Social Self Hawthorne Howells William James And Nineteenth Century Psychology:

The Social Self Joseph Alkana, 2021-05-11 American literary history of the nineteenth century as a conflict between individualistic writers and a conformist society In The Social Self Joseph Alkana argues that such a dichotomy misrepresents the views of many authors Sudden changes caused by the industrial revolution urban development increased immigration and regional conflicts were threatening to fragment the community and such writers as Nathaniel Hawthorne William James and William Dean Howells were deeply concerned about social cohesion Alkana persuasively reintroduces Common Sense philosophy and Jamesian psychology as ways to understand how the nineteenth century self society dilemma developed All three writers believed that introspection was the proper path to the discovery of truth They also felt Alkana argues that such discoveries had to be validated by society In these sophisticated readings of Hawthorne's short stories and The Scarlet Letter Howells's utopian Altrurian romances and James's The Principles of Psychology it becomes obvious that characters who isolate themselves from the community do so at considerable psychological risk The Social Self links these writers interest in contemporary psychology to their concern for history and society Alkana's argument that nineteenth century expressions of individualism were defensive responses to the fear of social chaos radically revises the traditional narrative of American literary culture

Spiritualism in Antebellum America 1997 and several articles on nineteenth century masculinity Stylistic Innovation, Conscious Experience, and the Self in Modernist Women's Poetry Kristina Marie Darling, 2021-10-07 Stylistic Innovation Conscious Experience and the Self in Modernist Women's Poetry examines representations of philosophical discourses in Modernist women's writing Philosophers argued in the early twentieth century for an understanding of the self as both corporeal and relational shaped and reshaped by interactions within a community The once clear distinction between self and other was increasingly called into question This breakdown of boundaries between self and world often manifested in the style of early twentieth century literary works Modernist poetry like stream of consciousness fiction used metaphor sound and a revision of received grammatical structures to blur the boundaries between the individual and collective This book explores the ways that feminist writers like Mina Loy H D Gertrude Stein and Marianne Moore used style and technique to respond to these philosophical debates reclaiming agency over a predominantly male philosophical discourse While many critics have addressed the thematic content of these writers work few scholars have taken up this question while focusing on the style of the writing This book shows how these feminist poets used seemingly small stylistic choices in poetry to make necessary contributions to contemporary philosophical discourses ultimately rendering these philosophical conversations more inclusive The Portrait's Subject Sarah Blackwood, 2019-10-22 Between the invention of photography in 1839 and the end of the nineteenth century portraiture became one of the most popular and common art forms in the United States In The Portrait's Subject Sarah Blackwood tells a wide ranging story about how images of human surfaces came to signal expressions of human depth during this era in paintings photographs and illustrations as well as in literary and cultural representations of portrait making and viewing Combining visual theory literary close reading and archival research Blackwood examines portraiture's changing symbolic and aesthetic practices from daguerreotype to X ray Portraiture the book argues was a provocative art form used by writers artists and early psychologists to imagine selfhood as hidden deep and in need of revelation ideas that were then taken up by the developing discipline of psychology The Portrait's Subject reveals the underappreciated connections between portraiture's representations of the material human body and developing modern ideas about the human mind It encouraged figures like Frederick Douglass Nathaniel Hawthorne Thomas Eakins Harriet Jacobs and Henry James to reimagine how we might see inner life offering a rich array of metaphors and aesthetic approaches that helped reconfigure the relationship between body and mind exterior and interior In the end Blackwood shows how nineteenth century psychological discourse developed as much through aesthetic fabulation as through scientific experimentation Business of the Heart John Corrigan, 2002 This written narrative recovers the emotional experiences of individuals from a wide array of little used sources including diaries journals correspondence and public records From such sources Corrigan discovers that for these Protestants the expression of emotion was a matter of transaction They saw emotion as a commodity and conceptualized relations between people and between individuals and God as transactions of emotion governed by contract Religion became a business relation with God with prayer as its legal tender Entering this relationship they were conducting the business of the heart BOOK JACKET Modernizing Solitude Yoshiaki Furui,2019-02-05 An innovative and timely examination of the concept of solitude in nineteenth century American literature During the nineteenth century the United States saw radical developments in media and communication that reshaped concepts of spatiality and temporality As the telegraph the postal system and public transportation became commonplace the country achieved a level of connectedness that was never possible before At this level physical isolation no longer equaled psychological separation from the exterior world and as communication networks proliferated being disconnected took on negative cultural connotations Though solitude and the lack thereof is a pressing concern in today s culture of omnipresent digital connectivity Yoshiaki Furui shows that solitude has been a significant preoccupation since the nineteenth century The obsession over solitude is evidenced by many writers of the period with consequences for many basic notions of creativity art and personal and spiritual fulfillment In Modernizing Solitude The Networked Individual in Nineteenth Century American Literature Furui examines among other works Henry David Thoreau s Walden Harriet Jacobs s Incidents in the Life of a Slave Girl Herman Melville s Bartleby the Scrivener Emily Dickinson s poetry and letters and telegraphic literature in the 1870s to identify the virtues and values these writers bestowed upon solitude in a time and place where it was being consistently threatened or devalued Although each writer has a unique way of addressing the theme they all aim to reclaim solitude as a positive productive state of being that is essential to the writing process and personal identity Employing a cross disciplinary approach to understand modern solitude and the resulting literature Furui seeks to historicize solitude by anchoring literary works in this revolutionary yet interim period of American communication history while also applying theoretical insights into the literary analysis

Beautiful Enemies Andrew Epstein, 2006-09-21

Although it has long been commonplace to imagine the archetypal American poet singing a solitary Song of Myself much of the most enduring American poetry has actually been preoccupied with the drama of friendship In this lucid and absorbing study Andrew Epstein argues that an obsession with both the pleasures and problems of friendship erupts in the New American Poetry that emerges after the Second World War By focusing on some of the most significant postmodernist American poets the New York School poets John Ashbery Frank O Hara and their close contemporary Amiri Baraka Beautiful Enemies reveals a fundamental paradox at the heart of postwar American poetry and culture the avant garde's commitment to individualism and nonconformity runs directly counter to its own valorization of community and collaboration In fact Epstein demonstrates that the clash between friendship and nonconformity complicates the legendary alliances forged by postwar poets becomes a predominant theme in the poetry they created and leaves contemporary writers with a complicated legacy to negotiate Rather than simply celebrating friendship and poetic community as nurturing and inspiring these poets represent friendship as a kind of exhilarating maddening contradiction a site of attraction and repulsion affinity and rivalry Challenging both the reductive critiques of American individualism and the idealized heavily biographical celebrations of literary camaraderie one finds in much critical discussion this book provides a new interpretation of the peculiar dynamics of American avant garde poetic communities and the role of the individual within them By situating his extensive and revealing readings of these highly influential poets against the backdrop of Cold War cultural politics and within the context of American pragmatist thought Epstein uncovers the collision between radical self reliance and the siren call of the interpersonal at the core of postwar American poetry
