Early Indian Imprints Katharine Smith Diehl, 1964 Chinnery Robin Hutcheon, 1975 China Hands and Old Cantons John M. Carroll, 2021-10-12
 Early encounters between Britain and China are best known for igniting the First Opium War Yet they also produced an enormous archive of writings by Britons who spent time in China Frustrated with the restrictions imposed by the Manchu rulers of the Qing Empire and unable to live or travel elsewhere apart from Canton and Macao these diplomats traders missionaries travelers and military officers devoted thousands of pages to understanding China its people and their civilization In China Hands and Old Cantons John M Carroll draws on this wealth of memoirs ethnographic studies travel accounts narratives of military action translations and newspaper articles to trace Britons wide ranging often thoughtful perspectives on China long before anyone considered going to war They discussed almost everything they saw and speculated about much of what they could not see including the size of China's massive population the extent of infanticide the origins and practice of foot binding and the legality and morality of the opium trade They claimed that only those who had been there could truly understand the Middle Kingdom and that their firsthand experience gave them and their publications an advantage over those in Britain and elsewhere Carroll brings a seminal period in the Anglo Chinese relationship which revolved around tea and opium to life through the words of those who experienced it intimately

Narratives of Free Trade Kendall Johnson, 2011-12-01
 Nine essays discuss the first commercial encounters between a China on the verge of systemic social change and a United States struggling to assert itself globally as a distinct nation after the Revolutionary War from the arrival in Canton of the first American ship in the 1870s to the 1844 Treaty of Wangxia in Macao after the First Opium War to Secretary of State John Hay's forging of the Open Door policy in 1899 Broad in scope the essays are attuned to the activities of competing European traders especially the British in Canton Macao and the Pearl River Delta Kendall Johnson is director of the American Studies Program and associate professor at the University of Hong Kong
