

SOCIOLOGICAL PARADIGMS

Sociological paradigms are the broad schools of thought in sociology. The three key sociological paradigms are functionalism, conflict theory, and symbolic interactionism.

1. FUNCTIONALISM

Argues that social stability is a prerequisite for a healthy and strong society. Social institutions contribute towards social stability. Abrupt social change imperils social order.

2. CONFLICT THEORY

Argues that society is built upon enduring inequality on the basis of social class, gender, race etc. Structural social change is required to create an egalitarian society.

3. SYMBOLIC INTERACTIONISM

Argues that we construct society through a range of symbols (e.g., words, gestures) and social interactions. People make up their roles as they interact.

between social theory and practical life The book has the special merit of being a good overview of the principal current ideas about the relation between social theory and political practice as well as an attempt at providing a new and more satisfactory account of this relationship To accomplish this task it synthesises work from the analytic philosophy of social science with that of the neo Marxism of the Frankfurt school

Science and the Sociology of Knowledge (RLE Social Theory) Michael Mulkay, 2014-08-07 How far is scientific knowledge a product of social life In addressing this question the major contributors to the sociology of knowledge have agreed that the conclusions of science are dependent on social action only in a very special and limited sense In Science and the Sociology of Knowledge Michael Mulkay's first aim is to identify the philosophical assumptions which have led to this view of science as special and to present a systematic critique of the standard philosophical account of science showing that there are no valid epistemological grounds for excluding scientific knowledge from the scope of sociological analysis The rest of the book is devoted to developing a preliminary interpretation of the social creation of scientific knowledge The processes of knowledge creation are delineated through a close examination of recent case studies of scientific developments Dr Mulkay argues that knowledge is produced by means of negotiation the outcome of which depends on the participants use of social as well as technical resources The analysis also shows how cultural resources are taken over from the broader social milieu and incorporated into the body of certified knowledge and how in the political context of society at large scientists technical as well as social claims are conditioned and affected by their social position

Clarity and Confusion in Social Theory Leonidas Tsilipakos, 2016-05-23 Departing from a concern with certain hard problems in social theory and focusing instead on the theoretical strategies employed in their solution especially on how these strategies depend on what the author calls the theoretical attitude towards language this book considers whether these strategies far from being indispensable guides to thinking might in fact lead social theorists to misunderstand the concepts constitutive of social life Making use of the insights and practice of Ordinary Language Philosophy understood as encompassing the work of Wittgenstein Ryle Austin and their followers Clarity and Confusion in Social Theory reveals the profound logical flaws in some of the central methodological procedures often employed in social theory for dealing with concepts offering alternative approaches to social scientists and philosophers for tackling the conceptual issues that have so bedevilled social science from its inception A lucid explication of Ordinary Language Philosophy and the potential that it offers for deepening and re-orienting theoretical work in the social sciences this volume apart from being a challenge to the influential Critical Realist paradigm constitutes a radical critique of social theoretical reason As such it will appeal to social theorists and philosophers of social science those with interests in research methods and theory construction and anyone interested in thinking clearly about society
