

A black and white photograph of a coastal landscape. In the background, there are rugged mountains with some snow or light-colored patches. The middle ground shows a city or town built on a slope, with buildings and roads visible. The foreground is a dark, flat area, possibly a beach or a body of water. The title 'SOUTHERN EUROPE' is overlaid on the image in a large, stylized, outlined font.

Compromise Planning : A Theoretical Approach from a Distant Corner of Europe Louis C.

Wassenhoven, 2022-03-28 The purpose of the book is to elaborate a planning theory which departs from the plethora of theories which reflect the conditions of developed countries of the North West The empirical material of this effort is derived from a country Greece which sits on the edge between North West and South East at the corner of Europe No doubt there is extensive international literature on planning theory in general from a bewildering variety of viewpoints The interested professional or student of urban and regional planning is certainly aware of the dizzying flood of books articles and research reports on planning theory and of their never ending borrowing of obscure concepts from more respectable scientific disciplines from mathematics to philosophy and from physics to economics human geography and sociology He or she probably observed that there is a growing interest in theoretical approaches from the viewpoint of the so called Global South The author of the present book has for many decades faced the impasse of attempting to transplant theories founded on the experience of the North West to countries with a totally different historical political social and geographical background He learned that the reality that planners face is unpredictable patchy and responsive to social processes frequently of a very pedestrian nature Planning strives to deal with private interests which planners are keen to envelop in a single public interest which is extremely hard to define The behaviour of the average citizen far from being that of the neoclassical model of the homo economicus is that of an individual a kind of homo individualis who interacts with the state and the public administration within a complex web of mutual dependence and negotiation The state and its administrative apparatus i e the key determinants and fixers of urban and regional planning policy bargain with this individual offer inducements exemptions derogations and privileges deviate unhesitatingly from their grand policy pronouncements but still defend the rationality and comprehensiveness of the planning system they have legislated and operationalized It is by and large a successful modus vivendi but only thanks to a constant practice of compromise Hence the term compromise planning which the author coined as an alternative to all the existing theoretical forms of planning This is the sort of planning and of the accompanying theory with which he deals in this book It is the outcome of experience and knowledge accumulated in a long personal journey of academic teaching in England and Greece research and professional involvement

Geographical Information Systems in Hydrology Vijay Singh, M. Fiorentino, 1996-09-30 The last few years have witnessed an enormous interest in application of GIS in hydrology and water resources This is partly evidenced by organization of several national and international symposia or conferences under the sponsorship of various professional organizations This increased interest is in a large measure in response to growing public sensitivity to environmental quality and management The GIS technology has the ability to capture store manipulate analyze and visualize the diverse sets of geo referenced data On the other hand hydrology is inherently spatial and distributed hydrologic models have large data requirements The integration of hydrology and GIS is therefore quite natural The integration involves three major components 1 spatial data construction 2 integration of spatial model layers and 3 GIS and model interface GIS can assist in design calibration modification and comparison of models This integration is spreading worldwide and is expected to accelerate in the foreseeable future Substantial opportunities exist in integration of GIS and hydrology We believe there are enough challenges in use of GIS for conceptualizing and modeling complex hydrologic processes and for globalization of hydrology The motivation for this book grew out of the desire to provide under one cover a range of applications of GIS technology in hydrology It is hoped that the book will stimulate others to write more comprehensive texts on this subject of growing importance

Capitalism and Democracy in Central and Eastern Europe Grzegorz Ekiert, Stephen E. Hanson, 2003-09-15 This volume presents a shared effort to apply a general historical institutionalist approach to the problem of assessing institutional change in the wake of communism's collapse in Europe It brings together a number of leading senior and junior scholars with outstanding reputations as specialists in postcommunism and comparative politics to address central theoretical and empirical issues involved in the study of postcommunism The authors address such questions as how historical legacies of the communist regime be defined how their impact can be measured in methodologically rigorous ways and how the effects of temporal and spatial context can be taken into account in empirical research on the region Taken as a whole the volume makes an important contribution to the growing literature by utilizing the comparative historical method to study key problems of world politics Translocal Care across Kosovo's Borders Carolin Leutloff-Grandits, 2023-09-15 In today's globalized world where the foundations of home and social security are destabilized due to wars and neoliberal transformations the villagers of Kosovo are linked with a common locality despite living across borders By tracing long distant family relations with a special focus on cross border marriages this study looks at the reconfiguration of care relations gender and generational roles among kin members of Kosovo who now live in different European states

Environmentalism in Central and Southeastern Europe Hrvoje Petric, Ivana Žebec Šilj, 2017-03-17 Consisting of 12 chapters the book presents the rise and development of environmentalism environmental history as a discipline and the history of environmental movements in the Central and South Eastern European region from an international point of view The chapters written by scholars from Italy Austria Slovenia Croatia Slovakia Romania Serbia Greece and Turkey cover a wide range of topics including the creation of protected areas increasing environmental consciousness the evolution of humanity's relationship toward the environment and perceptions of environmentalism by different disciplines This international approach highlights the region's complex development from the end of the eighteenth century through the twentieth century with its unique blend of traditions Three historically different traditions the Habsburg Ottoman and Venetian converge in Central and South Eastern Europe and this book emphasizes the subtleties of these sometimes intertwined traditions The focus of the book varies according to both the different geographical environments characteristic of the region and the protagonists who actively participated in changing relationships toward the environment However what does not vary and is common to all the chapters is the historical approach since the process has continuity which the book accentuates In geographical terms the region that is the focus of the book Central and South Eastern Europe is the contact zone of the Alps Danube Adriatic and partially the North Eastern Mediterranean Sea Throughout history it was also the contact zone of the Habsburg Ottoman and Venetian traditions Those realities have resulted in a unique blending and intertwining of traditions and therefore relationships with and perceptions of the environment Sustainable Cropping Systems Jeffrey A. Coulter, 2020-05-21 Global crop production must substantially increase to meet the needs of a rapidly growing population This is constrained by the availability of nutrients water and land There is also an urgent need to reduce the negative environmental impacts of crop production Collectively these issues represent one of the greatest challenges of the twenty first century Sustainable cropping systems based on ecological principles are the core of integrated approaches to solve this critical challenge This special issue provides an international basis for revealing the underlying mechanisms of sustainable cropping systems to drive agronomic innovations It includes review and original research articles that report novel scientific findings on improvement in cropping systems related to crop yields and their resistance to biotic and abiotic stressors resource use efficiency environmental impact sustainability and ecosystem services

Southern Europe in the Mediterranean Context Eric Vaz, 2020-01-15 Since the process of Southern Europe's integration in the European Union the Mediterranean region has seen a more considerable gap between central and northern European countries and its Southern European counterpart Thus in a European context of social cohesion it becomes necessary to better understand Southern Europe without escaping to the common perception of the complexity of Mediterranean culture As a significant player throughout history Southern Europe consistently established a platform of diversity and freedom bringing peace between different historic cultural traditions Moreover the southern frontier of Europe to Africa and Asia has become a crucial determinant in the current times of change

Social Science Abstracts, 1929

Prehistoric Wetland Sites of Southern Europe Ariane Ballmer, Albert Hafner, Willy Tinner, 2024-11-15 This is an open access book Unique in its scope this book provides for the first time a Southern European perspective on prehistoric wetland settlements and their natural environment These are dwellings originally built in humid locations i.e. on shores and in shallow water areas of lakes bogs marshes rivers estuaries and lagoons The relevant archaeological remains are in most cases waterlogged and offer outstanding preservation conditions for organic materials and are moreover in close proximity to uninterrupted natural archives e.g. lake or mire sediments which allows for a broad range of transdisciplinary research approaches The sites discussed in this book date from the Neolithic and the Bronze Age c. 5500-1000 BC and are located in nine countries of Southern Europe i.e. Spain France Italy Slovenia Croatia North Macedonia Albania Greece and Bulgaria Four dimensions of prehistoric wetland settlements are explored in the book the archaeological the dendroarchaeological the palaeoecological and the bioarchaeological Part I is dedicated to archaeology i.e. the excavation of settlement remains their transdisciplinary exploration as well as their interpretation Part II deals with dendroarchaeology and its contribution to the understanding of occupation sequences and regional chronologies and Part III concerns uninterrupted off-site palaeoecological records of past ecosystem change including human environment interactions as well as bioarchaeological on-site approaches to subsistence strategies and land use practices Prehistoric Wetland sites of Southern Europe showcases how different disciplines and areas of expertise from the humanities and the natural sciences meet on an equal footing to elaborate coherent pictures of the past Besides a cross-section of research statuses of different archaeological sites currently ongoing research as well as novel hitherto unpublished case studies and findings are made accessible to the international research community Drawing on a wide range of expert contributions from both archaeology and the natural sciences this book targets scholars professionals and students from the fields of prehistoric archaeology and palaeo-sciences and is furthermore of interest to cultural heritage stakeholders

Geography Since the Second World War Ron Johnston, Paul Claval, 2014-01-23 The discipline of geography has undergone much change and growth in recent years With growth has come diversity Before 1945 there were differences between countries in the emphases on subject matter and research approach although these were all related closely to three main models French German and American Since then the relative importance of French and German influences has declined substantially including within their own national territories and the Anglo American model has grown to world dominance With that model however there is no dominant point of view but rather a multiplicity of competing approaches These various approaches have had a different reception in other parts of the world reflecting the base of pre 1945 geographical scholarship the goals of geographical work set by societies and the nature of the international contacts The result is substantial international diversity in the practice of geography This authoritative volume provides much needed information to make them aware of current international trends

Urban Governance in Southern Europe Abel Albet, 2016-02-11

The concept of governance has evolved into one of the most important but also controversial concepts in urban politics While it encourages co operation participation and collective construction at the same time it has brought about new forms of public demission oligarchic regimes and less local democracy The dilemmas accompanying these changes are particularly relevant when observing the cities of Southern Europe whose socio cultural specificities very much structure local political and policy materialisations Bringing together a team of leading scholars from across the social sciences this volume examines the issues of urban governance in the Southern European context Illustrated by case studies of several main cities and metropolises on the North Mediterranean coast it introduces and critically analyses the latest theories and approaches to urban governance It questions how the real or socio cultural notion of city seems to have been separated from that of the political city and explores how more integrated socio political forms might be developed It looks at current structures dynamics and cultures of governance in urban development and questions whether they are well adapted to new realities and challenges or whether there are significant imbalances causing limited or fragmented political administrative visions By considering both the long Mediterranean history along with the recent but enduring global economic and political developments this book argues that Southern European cities will have to depend greatly upon its own socio cultural networks dynamics and cosmopolitan evolution making the most of the region's characteristic urban strengths as trading hubs with rich hinterlands and large and varied population
