of efforts by the US UK and Russian governments to exploit the al Qaeda CBRN threat for their wider political purposes Shedding new light on al Qaeda's tactics and strategy this book will be essential reading for scholars of terrorism and extremism studies
