South Africas Environmental History Cases Comparisons Ecology History:

South Africa's Environmental History Stephen Dovers, Ruth Edgecombe, Bill Guest, 2003 This is a study of the impact of humans on the environment in the history of South Africa and the role that the environment has played in shaping the history of human development in the country It consists of two parts The first is a series of local and particular studies such as the invasion of prickly pear in the Eastern Cape the impact of windmills and barbed wire on farming practice and the environment in the Karoo and ecological change in the Lake St Lucia region The second is a series of regional and continental comparisons that consider the similarities and differences in the environmental histories of South Africa South America South Asia Australia and the rest of Africa book cover Rethinking South Africa's Past Christopher J. Lee, Andrew Offenburger, 2025-03-18 This book presents key historical scholarship published in Safundi from 1999 to 2024 tracing South Africa's past through approaches of comparative history transnational history and visual history in addition to addressing the importance of topics like gender labor and class dynamics as well as regional historiographies The first section of the book focuses on comparative history as a founding method for Safundi given the journal s origins in American and South African studies while also recalibrating this approach through a variety of topics cities biographies and practices of violence rather than nation states writ large Drawing upon innovative sources of evidence the second section moves beyond the comparative method to address transnational histories as a new narrative technique for storytelling and analysis Whether issues of education immigration or visiting musicians to South Africa these chapters demonstrate the importance of a post national approach for understanding the past The sections that follow fan out into other subject areas including the uses of visual history gender roles class cultures and environmental history all of which illuminate connections between South African history and other parts of the world This book will be an indispensable resource for scholars students activists and policymakers as well as those readers who are generally interested in understanding South Africa's complex history over the past several centuries A Companion to Global Environmental History J. R. McNeill, Erin Stewart Mauldin, 2015-05-04 The Companion to Global Environmental History offers multiple points of entry into the history and historiography of this dynamic and fast growing field to provide an essential road map to past developments current controversies and future developments for specialists and newcomers alike Combines temporal geographic thematic and contextual approaches from prehistory to the present day Explores environmental thought and action around the world to give readers a cultural intellectual and political context for engagement with the environment in modern times Brings together environmental historians from around the world including scholars from South Africa Brazil Germany and China

The Oxford Handbook of Environmental History Andrew C. Isenberg, 2017 The Oxford Handbook of Environmental History draws on a wealth of new scholarship to offer diverse perspectives on the state of the field Imperial Gullies Kate Barger Showers, 2005 Once the grain basket for South Africa much of Lesotho has become a scarred and treeless wasteland

The nation's spectacular gullying has concerned environmentalists and conservationists for more than half a century In Imperial Gullies Soil Erosion and Conservation in Lesotho Kate B Showers documents the truth behind this devastation Showers reconstructs the history of the landscape beginning with a history of the soil She concludes that Lesotho s distinctive erosion chasms called dongas often cited as an example of destructive land use practices by African farmers actually were caused by colonial and postcolonial practices. The residents of Lesotho emerge as victims of a failed technology Their efforts to mitigate or resist implementation of destructive soil conservation engineering works were thwarted and they were blamed for the consequences of policies promoted by international soil conservationists since the 1930s Imperial Gullies calls for an observational experimental and most importantly a fully consultative and participatory approach to address Lesotho's serious contemporary problems of soil erosion. The first book to bring to center stage the historical practice of colonial soil science and a cautionary tale of western science in unfamiliar terrain it will interest a broad interdisciplinary audience in African and environmental studies social sciences and history Showers shows how local people understood that colonial contour conservation methods and road building actually stimulated gully erosion something colonial scientists failed to realize Overall it is undoubtedly one of the most important books written to date on any part of the environmental history of Africa Moreover it stands out in the discipline of environmental history in general as an unusually sophisticated work of great insight and explanatory power Richard H Grove author of Green Imperialism Colonial Expansion Tropical Island Edens and the Origins of Environmentalism 1600 1860 Kate B Showers is a visiting research fellow and senior research associate at the Centre for World Environmental History University of Sussex England She has lived in rural Lesotho and has served as head of research Institute of Southern African Studies National University of Lesotho

Creating Africas Knut Nustad, 2015-05-21 In Africa conflicts between protected areas for fauna and flora and space for their surrounding human populations continue despite years spent trying to find an accommodation between the needs of both parties Creating Africas investigates the roots of the current conservation boom demonstrates that it is part of a struggle over various definitions of existing realities and examines the global effects of this struggle The book discusses the first UNESCO World Heritage Site in South Africa the Isimangaliso St Lucia Wetland Park Here conservation interests are pitted against those of industrial forestry commercial farming and local communities struggling to have their lands returned to them They all seek to define and create their own realities but do so with very different resources at their disposal In his expert analysis Nustad treats these realities not as different representations but rather as multiple often competing viewpoints that involve a wide range of actors both human and non human Nustad posits that in order to avoid being accused of neo colonial land grabbing the conservation lobby will need to find a new way of imagining nature and protection that includes people

Triumph of the Expert Joseph Morgan Hodge, 2007 Triumph of the Expert is a history of British colonial policy and thinking and its contribution to the emergence of rural development and environmental policies in the late colonial and postcolonial period The Balancing of Interests in Environmental Law in Africa Willemien Du Plessis, 2011 Now that economic development is starting to pick up in many countries in Africa the question arises how such development can be balanced with the need for adequate environmental protection This crucial issue inherent in the notion of sustainable development is addressed in this innovative and path breaking volume For the first time academics from seventeen African countries have joined forces to analyse the way in which economic and environmental interests are balanced in their legal systems. The authors all use a common framework to improve the comparability of the country studies. The different country related chapters do not only provide insights into the formally applicable legal rules law in the books but given that the book brings together academics aware of the practice in Africa they also describe the way in which environmental policy functions in practice law in action Many case studies with conceptual analyses are provided of pollution incidents and the way in which administrative agencies or courts have on those occasions balanced the interests between the economy society and the environment A critical comparative analysis by the editors points at tendencies towards convergence and points of divergence between the African countries Suggestions for policy reform are also formulated showing African countries how they can benefit from experiences in the US and Europe This thought provoking volume is a must for anyone academic policymaker or practitioner interested in sustainable development generally and in Africa in particular P 4 of cover

Forestry and Water Conservation in South Africa Brett Bennett, Fred Kruger, 2015-11-11 This innovative interdisciplinary study focuses on the history science and policy of tree planting and water conservation in South Africa South Africa s forestry sector has sat often controversially at the crossroads of policy and scientific debates regarding water conservation economic development and biodiversity protection Bennett and Kruger show how debates about the hydrological impact of exotic tree planting in South Africa shaped the development of modern scientific ideas and state policies relating to timber plantations water conservation invasive species control and biodiversity management within South Africa as well as elsewhere in the world Forestry and Water Conservation in South Africa shows how scientific research on the impact of exotic and native vegetation led to the development of a comprehensive national policy for conserving water producing timber and protecting indigenous species from invasive alien plants Policies and laws relating to forests and water began to change in the late 1980s and early 1990s as a result of political and administrative changes within South Africa This book suggests that the country's contemporary policies towards timber plantations guided by the National Water Act of 1998 need to be reconsidered in light of the authors findings Bennett and Kruger also call for more interdisciplinary research and greater emphasis on integrated policies and management plans for forestry invasive alien plants water conservation and biodiversity preservation Environmental History of Water Petri S. Juuti, Tapio Katko, H. Vuorinen, 2007-02-01 The World Water Development Report 2003 pointed out the extensive problem that Sadly the tragedy of the water crisis is not simply a result of lack of water but is essentially one of poor water governance Cross sectional and historical intra national and international comparisons have been recognized as a valuable method of study in different sectors of human life including technologies and governance Environmental History of Water fills this gap with its main focus being on water and sanitation services and their evolution Altogether 34 authors have written 30 chapters for this multidisciplinary book which divides into four chronological parts from ancient cultures to the challenges of the 21st century each with its introduction and conclusions written by the editors The authors represent such disciplines as history of technology history of public health public policy development studies sociology engineering and management sciences This book emphasizes that the history of water and sanitation services is strongly linked to current water management and policy issues as well as future implications Geographically the book consists of local cases from all inhabited continents The key penetrating themes of the book include especially population growth health water consumption technological choices and governance There is great need for general long term analysis at the global level Lessons learned from earlier societies help us to understand the present crisis and challenges This new book Environmental History of Water provides this analysis by studying these lessons Environmental History? Johnson Donald Hughes, 2006-12-08 What is environmental history. It is a kind of history that seeks understanding of human beings as they have lived worked and thought in relationship to the rest of nature through the changes brought by time In this seminal student textbook J Donald Hughes provides a masterful overview of the thinkers topics and perspectives that have come to constitute the exciting discipline that is environmental history He does so on a global scale drawing together disparate trends from a rich variety of countries into a unified whole illuminating trends and key themes in the process Those already familiar with the discipline will find themselves invited to think about the subject in a new way Students and scholars new to environmental history will find the book both an indispensable guide and a rich source of inspiration for future work The Oxford Handbook of Public History James B. Gardner, Paula Hamilton, 2017 Public history is a large and complex field with boundaries methods and subjects that are hotly debated and the Oxford Handbook of Public History reflects these complexities This book defines public history as a transnational field and public history work as analytical and active practical work informed by thoughtful reflection The book locates public history as a professional practice within an intellectual framework that is increasingly democratic technological and transnational Environment, Power, and Justice Graeme Wynn, Jane Carruthers, Nancy J. Jacobs, 2022-07-26 Spanning the colonial postcolonial and postapartheid eras these historical and locally specific case studies analyze and engage vernacular activist and scholarly efforts to mitigate social environmental inequity This book highlights the ways poor and vulnerable people in South Africa Lesotho and Zimbabwe have mobilized against the structural and political forces that deny them a healthy and sustainable environment Spanning the colonial postcolonial and postapartheid eras these studies engage vernacular activist and scholarly efforts to mitigate social environmental inequity Some chapters track the genealogies of contemporary activism while others introduce positions actors and thinkers not previously identified with environmental justice Addressing health economic opportunity agricultural policy and food security the chapters in this book explore a range of issues and ways of thinking about harm to people and their ecologies Because environmental justice is often understood as a contemporary phenomenon framed around North American examples these fresh case studies will enrich both southern African history and global environmental studies Environment Power and Justice expands conceptions of environmental justice and reveals discourses and dynamics that advance both scholarship and social change Contributors Christopher Conz Marc Epprecht Mary Galvin Sarah Ives Admire Mseba Muchaparara Musemwa Matthew A Schnurr Cherryl Walker Environmental History? J. Donald Hughes, 2016-01-11 What is environmental history It is a kind of history that seeks understanding of human beings as they have lived worked and thought in relationship to the rest of nature through the changes brought by time In this new edition of his seminal student textbook J Donald Hughes provides a masterful overview of the thinkers topics and perspectives that have come to constitute the exciting discipline that is environmental history He does so on a global scale drawing together disparate trends from a rich variety of countries into a unified whole illuminating trends and key themes in the process Those already familiar with the discipline will find themselves invited to think about the subject in a new way This new edition has been updated to reflect recent developments trends and new work in environmental history as well as a brand new note on its possible future Students and scholars new to environmental history will find the book both an indispensable guide and a rich source of inspiration for future work Wielding the Ax Thaddeus Sunseri, 2014-08-26 Forests have been at the fault lines of contact between African peasant communities in the Tanzanian coastal hinterland and outsiders for almost two centuries In recent decades a global call for biodiversity preservation has been the main challenge to Tanzanians and their forests Thaddeus Sunseri uses the lens of forest history to explore some of the most profound transformations in Tanzania from the nineteenth century to the present He explores anticolonial rebellions the world wars the depression the Cold War oil shocks and nationalism through their intersections with and impacts on Tanzania's coastal forests and woodlands In Wielding the Ax forest history becomes a microcosm of the origins nature and demise of colonial rule in East Africa and of the first fitful decades of independence Wielding the Ax is a story of changing constellations of power over forests beginning with African chiefs and forest spirits both known as ax wielders and ending with international conservation experts who wield scientific knowledge as a means to controlling forest access The modern international concern over tropical deforestation cannot be understood without an awareness of the long term history of these forest struggles "Where We Used to Plough" Christiane Naumann, 2017 This book offers a historically and ethnographically informed case study of environmental governance institutional and land use change and livelihood strategies in a former homeland in the South African Free State province Based on rich archival material the author reconstructs how the state invented a degradation narrative and used it as legitimation for the regulation of human environment relations during the twentieth century In addition the study investigates how people today make a living in a post agrarian society characterized by low agricultural production diversification of non farm incomes and declining population numbers declining population numbers Author Christiane Naumann is a lecturer at the Department of Social and Cultural Anthropology at the University of Cologne Biological Invasions in South Africa Brian W. van Wilgen, John Measey, David M. Richardson, John R. Wilson, Tsungai A. Zengeya, 2020-03-10 This open access volume presents a comprehensive account of all aspects of biological invasions in South Africa where research has been conducted over more than three decades and where bold initiatives have been implemented in attempts to control invasions and to reduce their ecological economic and social effects It covers a broad range of themes including history policy development and implementation the status of invasions of animals and plants in terrestrial marine and freshwater environments the development of a robust ecological theory around biological invasions the effectiveness of management interventions and scenarios for the future The South African situation stands out because of the remarkable diversity of the country and the wide range of problems encountered in its varied ecosystems which has resulted in a disproportionate investment into both research and management The South African experience holds many lessons for other parts of the world and this book should be of immense value to researchers students managers and policy makers who deal with biological invasions and ecosystem management and conservation in most other regions Indigenous Knowledge and the Environment in Africa and North America David M. Gordon, Shepard Krech III, 2012-03-01 Indigenous knowledge has become a catchphrase in global struggles for environmental justice Yet indigenous knowledges are often viewed incorrectly as pure and primordial cultural artifacts This collection draws from African and North American cases to argue that the forms of knowledge identified as indigenous resulted from strategies to control environmental resources during and after colonial encounters At times indigenous knowledges represented a middle ground of intellectual exchanges between colonizers and colonized elsewhere indigenous knowledges were defined through conflict and struggle The authors demonstrate how people claimed that their hybrid forms of knowledge were communal religious and traditional as opposed to individualist secular and scientific which they associated with European colonialism Indigenous Knowledge and the Environment offers comparative and transnational insights that disturb romantic views of unchanging indigenous knowledges in harmony with the environment The result is a book that informs and complicates how indigenous knowledges can and should relate to environmental policy making Contributors David Bernstein Derick Fay Andrew H Fisher Karen Flint David M Gordon Paul Kelton Shepard Krech III Joshua Reid Parker Shipton Lance van Sittert Jacob Tropp James L A Webb Jr Marsha Weisiger

Political Ecology Tor A. Benjaminsen, Hanne Svarstad, 2021-02-08 This textbook introduces political ecology as an interdisciplinary approach to critically examine land and environmental issues Drawing on discourse and narrative analysis Marxist political economy and insights from natural science the book points at similarities differences and inter connections between environmental governance in the global North and South A wide range of carefully curated case studies are presented with a particular focus on Africa and Norway Key themes of power justice and environmental sustainability run through all chapters The authors challenge established views and leading discourses and present research findings that may surprise readers Chapters cover topics including wildlife conservation climate change and conflicts land grabbing the effects of population growth on the environment jihadism in the African Sahel bioprospecting feminist political ecology and struggles around carbon mitigation within a fossil fuel based economy This introductory text provides tools and examples for both undergraduate and postgraduate students to better understand on going struggles about some of the world's most urgent Rethinking Invasion Ecologies from the Environmental Humanities Jodi Frawley, Iain McCalman, 2014-02-24 Research from a humanist perspective has much to offer in interrogating the social and cultural ramifications of invasion ecologies The impossibility of securing national boundaries against accidental transfer and the unpredictable climatic changes of our time have introduced new dimensions and hazards to this old issue Written by a team of international scholars this book allows us to rethink the impact on national regional or local ecologies of the deliberate or accidental introduction of foreign species plant and animal Modern environmental approaches that treat nature with na ve realism or mobilize it as a moral absolute unaware or unwilling to accept that it is informed by specific cultural and temporal values are doomed to fail Instead this book shows that we need to understand the complex interactions of ecologies and societies in the past present and future over the Anthropocene in order to address problems of the global environmental crisis It demonstrates how humanistic methods and disciplines can be used to bring fresh clarity and perspective on this long vexed aspect of environmental thought and practice Students and researchers in environmental studies invasion ecology conservation biology environmental ethics environmental history and environmental policy will welcome this major contribution to environmental humanities
