The Artistry of Aeschylus and Zeami Mae J. Smethurst,2014-07-14 By means of a cross cultural analysis of selected examples of early Japanese and early Greek drama Mae Smethurst enhances our appreciation of each form While using the methods of a classicist to increase our understanding of no as literary texts she also demonstrates that the fifteenth century treatises of Zeami an important playwright actor critic and teacher of no offer fresh insight into Aeschylus use of actors language and various elements of stage presentation Relatively little documentation apart from the texts of the plays is available for the Greek theater of the fifth century B C but Smethurst uses documentation on no and evidence from no performances today to suggest how presentations of the Persians could have been so successful despite the play s lack of dramatic confrontation Aeschylean theater resembles that of Zeami in creating its powerful emotional and aesthetic effect through a coherent organization of structural elements Both playwrights used such methods as the gradual intensification of rhythmic and musical effects an increase in the number and complexity of the actors movements and a progressive focusing of attention on the main actors and on costumes masks and props during the course of the play Originally published in 1989 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905
