

Nonviolence Movement, South Africa Struggle for New Order

Phillip Manyok, PhD

Abstract: In this case analysis, the writer traced a brief history of nonviolence to teachings of Jesus and Buddha. The goal was to provide readers with basic knowledge and to establish core base of exploring and understanding the intricacies of the struggle in challenging Apartheid in South Africa. In order to achieve that, the writer approaches the study by first discussing three forms of nonviolence that serve as the basis of analysis namely nonviolent protest, noncooperation, and nonviolent intervention. To further put these forms of nonviolence into perspective, the writer utilizes three theoretical frames of analysis: structural analysis of oppression, noncooperation and self-realization theories to analyze the race relationship between whites and blacks in South Africa.

Keywords: Nonviolence, nibbāna, dhamma, apartheid, Satyagraha, national party, African National Congress, Afrikaners, and negotiation.

1. INTRODUCTION

The practice of nonviolence is not new to humanity. Its history goes way back to Buddha, and Jesus time for those who are familiar with these literatures. Some people consider nonviolence as another way of life. Buddha for example centered his teaching on two main principles. The first principle is nibbāna which means freedom from hate, fear and illusion [6]. It is a principle or belief rooted in harmony, cohabitation, loving/kindness for each other, and self-worthiness.

The second Buddha's principle is Dhamma which means path to liberation. Dhamma or path to liberation principle calls for detachment from position of power, authority, ideology, dogmas and scriptures not by force or violence but through reasoning [6]. Dhamma's central belief is that through reasoning, people gradually deepen their understanding of the world and become detached from authority by holding on to their own reasoning or knowledge. Buddha argued that deepening one's own experiences leads to self-autonomy or liberates one from toxic ideas, philosophies, authorities, dogmas and scriptures [6]. Buddha summed up Dhamma or path to liberation in these words:

"Like one whom a poisoned arrow is removed, the student of Dhamma will experience relief from pain, like a cat who eats nourishing food, the student of Dhamma will know the tastes of liberation." Buddha 563-483 B.C.E

In essence, these words implied, for people to be able to liberate themselves from dangerous ideas, they must be willing to seek greater understanding of themselves to gradually acquire knowledge which enables them to enter into a path of liberation. Put it differently, seeking deeper understanding and experience is a lifelong endeavor. It requires practices, self-harmony, honesty, patience, self-discipline, open mindedness, moral character, and disciplined courage. Through his own works and beliefs, Buddha earned himself a place among the founders of modern nonviolence. His call for middle way of living a life of love, kindness, harmony, self-worthiness, intangible power of knowledge, self-discipline and more importantly a moral character are few examples of common characteristics of a nonviolence activist. From a rational perspective, moral character calls for moral responsibility e.g. hating killings, suffering, violence, corruption, and enmity.

Also, the teachings about nonviolence have been practiced by Christians for centuries going back to Jesus days. For example, Jesus taught his followers to practice love and not hate anyone. In 1 John 3: 15 for example, Jesus promoted love over hate by declaring, "Anyone who hates his brother is a murderer." Or in the letter of Apostle Paul to Roman

South Africa The Struggle For A New Order:

South Africa Marina Ottaway, 2010-12-01 The unbanning of the African National Congress and the release of Nelson Mandela in February of 1990 cleared the way for negotiations toward a new post apartheid political order in South Africa But three years later the main parties have made little progress toward a compromise while violence escalates in the townships In this revealing study Marina Ottaway examines the new conflicts emerging in South Africa the factors influencing them and the probable outcome She shows that the black on white conflict that has made the country a pariah in the past has evolved into a much more complex state of affairs and explains that the transition is likely to take an unprecedented form Beginning with a brief history of the events since Mandela's release Ottaway provides a vivid account of the evolving conflict over apartheid She discusses the complexity of conflict resolution in a country where internal and external currents work against each other and where the struggle for power transcends any strides toward peace Ottaway thoroughly addresses the issues involved in South Africa's transition from apartheid She explains that the abolition of the pervasive system has more far reaching implications than originally thought South Africa explores the effects that the international climate of the 1990s has had on the country's transition Ottaway contends that the international community rejects apartheid but is unsympathetic to black demands for redistribution and has condemned the white government's vision of separate development but accepts ethnic nationalism as inevitable She describes the dramatic effects the new world order has had on South Africa and assesses what those changes will mean to the country's difficult transition

South Africa's Weapons of Mass Destruction Helen E. Purkitt, Stephen F. Burgess, 2005-05-11 South Africa's Weapons of Mass Destruction offers an in depth view of the secret development and voluntary disarmament of South Africa's nuclear biological and chemical weapons program Project Coast Helen E Purkitt and Stephen F Burgess explore how systems used for nuclear biological and chemical weapons in South Africa were acquired and established beyond the gaze of international and domestic political actors On the basis of archival evidence from Project Coast and their own extensive interviews with military and political officials Purkitt and Burgess consider what motivates countries to acquire and build such powerful weaponry and examine when and how decisions are made to dismantle a military arsenal voluntarily Questions such as how to destroy weapons safely and keep them from reappearing on international markets are considered along with comparative strategies for successful disarmament in other nation states

Transforming Violent Political Movements Kevin E. Grisham, 2014-03-21 This book explores the factors that influence violent rebellious political organisations to transform into other entities such as political parties criminal organisations and terrorist organisations From the end of the Second World War until 1990 many events in the world centred on the bipolar struggle between the United States and the USSR Although there were numerous civil wars occurring during the Cold War era many of these conflicts went virtually unnoticed unless they were linked to the Cold War struggle for ideological dominance In the aftermath of the fall of the Soviet Union the number of intra state conflicts was prevalent around the globe Along with the occurrence of civil wars a variety of violent political movements also developed Examining cases from Latin America Africa Europe and Asia this book addresses how violent political movements transform during and after conflict into new types of organisations using the collective political violence transformative CPVT model The study uses a combination of pre existing literature from the fields of sociology and political science archival research and interviews with movement members former and active conducted by the author In studying the Provisional IRA and Sinn Féin in the Spear of the Nation MK and the African National Congress ANC the Abu Sayyaf Group and the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia FARC EP Transforming Violent Political Movements paints a picture of organisations that have to respond to their environments to survive This book will be of much interest to students of political violence terrorism war and conflict studies security studies and IR

State, 1995 Autonomy and Ethnicity Yash P. Ghai, 2000-10-12 This book first published in 2000 deals with one of the most urgent problems of contemporary times the political organisation of multi ethnic states Most major conflicts of our time are internal to the state and revolve around the claims of access to or the redesign of the state Responses to ethnic conflicts have ranged from oppression and ethnic cleansing to accommodations of ethnic claims through affirmative policies special forms of representation power sharing and the integration of minorities One of the most sought after and resisted devices for conflict management is autonomy Within an overarching framework that examines different understandings of ethnic consciousness and the variety of territorial autonomies the authors examine the experiences of spatial distribution of power in Canada India China South Africa Ethiopia PNG Spain the former Yugoslavia Cyprus Sri Lanka and Australia

Broadcasting the End of Apartheid Martha Evans, 2014-07-15 South Africa came late to television when it finally arrived in the late 1970s the rest of the world had already begun to boycott the country because of apartheid While the ruling National Party feared the integrative effects of television they did not foresee how exclusion from globally unifying broadcasts would gradually erode their power South Africa was barred from participating in some of television's greatest global attractions including sporting events such as the Olympics and contests such as Miss World With the release of Nelson Mandela from prison came a proliferation of large scale live broadcasts as the country was permitted to return to international competition and its readmittance was played out on television screens across the world These events were pivotal in shaping and consolidating the country's emerging post apartheid national identity Broadcasting the End of Apartheid assesses the socio political effects of live broadcasting on South Africa's transition to democracy Martha Evans argues that just as print media had a powerful influence on the development of Afrikaner nationalism so the liveness of television helped to consolidate the post apartheid South African national identity Comparative Democratization and Peaceful Change in Single-Party-Dominant Countries M. Rimaneli, 2016-01-26 One of the more positive international trends as of late has been the transformation of several countries from authoritarian based dictatorships and single party systems into multi party democracies characterized by peaceful political transitions In this volume a group of experts are gathered to analyse this progression on a comparative level The scholars examine previously right wing regimes in Brazil Argentina and South Africa former Communist states in Russia Poland Hungary and Czechoslovakia and single party dominant democracies in Italy Japan Mexico and Israel The essays reveal how the dramatic collapse of the USSR functioned as a crucial catalyst in allowing pent up domestic pressures for change to emerge in a less charged international environment In addition the chapters study the historical and current evolution of these countries focusing on their success in developing long term pluralistic structures and gauging whether these recent trends are more overnight fads than long lasting advancements

Robben Island and Prisoner Resistance to Apartheid Fran Lisa Buntman, 2003-10-27 Table of contents Funding Virtue Marina Ottaway, 2000 The United States and many other international donors have embraced civil society aid as a key tool of democracy promotion This collection of essays analyzes civil society aid in five regions South Africa the Philippines Peru Egypt and Romania focusing on crucial issues and dilemmas Constitutionalism and Transitional Justice in South Africa Andrea Lollini, 2011 Over the last fifteen years the South African postapartheid Transitional Amnesty Process implemented by the Truth and Reconciliation Commission TRC has been extensively analyzed by scholars and commentators from around the world and from almost every discipline of human sciences Lawyers historians anthropologists and sociologists as well as political scientists have tried to understand describe and comment on the shocking South African political decision to give amnesty to all who fully disclosed their politically motivated crimes committed during the apartheid era Investigating the postapartheid transition in South Africa from a multidisciplinary perspective involving constitutional law criminal law history and political science this book explores the overlapping of the postapartheid constitution making process and the Amnesty Process for political violence under apartheid and shows that both processes represent important innovations in terms of constitutional law and transitional justice systems Both processes contain mechanisms that encourage the constitution of the unity of the political body while ensuring future solidity and stability From this perspective the book deals with the importance of several concepts such as truth about the past publicly shared memory unity of the political body and public confession

Elements of Peacemaking Revolutions Sapir Handelman, 2021-09-24 Intractable conflict is a protracted violent and long time struggle wherein generation after generation is socially conditioned to continue fighting To break the chain of destruction a revolutionary peacemaking process is required This book serves as an introduction to the study of peacemaking revolutions which are necessary to build a peaceful and well functioning society in desperate intractable conflict situations The challenge of peacemaking revolution is to turn opposing parties into a peacemaking community A peacemaking community offers political platforms to involve the different societal elements of the opposing parties in the struggle for change It offers a consensus building process that approaches the conflict from different sides dimensions and directions This book provides a fresh perspective to the study of destructive social conflicts their transformation and resolution It will serve to provoke a critical discussion among those who are interested in the new emerging study of peacemaking revolutions

Economic Statecraft and Foreign Policy Jean-Marc F. Blanchard, Norrin M. Ripsman, 2013-07-18 This book develops a unified theory of economic statecraft to clarify when and how sanctions and incentives can be used effectively to secure meaningful policy concessions High profile applications of economic statecraft have yielded varying degrees of success The mixed record of economic incentives and economic sanctions in many cases raises important questions Under what conditions can states modify the behaviour of other states by offering them tangible economic rewards or by threatening to disrupt existing economic relations To what extent does the success of economic statecraft depend on the magnitude of economic penalties and rewards In order to answer these questions this book develops two analytic models one weighs the threats economic statecraft poses to the Target's Strategic Interests TSI while the other stateness assesses the degree to which the target state is insulated from domestic political pressures that senders attempt to generate or exploit Through a series of carefully crafted case studies including African apartheid and Japanese incentives to obtain the return of the Northern Territories the authors demonstrate how their model can yield important policy insights in regards to contemporary economic sanctions and incentives cases such as Iran and North Korea This book will be of much interest to students of statecraft sanctions diplomacy foreign policy and international security in general

remarkable life that broke down racial barriers transformed institutions and energized the struggle for justice by the former president of the Ford Foundation Frank has that quality of honesty and authenticity and people trusted him and because very disparate people trusted him he could bring them together across their differences Gloria Steinem Franklin Thomas was one of the most influential people of our time As former president of the Ford Foundation the first African American to hold this position former president of the Bedford Stuyvesant Restoration Corporation the first community development organization of its kind member of countless corporate boards and a key player in facilitating the end of the apartheid era in South Africa Thomas shaped public policy philanthropy and the movement for human rights for over half a century An Unplanned Life offers an insider's account of some of the most crucial transformations of the contemporary era efforts to rebuild America's cities struggles to reform philanthropy and the quest to establish a global order based on human rights and racial equity As a story of firsts Franklin's memoir also chronicles a formative era when a generation of African Americans first broke through into the halls of power navigating complicated and sometimes treacherous cultural and political currents Much of Franklin Thomas's life was marked by his desire to stay out of the spotlight and to let his accomplishments speak for themselves Now in An Unplanned Life we have Thomas's full story in all of its nuance drama and richly narrated detail

The New Order of War, 2010-01-01 Far from heralding a time of unprecedented peace the end of actually existing communism served to usher in new conflicts new wars and new reasons for war That much goes without saying What is controversial however is how we might understand and respond to these new wars This book offers a new approach Its distinctive and multidisciplinary range of perspectives offering quite different views is based on the conviction that if we are to begin to get to grips with this central feature of our 21st Century lives we have to go beyond an unhelpful moralism on the one hand and a defeatist appeal to human nature on the other

(Re)Constructing Memory: Textbooks, Identity, Nation, and State James H. Williams, Wendy D. Bokhorst-Heng, 2016-07-08 This book engages readers in thirteen conversations presented by authors from around the world regarding the role that textbooks play in helping readers imagine membership in the nation Authors' voices come from a variety of contexts some historical some contemporary some providing analyses over time But they all consider the changing portrayal of diversity belonging and exclusion in multiethnic and diverse societies where silenced invisible marginalized members have struggled to make their voices heard and to have their identities incorporated into the national narrative The authors discuss portrayals of past exclusions around religion ethnicity sexual orientation as they look at the shifting boundaries of insider and outsider This book is thus about who we are not only demographically but also in terms of the past especially how and whether we teach discredited pasts through textbooks The concluding chapters provides ways forward in thinking about what can be done to promote curricula that are more inclusive critical and positively bonding in increasingly larger and more inclusive contexts

Revisiting Regionalism and the Contemporary World Order Élise Féron, Jyrki Käkönen, Gabriel Rached, 2019-10-28 The book critically analyzes the ongoing changes in the regional intra regional and global dynamics of cooperation from a multi disciplinary and pluralist perspective It is based on the insight that in a post hegemonic world the formation of regions and the process of globalization can be largely disconnected from the orbit of the US and that a plurality of power and worldviews has replaced US hegemony In spite of these changes most existing analyses of current changes in the world order still rely upon Western centered approaches and Westphalian thinking Against this backdrop the book proposes to advance a truly global IR understanding of the post hegemonic world and weaves together the pluralist and multi disciplinary perspectives of scholars located all around the world

Localising Memory in Transitional Justice Mina Rauschenbach, Julia Viebach, Stephan Parmentier, 2022-05-30 This collection adds to the critical transitional justice scholarship that calls for transitional justice from below and that makes visible the complex and oftentimes troubled entanglements between justice endeavours locality and memory making Broadening this perspective it explores informal memory practices across various contexts with a focus on their individual and collective dynamics and their intersections reaching also beyond a conceptualisation of memory as mere symbolic reparation and politics of memory It seeks to highlight the hidden unwritten and multifaceted in today s memory boom by focusing on the memorialisation practices of communities activists families and survivors Organising its analytical focal point around the localisation of memory it offers valuable and new insights on how and under what conditions localised memory practices may contribute to recognition and social transformation as well as how they may at best be inclusive or exclusive of dynamic and diverse memories Drawing on inter and multi disciplinary approaches this book brings an in depth and nuanced understanding of local memory practices and the dynamics attached to these in transitional justice contexts It will be of much interest to students and scholars of memory and genocide studies peace and conflict studies transitional justice sociology and anthropology

The Era of the New Order Pasquale De Marco, 2025-04-13 In a world teetering on the precipice of tyranny the once great nation of Britannia has succumbed to the machinations of a totalitarian regime Democracy once the bedrock of their society has been systematically dismantled replaced by an iron fist that brooks no dissent The architects of this dystopian order preyed upon the populace s deepest fears exploiting them to consolidate their power and silence any opposition Under the suffocating weight of oppression the media has become a mere mouthpiece for the regime spewing propaganda and misinformation to maintain the illusion of control The unyielding gaze of surveillance cameras scrutinizes every move stifling individuality and creativity History itself has been distorted and rewritten erasing the inconvenient truths that challenge the regime s authority Minorities and marginalized groups face relentless persecution their voices silenced in the deafening echo of conformity Yet amidst the darkness embers of resistance flicker Underground movements composed of courageous individuals who dare to defy the regime emerge from the shadows Acts of civil disobedience though small and seemingly insignificant serve as beacons of hope reminding the people of their inherent power The arts literature and culture become vessels of dissent subtly challenging the regime s narrative and inspiring quiet acts of rebellion This book delves into the depths of this dystopian world exploring the insidious machinations of power the resilience of the human spirit and the enduring struggle for freedom and dignity Through a series of thought provoking essays and analyses it examines the erosion of civil liberties the dangers of historical amnesia and the importance of maintaining a vigilant citizenry With its incisive insights and unflinching examination of the human condition under oppression this book serves as a powerful reminder of the fragility of democracy and the eternal struggle against tyranny It is a clarion call for vigilance a testament to the indomitable nature of the human spirit and an exploration of the depths to which humanity can sink when freedom is surrendered If you like this book write a review on google books
