Social Movements And The Local Community Social Ecology Of The Community Series:

Community, Solidarity and Multilingualism in a Transnational Social Movement Maria Rosa Garrido Sardà, 2020-09-01
RUNNER UP FOR 2022 BAAL BOOK PRIZE Community solidarity and multilingualism in a transnational social movement presents a critical sociolinguistic ethnography of the Emmaus movement that analyses linguistic and discursive practices in two local communities in order to provide insight into solidarity discourses and transnational communication more broadly Integrating perspectives from a range of disciplines the monograph seeks to understand the ways in which social movements are maintained across disparate communities grounded in shared cultural referents and communicative practices but not necessarily a shared language The book focuses on Emmaus the solidarity movement that emerged in post war France which brings formerly marginalised people together with others looking for an alternative lifestyle into live in communities dedicated to recycling work and social projects The book first offers a historical overview of the Emmaus movement more generally moving into an account of its development and spread across national and linguistic borders The volume draws on data from two Emmaus communities in Barcelona and London to analyse the everyday communicative and discursive practices that appropriate and resignify the shared transnational movement ideas in different socio political economic historical and linguistic contexts Community solidarity and multilingualism in a transnational social movement considers the social implications of local practices on the situated re production and evolution of transnational social movements more generally and will be of particular interest to students and researchers in sociolinguistics linguistic anthropology discourse studies cultural studies and sociology

Social Ecology and the Right to the City Venturini Federico Venturini, 2020-03-01
Cities today are increasingly at the forefront of the environmental and social crisis they are simultaneously a major cause and a potential solution Across the world a new wave of urban social movements is rising to fight against corporate control social exclusion hostile immigration policies gender oppression and ecological devastation These movements are building economic social and political alternatives based on solidarity equality and participation This anthology develops the debates that began at the recent Transnational Institute of Social Ecology's TRISE conference about the dire need to rebuild the social and political realities of our world's cities It discusses the prospects of radical urban movements examines the revolutionary potential of the concept of the Right to the City and looks at how activists scholars and community movements can work together towards an ecological and democratic future A fruitful conversation between theory and practice this book opens new ground for rethinking systemic urban change in a way that challenges oppression and transforms how people work create and live together

Bioregionalism and Civil Society Mike Carr, 2004 Bioregionalism and Civil Society addresses the urgent need for sustainability in industrialized societies The book explores the bioregional movement in the US Canada and Mexico examining its vision values strategies and tools for building sustainable societies Bioregionalism is a philosophy with values and practices that attempt to meld issues of social and economic justice and sustainability with cultural ecological and spiritual concerns Further bioregional efforts of democratic social and cultural change take place primarily in the sphere of civil society Practically Carr argues for bioregionalism as a place specific community movement that can stand in diverse opposition to the homogenizing trends of corporate globalization Theoretically the author seeks lessons for civil society based social theory and strategy Conventional civil society theory from Europe proposes a dual strategy of developing strong horizontal communicative action among civic associations and networks as the basis for strategic vertical campaigns to democratize both state and market sectors However this theory offers no ecological or cultural critique of consumerism By contrast Carr integrates both social and natural ecologies in a civil society theory that incorporates lessons about consumption and cultural transformation from bioregional practice Carr's argument that bioregional values and community building tools support a diverse democratic socially just civil society that respects and cares for the natural world makes a significant contribution to the field of green political science social change theory and environmental thought The Social Welfare Forum National Conference of Social Work (U.S.). Transforming Asian Cities Nihal Perera, Wing-shing Tang, 2013 While there is no lack of studies on Asian cities the majority focus on financial districts poverty the slum tradition tourism and pollution and use the modern affluent and transforming Western city as the reference point This vast Asian empirical presence is not complemented by a theoretical presence academic discourses overlook common and basic urban processes particularly the production of space place and identity by ordinary citizens Switching the vantage point to Asian cities and citizens Transforming Asian Cities draws attention to how Asians produce their contemporary urban practices identities and spaces as part of resisting responding to and avoiding larger global and national processes Instead of viewing Asian cities in opposition to the Western city and using it as the norm this book instead opts to provincialize mainstream and traditional knowledge It argues that the vast terrain of ordinary actors and spaces which are currently left out should be reflected in academic debates and policy decisions and the local thinking processes that constitute these spaces need to be acknowledged enabled and critiqued The individual chapters illustrate that global spaces are more trans local traditional environments are more modern and Asian spaces are better defined than acknowledged The aim is to develop room for understandings of Asian cities from Asian standpoints especially acknowledging how Asians observe interpret understand and create space in their cities

Young People and Active Citizenship in Post-Soviet Times Beata Krzywosz-Rynkiewicz, Anna Zalewska, Kerry J. Kennedy, 2017-08-10 Situated within the context of post soviet times this book explores young people's citizenship activities and values in three distinct environments post soviet union countries post soviet union satellites and countries that were independent of the soviet union Its purpose is to investigate the influence of these contexts on the ways young people see their citizenship in what are now emerging democracies The future of nations depends to a large extent on whether citizens will continue to support existing values and will engage in activities to support those values Using a framework designed by Kennedy 2006 and further developed by Zalewska Krzywosz Rynkiewicz 2011 the study examined the citizenship values of 3794 students aged 11 14 18 from 11 European countries The main themes of this book include exploring similarities and differences in citizenship activities within countries and across countries advancing explanations for these similarities and differences highlighting the importance of contexts that influence citizenship activities and values and assessing the extent to which democratic values are reflected in young people's citizenship activities
