Antarctica and the Southern Ocean Nicholas Golledge,Eileen Hofmann,Marilyn Raphael ,Letizia Tedesco,2024-06-26 Antarctica is our southernmost continent It is nearly double the size of Australia Antarctica is covered almost entirely by land ice called the Antarctic Ice Sheet and is surrounded by the Southern Ocean The Southern Ocean influences climate by taking up heat and carbon dioxide from the atmosphere and storing it in deep waters The cloud processes and aerosols over the Southern Ocean are complex and are important challenges for climate models To understand the climate of the past polar scientists drill ice cores through the Antarctic Ice Sheet The ice core is a powerful tool that we can use to determine how the Earth's climate has changed and the information provided by historical ice cores has become extremely valuable for predicting the future scenarios of our planet This ice is the largest reservoir of fresh water on Earth The Antarctic Ice Sheet flows down into the Southern Ocean where parts of it start to float These large floating platforms of ice are called ice shelves Knowledge of the sensitivity and interaction of ice shelves to changes in atmosphere and ocean is important to understand the contribution of Antarctica to global sea level rise and the Southern Ocean and global marine ecosystems If melted the Antarctic Ice Sheet would be a major contributor to global sea level rise In winter the surface of the ocean around Antarctica freezes and sea ice forms At the height of winter the area of sea ice that forms is as large as Antarctica itself but it melts back to the continent every summer The amount of sea ice that forms in winter and melts back each summer is different We examine this annual fluctuation of sea ice area around Antarctica for indications of climate change Sea ice provides important habitats for primary producers such as sea ice algae and Antarctic krill a keystone species of the Southern Ocean ecosystem Sea ice is also an important habitat for penguins and seals This collection aims to inform young readers about fundamental knowledge and digested cutting edge science that will help increase their understanding of Antarctica and its central role as a global climate driver In addition to the Editors

Looking Like a Language, Sounding Like a Race Jonathan Rosa, 2019 Looking like a Language Sounding like a Race examines the emergence of linguistic and ethnoracial categories in the context of Latinidad The book draws from more than twenty four months of ethnographic and sociolinguistic fieldwork in a Chicago public school whose student body is more than 90% Mexican and Puerto Rican to analyze the racialization of language and its relationship to issues of power and national identity It focuses specifically on youth socialization to U S Latinidad as a contemporary site of political anxiety raciolinguistic transformation and urban inequity Jonathan Rosa's account studies the fashioning of Latinidad in Chicago's highly segregated Near Northwest Side he links public discourse concerning the rising prominence of U S Latinidad to the institutional management and experience of raciolinguistic identities there Anxieties surrounding Latinx identities push administrators to transform at risk Mexican and Puerto Rican students into young Latino professionals This institutional effort which requires students to learn to be and importantly sound like themselves in highly studied ways reveals administrators attempts to navigate a precarious urban terrain in a city grappling with some of the nation's highest youth homicide dropout and teen pregnancy rates Rosa explores the ingenuity of his research participants responses to these forms of marginalization through the contestation of political ethnoracial and linguistic borders

You Have to Pay for the Public Life Charles W. Moore, 2004-02-27 Previously uncollected essays of an architect whose love of people buildings and nature was reflected in the places he built Architect Charles Moore 1925 1993 was not only celebrated for his designs he was also an admired writer and teacher Though he wrote clearly and passionately about places he was perhaps unique in avoiding the tone and stance of the personal manifesto Through his buildings books and travels Moore consistently sought insights into the questions that always underlie architecture and design What does it mean to make a place and how do we inhabit those places How do we continue to build upon but respect the landscape How do we reconcile democracy and private land ownership What is original What is taste What is the relationship between past and present How do we involve inhabitants in making places Finally what is public life As the world becomes smaller and the uniqueness of places and landscapes gives way to sameness Moore's celebration of the vernacular and of the surprising are more relevant than ever The pieces in this book span the years 1952 to 1993 and engage a myriad of topics and movements such as contextualism community participation collaboration environmentally sensitive design and historic preservation The essays in this book reflect as well Moore's scholarship humanism urbanity and great wit
