China's Economy In Transformation Under The New Normal Sarah Yueting Tong, Jing Wan, 2017-07-07. This book examines the recent development and prospect of the Chinese economy as the country adapts to changing domestic and external settings. After more than three decades of near double digit annual expansion, the country's growth decelerated considerably to enter a new era of the so called New Normal. At the macro level, considerable amount of overhaul is required to improve governance and enhance regulatory effectiveness. These include monetary policy adjustment, financial sector development and taxation reforms. As the Chinese government at both the central and local levels plays an important role in promoting growth, issues such as the role of local government and the reform of state owned enterprises are examined in this book. Topics such as the development of private consumption and industrial upgrading are also assessed. The book discusses several matters considered important to China's social and economic cohesion, including the management of agricultural product reserves, the development of a functioning social security system and regional development. To help project a long term view of China's economic strength, the book also examines such factors as development in population and the labour market. This book provides a comprehensive analysis of China's economy and identifies the recent developments that matter to China's economic future.

China s spectacular economic growth is well known Less well known is the country s equally dramatic though not always equally successful social policy transition Between the mid 1990s and mid 2000s the focal period for this book China s central government went a long way toward consolidating the social policy framework that had gradually emerged in piecemeal fashion during the initial phases of economic liberalization Major policy decisions during the focal period included adopting a single national pension plan for urban areas standardizing unemployment insurance re establishing nationwide rural health care coverage opening urban education systems to children of rural migrants introducing trilingual education policies in ethnic minority regions expanding college enrolment addressing the challenge of HIV AIDS more comprehensively and equalizing social welfare spending across provinces among others Unresolved is the direction of policy in the face of longer term industrial and demographic trends and the possibility of a chronically weak global economy Chinese Social Policy in a Time of Transition offers scholars practitioners students and policymakers a foundation from which to explore those issues based on a composite snapshot of Chinese social policy at its point of greatest maturation prior to the 2007 global crisis

Human Resource Management in China Revisited Malcolm Warner,2020-10-28 This edited volume first considers the economic background of the recent changes in HRM in the People s Republic of China from 1978 to the present day exploring the change from a command economy to a more market led one It then goes on to look at the demise of so called iron rice bowl policy once dominated by a Soviet inspired Personnel Management model to one now characterized by possibly Japanese as well as Western influenced HRM albeit with what are widely described as Chinese characteristics Finally it concludes with a comparative analysis of the contributions in the book on China vis a vis an appraisal of these with the national HRM systems of Japan and South Korea This volume was previously published as a special issue of the International Journal of Human Resource Management

A Protestant Church in Communist China John Craig William Keating, 2012-02-16 Freedom of religious belief is guaranteed under the constitution of the People's Republic of China but the degree to which this freedom is able to be exercised remains a highly controversial issue Much scholarly attention has been given to persecuted underground groups such as Falun but one area that remains largely unexplored is the relationship between officially registered churches and the communist government This study investigates the history of one such official church Moore Memorial Church in Shanghai This church was founded by American Methodist missionaries By the time of the 1949 revolution it was the largest Protestant church in East Asia running seven day a week programs As a case study of one individual church operating from an historical rather than theological perspective this study examines the experience of people at this church against the backdrop of the turbulent politics of the Mao and Deng eras It asks and seeks to answer questions such as were the people at the church pleased to see the foreign missionaries leave Were people forced to sign the so called Christian manifesto Once the church doors were closed in 1966 did worshipers go underground Why was this particular church especially chosen to be the first re opened in Shanghai in 1979 What explanations are there for its phenomenal growth since then A considerable proportion of the data for this study is drawn from Chinese language sources including interviews personal correspondence statistics internal church documents and archives many of which have never previously been published or accessed by foreign researchers The main focus of this study is on the period from 1949 to 1989 a period in which the church experienced many ups and downs restrictions and limitations The Mao era in particular remains one of the least understood and seldom written about periods in the history of Christianity in China This study therefore makes a significant contribution to our evolving understanding of the delicate balancing act between compromise co operation and compliance that categorizes church state relations in modern China
