Global Reconstructions of Vocational Education and Training James Avis,2016-04-08 Vocational education and training VET can be difficult to define since it is set in a turbulent and volatile environment marked by national and regional specificities It can be delivered at different levels and by a variety of providers including community colleges colleges of further education polytechnics and universities as well as importantly private providers This collection reflects the shifting and often messy conceptualisations of VET On one level VET can be associated with the education and training of craft

skilled workers or of those who are being prepared for a particular occupational destiny and specific position in the labour market In this instance notions of skill knowledge and dispositions are significant On another level it can raise questions over power and class formation in addition to the way in which these are mediated or intersect with race and gender Moreover there are important political questions addressing the significance of VET in furthering social cohesion and economic regeneration in times of austerity when neoliberalism is hegemonic The chapters in this book are not all of a piece but each in its turn raises important questions about VET its relationship to the economy as well as its global setting This book was originally published as a special issue of Globalisation Societies and Education

The Dictionary of Developmental and Educational Psychology Rom Harré, Roger Lamb, 1986 In exploring the areas of socialization and the cognitive and emotional growth of children this dictionary considers controversial issues such as IQ and the role of genetic inheritance and early experience in the growth of intelligence and in social and emotional development into adulthood The roles of influential theorists are assessed and issues relating specifically to formal education are examined The Dictionary of Developmental and Educational Psychology is one of four dictionaries based on the Encyclopedic Dictionary of Psychology published by The MIT Press in 1983 and cited by American Libraries as an outstanding reference source that speaks to the specialist and nonspecialist alike They update existing articles while offering many new entries Rom Narreacute is a Lecturer in the Philosophy of Science at Oxford University and an Adjunct Professor of Social and Behavioral Sciences at the State University of New York at Binghamton Roger Lamb is a research worker in the Department of Social Psychology at Oxford University

Native Americans in the School System Carol J. Ward, 2005-07-19 Carol Ward examines persistent dropout rates among Native American youth which remain high despite overall increases in Native adult education attainment in the last twenty years Focusing on the experiences of the Northern Cheyenne nation she evaluates historical ethnographic and quantitative data to determine the causes of these educational failures and places this data in an economic political and cultural context She shows that the rate of failure in this community is the result of conflicting approaches to socializing youth the struggle between native capital and human capital development systems With high rates of unemployment poverty and school dropouts the Northern Cheyenne reservation provides some important lessons as Native Americans pursue greater educational success This volume will be of use to policy makers instructors of comparative education Native American studies sociology and anthropology
