Deng,2011-10-01

The civil war that has intermittently raged in the Sudan since independence in 1956 is according to Francis Deng a conflict of contrasting and seemingly incompatible identities in the Northern and Southern parts of the country Identity is seen as a function of how people identify themselves and are identified in racial ethnic cultural linguistic and religious terms The identity question related to how such concepts determine or influence participation and distribution in the political economic social and cultural life of the country War of Visions aims at shedding light on the anomalies of the identity conflict The competing models in the Sudan are the Arab Islamic mold of the North representing two thirds of the country in territory and population and the remaining Southern third which is indigenously African in race ethnicity culture and religion with an educated Christianized elite But although the North is popularly defined as racially Arab the people are a hybrid of Arab and African elements with the African physical characteristics predominating in most tribal groups This configuration is the result of a historical process that stratified races cultures and religions and fostered a passing into the Arab Islamic mold that discriminated against the African race and cultures The outcome of this process is a polarization that is based more on myth than on the realities of the situation The identity crisis has been further complicated by the fact that Northerners want to fashion the country on the basis of their Arab Islamic identity while the South is decidedly resistant Francis Deng presents three alternative approaches to the identity crisis First he argues that by bringing to the surface the realities of the African elements of identity in the North thereby revealing characteristics shared by all Sudanese a new basis for the creation of a common identity could be established that fosters equitable

Drayton (The Taker) Tony Bertauski,2010-09-24 Drayton once believed he was a vampire He doesn t know what he is Or why he has lived for thousands of years He takes not his victim s blood but the silky essence of their soul during their last breath Often mistaken for the Angel of Death his victims sometimes ask for forgiveness Sometimes he delivers After all he is not without sin Blake Barnes commits suicide by freezing on Mt Hood As his life fades he assumes Death has come to him in the form of a young man In his last moments he asks Death to find his family to tell them he s sorry Drayton honors this last request as he absorbs Blake Barnes waning essence He travels to the Lowcountry of South Carolina to find his family But saying sorry is not always as easy as the words imply Drayton seeks to unravel the mess Blake Barnes has left behind and the predator he s unleashed on his family

INTERVIEW WITH THE AUTHOR Did you ever think you d write about vampires Nope Drayton came out of nowhere when I was at a community theatre production of Dracula I figured that an immortal vampire would more likely become compassionate and wise as he grew older Twilight put a different spin on the vampire genre much different than Nosferatu Drayton s nothing like Twilight Or Nosferatu What s a downside to writing a character similar that s similar to you Predictable Boring If every book I write is similar it ceases to surprise the reader That s what I loved about Drayton he was just the opposite of me This paranormal being was fearless not out of bravado but the wisdom brought about by countless years of immortality I called him a vampire because it was the word that fit him the best in his early years but he became something much for that Whatever a vampire becomes after the gore and bloodsucking sort of like the caterpillar and butterfly Do your characters ever resemble you in your beliefs Some do But there are others that are just fun to go the other way especially antagonists I do find it interesting even courageous when authors can write very demented sick and twisted antagonists It s very revealing to show the world what s bouncing around in your head What do you think is the most important aspect of writing a character Letting him or her grow in my head It s when I m driving to work taking a shower or lying in bed that they come to life It s also one of the most gratifying elements of writing I ve enjoyed letting this vampire walk through my mind leaving his short stories behind Outlook ,1914 Buildings and Building Management ,1928 Vols for 1933 42 include an annual directory number for 1959 an annual roster of realtors
