The Evolution Of A Southern Conscience From The Perspective Of An Educator:

The Evolution of a Southern Conscience Carolyn Askew Horn, 1993-11-01 Throughout my long life I have been a collector of the written word notes letters diaries poems articles assignments term papers lesson plans of course books They were a cumulative record of my search for answers to questions that arose as I matured from a self serving child to a caring adult I was born during World War I in a little town in southwest Georgia where I was a beneficiary of services rendered by Blacks whose economic conditions were much worse than the very real limitations put on my family during the Great Depression I attended a small state women s college which my family strained to provide This education was not available to most of my contemporaries white or black My teaching career was interrupted by a stint in the WAVES during World War II my marriage to a naval aviator After the untimely death of my husband I settled down with my four children in North Carolina to upgrade my education at UNC to resume my teaching career In the last three decades I have been a teacher department chair in a high school a vice chair of the Chapel Hill Carrboro School Board My experiences yielded understanding just as America came to understand new things THE EVOLUTION OF A SOUTHERN CONSCIENCE encompasses this period of social revolution in our country It is all too apparent that answers have not been forthcoming in education I refuse to believe that conditions are destitute I decided to use my paper trail in the preparation of this book on the chance that it may be of value to educators who are still seeking answers To order contact Magnolia Marketing Publishing Co P O Box 5057 Chapel Hill NC 27514 5057 or call 919 932 3944 Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 1994-02 The North Carolina Historical Review ,1997 Perspectives History Higher Education V 25 2006 Roger L Geiger, The Brown v. Board of Education Trial Julia Garbus, 2014-12-12 William E Cox shares the story of what student life was like for an African American boy before segregation Another first hand narrative explains how a young African American teen facing a mob helped integrate a high school Joan Johns Cobb the sister of a Brown plaintiff describes the day that her sister stood up for better school conditions This volume not only gives a foundational understanding of the Brown v Board of Education trial and its events it gives readers a compelling unforgettable first hand look from those who lived through it History of Higher Education Annual: 1999: Southern Higher Education in the 20th Century Roger Geiger, 1999-01-01 Proceedings of the First-seventeenth Conference for Education in the South 1898-1914 ,1906 Proceedings of the ... Conference for Education in the South ,1906 List of members in Proceedings of the 3d 9th conferences The History of Education Under Apartheid, 1948-1994 Peter Kallaway, 2002 A History of African Higher Education from Antiquity to the Present Y. G-M Lulat, 2005-08-30 This book surveys the history of higher education principally universities in Africa Its geographical coverage encompasses the entire continent from Afro Arab Islamic Africa in the north to the former apartheid South Africa in the south and the historical time span ranges from the Egyptian civilization to the present Since little has been written on this topic particularly its historical component the work fills an important gap in the literature The book delineates the broad contours of the history of higher education in Africa in exceptional historical breadth voluminously documenting its subject in the text detailed footnotes and lengthy appendices Its methodological approach is that of critical historiography in which the location of the African continent in world history prior to the advent of European colonization is an important dimension In addition the book incorporates a historical survey of foreign assistance to the development of higher education in Africa in the post independence era with a substantive focus on the role of the World Bank It has been written with the following readership in mind those pursuing courses or doing research in African studies studies of the African Diaspora and comparative international education It should also be of interest to those concerned with developing policies on African higher education inside and outside Africa as well as those interested in African Islamic history the development of higher education in medieval Europe the contributions of African Americans to African higher education and such controversial approaches to the reading of African history as Eurocentrism and Afrocentrism
