Rediscover the Dutch-Africans (1847-1900) Andrew Burnett,2022-07-25 Were the Dutch Africans in southern Africa a brother nation to the Dutch or did they simply represent a lost colony Connecting primary sources in Dutch and Afrikaans this work tells the story of the Dutch stamverwantschap kinship movement between 1847 and 1900 The white Dutch Africans were imagined to be the bridgehead to a broader Dutch identity a second Netherlands in the south This study explores how the 19th century Dutch identified with and idealised a pastoral community operating within a racially segregated society on the edge of European civilisation When the stamverwantschap dream collided with British military and economic power the belief that race language and religion could sustain a broader Dutch identity proved to be an illusion Knowledge and Colonialism Siegfried Huigen,2009 The establishment of a settlement at the Cape of Good Hope in the seventeenth century and an expansion of the sphere of colonial influence in the eighteenth century made South Africa the only part of sub Saharan Africa where Europeans could travel with relative ease deep into the interior As a result individuals with scientific interests in Africa came to the Cape This book examines writings and drawings of scientifically educated travellers particularly in the field of ethnography against the background of commercial and administrative discourses on the Cape It is argued that the scientific travellers benefited more from their relationship with the colonial order than the other way around
