Sources and Dynamics of Macroeconomic Fluctuations in Switzerland Alexander E. Kobler,2000 The Sources of Macroeconomic Fluctuations in Developing Countries Mr.Alexander W. Hoffmaister,Mr.Jorge Roldos,1996-02-01 This paper studies the sources of macroeconomic fluctuations in developing countries using a structural VAR approach Identification of the sources is achieved using long run restrictions derived from a theoretical model of a small open economy encompassing a large number of macroeconomic paradigms the short run dynamics are unrestricted This framework is applied to Brazil and Korea The results confirm that supply shocks are the main source of GDP fluctuations even in the short run Aggregate demand shocks are shown to be important in the short run in Brazil but not in Korea External shocks explain a small fraction of the variance of output whereas the real exchange rate is driven mainly by fiscal shocks Nominal shocks appear to have little impact on output and the real exchange rate [Introduction to Dynamic Macroeconomic General Equilibrium Models \[Second Edition\]](#) José L. Torres,2020-10-06 This book offers an introductory step by step course in Dynamic Stochastic General Equilibrium DSGE modelling Modern macroeconomic analysis is increasingly concerned with the construction calibration and or estimation and simulation of DSGE models The book is intended for graduate students as an introductory course to DSGE modelling and for those economists who would like a hands on approach to learning the basics of modern dynamic macroeconomic modelling The book starts with the simplest canonical neoclassical DSGE model and then gradually extends the basic framework incorporating a variety of additional features such as consumption habit formation investment adjustment cost investment specific technological change taxes public capital household production non ricardian agents monopolistic competition etc The book includes Dynare codes for the models developed that can be downloaded from the book s homepage The second edition is identical to the first with the exception of a revised appendix to Chapter 2 The revised appendix can be downloaded free of charge in the accompanying downloads section International Trade and the Business Cycle Mr.Eswar Prasad,1999-04-01 This paper develops a new empirical framework for analyzing the dynamics of the trade balance in response to different types of macroeconomic shocks The model provides a synthetic perspective on the conditional correlations between the business cycle and the trade balance that are generated by different shocks and attempts to reconcile these results with unconditional correlations found in the data The results suggest that in the post Bretton Woods period nominal shocks have been an important determinant of the forecast error variance for fluctuations in the trade balances of the Group of Seven countries Handbook on the History of Economic Analysis Volume III Gilbert Faccarello,Heinz D. Kurz,2016-07-27 This unique troika of Handbooks provides indispensable coverage of the history of economic analysis Edited by two of the foremost academics in the field the volumes gather together insightful and original contributions from scholars across the world The encyclopaedic breadth and scope of the original entries will make these Handbooks an invaluable source of knowledge for all serious students and scholars of the history of economic Hoffmaister,1997-07-01 The sources of macroeconomic fluctuations in sub Saharan African are examined by comparing the CFA franc countries with the non CFA franc countries External shocks especially terms of trade shocks appear to have a greater influence on fluctuations of output and the real exchange rate in CFA franc countries This result does not appear to be associated with differences in the economic structure but may reflect the fixed exchange rate regime which does not partially buffer these countries from external shocks Macroeconomic fluctuations in non CFA franc countries are similar to those in other developing countries particularly in Latin America Dynamic Modelling and Control of National Economies 1989 N.M. Christodoulakis,2014-06-28 The Symposium aimed at analysing and solving the various problems of representation and analysis of decision making in economic systems starting from the level of the individual firm and ending up with the complexities of international policy coordination The papers are grouped into subject areas such as game theory control methods international policy coordination and the applications of artificial intelligence and experts systems as a framework in economic modelling and control The Symposium therefore provides a wide range of important information for those involved or interested in the planning of company and national economics The Elgar Companion to Post Keynesian Economics J.
