A. Ross,2009 I believe the old Italian proverb says that every man before he dies should do three things Get a son build a house and write a book Now whether or not I am desirous by beginning at the end to end at the beginning of this quaint axiom I leave the reader to conjecture My book may afford amusement to him who will smile when I am glad and sympathise with the impressions I have caught in other moods of mind but I have little affinity of feeling and less companionship with him who expects to see pictures of life coloured differently from those I have beheld At three o'clock on the boisterous afternoon of the 1st of May 1847 I left Greenwich with my friend Lord R in his yacht to cruise round the coasts of Denmark Norway and Sweden and although the period of the year at which I quitted London was the one I most desired to remain in it and join as far as I was able in the pomps and gaities of Old Babylon I did not like to miss this opportunity offered under such favourable circumstances of seeing countries so rarely visited by Englishmen more particularly as the invitation had been pressed upon me so unaffectedly and kindly that I could not with any reason decline it
