The Political Landscape Constellations Of Authority In Early Complex Polities:

The Political Landscape Adam T Smith, 2003-10-07 This highly original and challenging book defies every easy form of classification. Ostensibly about early polities, its penetrating and erudite asides extend with equal facility into contemporary politics and the symmetrical deficiencies of modernism and postmodernism. To my knowledge, imaginative reflections of spatial representations have never previously found their way into the theoretical base of what has been thought of as an essentially materialistic archaeological science. It is a pleasure and a discovery to see the permanent and rightful place Adam Smith has now fashioned for them. Robert McC Adams, Secretary Emeritus, The Smithsonian Institution. If social theory in cultural anthropology was transformed in the last decades by a linguistic turn, research by archaeologists into the development and practices of early states now seems to be undergoing a geographic turn. Adam Smith's book, although drawing from modern currents in geography, anthropology, sociology, and political philosophy, brings original archaeological contributions to social theory by examining the making and re-making of landscapes in early complex polities, especially in Mesopotamian, Urartian, and Maya states. Smith observes these and other early states as political landscapes in which monuments come to constitute authority and shape memories. Smith's book represents a comprehensive turn from metahistorical reifications of the state to investigations of how the content of social roles was determined through the production of landscapes. The landscape of archaeology will be changed decisively by this book. Norman Yoffee, Professor, Dept of Near Eastern Studies and Dept of Anthropology, University of Michigan. This book emerges as both a remarkable scholarly achievement and something of a manifesto for contemporary political thinking and engagement. Susan E Alcock, author of Archaeologies of the Greek Past: Landscape, Monuments, and Memories. The Political Machine Adam T. Smith, 2020-08-04. The Political Machine investigates the essential role that material culture plays in the practices and maintenance of political sovereignty. Through an archaeological exploration of the Bronze Age Caucasus, Adam Smith demonstrates that beyond assemblies of people, polities are just as importantly assemblages of things: from ballots and bullets to crowns, regalia, and licenses. Smith looks at the ways that these assemblages help to forge cohesive publics, separate sovereigns from a wider social mass, and formalize governance, and he considers how these developments continue to shape politics today. Smith shows that the formation of polities is as much about the process of manufacturing assemblages as it is about disciplining subjects, and that these material objects or machines sustain communities, orders, and institutions. The sensibilities, senses, and sentiments connecting people to things enabled political authority during the Bronze Age and fortified political power even in the contemporary world. Smith provides a detailed account of the transformation of communities in the Caucasus from small-scale early Bronze Age villages committed to egalitarianism to Late Bronze Age polities predicated on radical inequality, organized violence, and a centralized apparatus of rule. From Bronze Age traditions of mortuary ritual and divination to current controversies over flag pins and Predator drones, The Political Machine sheds new light on how material goods authorize and defend political order Political Landscapes of Capital Cities Jessica Joyce Christie, Jelena Bogdanovic, Eulogio Guzmán, 2016-08-08 Political Landscapes of Capital Cities investigates the processes of transformation of the natural landscape into the culturally constructed and ideologically defined political environments of capital cities In this spatially inclusive socially dynamic interpretation an interdisciplinary group of authors including archaeologists anthropologists and art historians uses the methodology put forth in Adam T Smith's The Political Landscape Constellations of Authority in Early Complex Polities to expose the intimate associations between human made environments and the natural landscape that accommodate the sociopolitical needs of governmental authority Political Landscapes of Capital Cities blends the historical political and cultural narratives of capital cities such as Bangkok Cusco Rome and Tehran with a careful visual analysis hinging on the methodological tools of not only architectural and urban design but also cultural historiographical and anthropological studies The collection provides further ways to conceive of how processes of urbanization monumentalization ritualization naturalization and unification affected capitals differently without losing grasp of local distinctive architectural and spatial features The essays also articulate the many complex political and ideological agendas of a diverse set of sovereign entities that planned constructed displayed and performed their societal ideals in the spaces of their capitals ultimately confirming that political authority is profoundly spatial Contributors Jelena Bogdanovi Jessica Joyce Christie Talinn Grigor Eulogio Guzmán Gregor Kalas Stephanie Pilat Melody Rodari Anne Toxey Alexei Vranich

The Archaeology of Power and Politics in Eurasia Charles W. Hartley, G. Bike Yazicioğlu, Adam T. Smith, 2012-11-19 For thousands of years the geography of Eurasia has facilitated travel conquest and colonization by various groups from the Huns in ancient times to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics in the past century This book brings together archaeological investigations of Eurasian regimes and revolutions ranging from the Bronze Age to the modern day from Eastern Europe and the Caucasus in the west to the Mongolian steppe and the Korean Peninsula in the east The authors examine a wide ranging series of archaeological studies in order to better understand the role of politics in the history and prehistory of the region This book re-evaluates the significance of power authority and ideology in the emergence and transformation of ancient and modern societies in this vast continent The Archaeology of Maritime Landscapes Ben Ford, 2011-05-21 Maritime cultural landscapes are collections of submerged archaeological sites or combinations of terrestrial and submerged sites that reflect the relationship between humans and the water These landscapes can range in size from a single beach to an entire coastline and can include areas of terrestrial sites now inundated as well as underwater sites that are now desiccated However what binds all of these sites together is the premise that each aspect of the landscape cultural political environmental technological and physical is interrelated and can not be understood without reference to the others In this maritime cultural landscape approach individual sites are treated as features within the larger landscape and the interpretation of single sites add to a larger analysis of a region or culture This approach provides physical and theoretical links between terrestrial and underwater archaeology as well as prehistoric and historic archaeology consequently providing a framework for integrating such diverse topics as trade resource procurement habitation industrial production and warfare into a holistic study of the past Landscape studies foster broader perspectives and approaches extending the study of maritime cultures beyond the shoreline Despite this potential the archaeological study of maritime landscapes is a relatively untried approach with many questions regarding the methods and perspectives needed to effectively analyze these landscapes The chapters in this volume which include contributions from the United States the United Kingdom Norway and Australia address many of the theoretical and methodological questions surrounding maritime cultural landscapes The authors comprise established scholars as well as archaeologists at the beginning of their careers providing a healthy balance of experience and innovation The chapters also demonstrate parity between method and theory where the varying interpretations of culture and space are given equal weight with the challenges of investigating both wet and dry sites across large areas

Power and Landscape in Atlantic West Africa J. Cameron Monroe, Akinwumi Ogundiran, 2012-02-13 This volume applies insights drawn from the theories and methods of landscape archaeology to contribute to our understanding of the nature of West African societies in the Atlantic Era 17th 19th Centuries AD The authors adopt a broad set of methods and approaches to tackle how the nature and structures of African political and social relations changed across regions in this period This is only the second volume in a decade to focus on the archaeology of this period in West Africa and the first volume in sub Saharan Africanist archaeology to be focused in the recent past in one sub region of the continent from a coherent methodological and theoretical standpoint Provided by publisher

The Oxford Handbook of the Archaeology of Death and Burial Sarah Tarlow, Liv Nilsson Stutz, 2013-06-06 The Oxford Handbook of the Archaeology of Death and Burial reviews the current state of mortuary archaeology and its practice highlighting its often contentious place in the modern socio politics of archaeology It contains forty four chapters which focus on the history of the discipline and its current scientific techniques and methods Written by leading international scholars in the field it derives its examples and case studies from a wide range of time periods such as the middle palaeolithic to the twentieth century and geographical areas which include Europe North and South America Africa and Asia Combining up to date knowledge of relevant archaeological research with critical assessments of the theme and an evaluation of future research trajectories it draws attention to the social symbolic and theoretical aspects of interpreting mortuary archaeology The volume is well illustrated with maps plans photographs and illustrations and is ideally suited for students and researchers

Approaches to Monumental Landscapes of the Ancient Maya Brett A. Houk, Barbara Arroyo, Terry G. Powis, 2019-12-11 This volume brings together a wide spectrum of new approaches to ancient Maya studies in an innovative exploration of how the Preclassic and Classic Maya shaped their world Moving beyond the towering temples and palaces typically associated with the Maya civilization contributors present unconventional examples of monumental Maya landscapes Featuring studies from across the central Maya lowlands Belize and the northern and central Maya highlands and spanning over 10 000 years of human occupation in the region these chapters show how the word monumental can be used to describe natural and constructed landscapes political and economic landscapes and ritual and sacred landscapes Examples include a massive system of aqueducts and canals at the Kaminaljuyu site a vast arena designed for public spectacle at Chan Chich and even the complex realms of Maya cosmology as represented by the ritual cave at Las Cuevas By including physical conceptual and symbolic ways monumentality pervaded ancient Maya culture this volume broadens traditional understandings of how the Maya interacted with their environment and provides exciting analytical perspectives to guide future study A volume in the series Maya Studies edited by Diane Z Chase and Arlen F Chase Making Senses of the Past Jo Day, 2013-03-19 Since the nineteenth century museums have kept their artifacts in glass cases to better preserve them and drawings and photographs have become standard ways of presenting the past These practices have led to an archaeology dominated by visual description even though human interaction with the surrounding world involves the whole body and all of its senses In the past few years sensory archaeology has become more prominent and Making Senses of the Past is one of the first collected volumes on this subject This book presents cutting edge research on new theoretical issues The essays presented here take readers on a multisensory journey around the world and across time In ancient Peru a site provides sensory surprises as voices resound beneath the ground and hidden carvings slowly reveal their secrets In Canada and New Zealand the flicker of reflected light from a lake dances on the faces of painted rocks and may have influenced when and why the pigment was applied In Mesopotamia vessels for foodstuffs build a picture of a past cuisine that encompasses taste and social activity in the building of communities While perfume and flowers are examined in various cultures in the chamber tombs of ancient Roman Palestine we are reminded that not all smells are pleasant Making Senses of the Past explores alternative ways to perceive past societies and offers a new way of wiring archaeology that incorporates the senses Socialising Complexity Sheila Kohring, Stephanie Wynne-Jones, 2007-11-30 Socialising Complexity introduces the concept of complexity as a tool rather than a category for understanding social formations This new take on complexity moves beyond the traditional concern with what constitutes a complex society and focuses on the complexity inherent in various social forms through the structuring principles created within each society The aims and themes of the book can thus be summarized as follows to introduce the idea of complexity as a tool which is pertinent to the understanding of all types of society rather than an exclusionary type of society in its own right to examine concepts that can enhance our interpretation of societal complexity such as heterarchy materialization and contextualization These concepts are applied at different scales and in different ways illustrating their utility in a variety of different cases to reestablish social structure as a topic of study within archaeology which can be profitably studied by proponents of both processual and post processual methodologies
