Secular and Religious Politics in Pakistan, India, and Bangladesh Nadeem Malik, 2025-07-02 This book thoroughly explores the complex relationship between secularism and religious politics in South Asia. It examines the historical and contemporary factors that have influenced the political landscapes of Pakistan, India, and Bangladesh, focusing on how colonial legacies, nation-building processes, and religious ideologies have shaped governance and social structures. Through comparative analysis, the book delves into the rise of Hindutva in India, the struggle between secularism and Islamism in Bangladesh, and the role of Islam in Pakistan's politics. By integrating diverse theoretical perspectives and historical contexts, this book offers a comprehensive understanding of the evolving nature of secularism and religious politics in these three nations. It also provides insights into the broader implications for democracy, pluralism, and religious freedom in South Asia. This book is essential reading for scholars, policymakers, and anyone interested in the intersection of religion and politics in one of the world's most complex and dynamic regions. Routledge Handbook of South Asian Politics Paul R.

Brass, 2010-04-30 The Routledge Handbook of South Asian Politics examines key issues in politics of the five independent states of the South Asian region: India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, and Nepal. Written by experts in their respective areas, this Handbook introduces the reader to the politics of South Asia by presenting the prevailing agreements and disagreements in the literature. In the first two sections, the Handbook provides a comprehensive introduction to the modern political history of the states of the region and an overview of the independence movements in the former colonial states. The other sections focus on the political changes that have occurred in the postcolonial states since independence, as well as the successive political changes in Nepal during the same period, and the structure and functioning of the main governmental and non-governmental institutions, including the structure of the state itself, unitary or federal, political parties, the judiciary, and the military. Further, the contributors explore several aspects of the political process and political and economic change, especially issues of pluralism and national integration, political economy, corruption, and criminalization of politics, radical and violent political movements, and the international politics of the region as a whole. This unique reference work provides a comprehensive survey of the state of the field and is an invaluable resource for students and academics interested in South Asian Studies, South Asian Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations. Religion and Societies Carlo Caldarola, 2011-06-01 The series Religion and Society RS contributes to the exploration of religions as social systems both in Western and non-Western societies. In particular, it examines religions in their differentiation from and intersection with other cultural systems such as art, economy, law, and politics. Due attention is given to paradigmatic case or comparative studies that exhibit a clear theoretical orientation with the empirical and historical data of religion and such aspects of religion as ritual, the religious imagination, constructions of tradition, iconography, or media. In addition, the formation of religious communities, their construction of identity, and their relation to society and the wider public are key issues of this series. Global

the world In providing a road map through this complex terrain the author bases his discussion on interviews with militant activists and case studies of rebellious movements

Religion and Politics in International Relations Timothy Fitzgerald, 2011-10-27 Scholars in International Relations concerned with religion and its relations to world politics are rhetorically constructing a powerful modern myth A component of this myth is that religion is inherently violent and irrational unless controlled by the secular state which is inherently rational and only reluctantly violent Timothy Fitzgerald discusses how in this modern myth religion appears as a force of nature which either assists or threatens the sacred secular order of things and how religion is portrayed as a kind of universal essence which takes many forms its recent most dangerous manifestation being Islamic terrorism This book illustrates that the essential distinction between irrational religion and rational secular politics appears as an unquestioned preconception on the basis of which policy is conducted countries invaded and wars fought Arguing that this rhetorical construction of religion provides the foundation for faith in the rationality of modern liberal capitalism Fitzgerald demonstrates how a historically contingent discourse has been transformed into a powerful set of global assumptions

Party Politics in Southeast Asia Dirk Tomsa, Andreas Ufen, 2013 Contributing to the growing discourse on political parties in Asia this book looks at parties in Southeast Asia's most competitive electoral democracies of Indonesia Thailand and the Philippines It highlights the diverse dynamics of party politics in the region and provides new insights into organizational structures mobilizational strategies and the multiple dimensions of linkages between political parties and their voters The book focuses on the prominence of clientelistic practices and strategies both within parties as well as between parties and their voters It demonstrates that clientelism is extremely versatile and can take many forms ranging from traditional personalized relationships between a patron and a client to the modern reincarnations of broker driven network clientelism that is often based on more anonymous relations The book also discusses how contemporary political parties often combine clientelistic practices with more formal patterns of organization and communication thus raising questions about neat analytical dichotomies Straddling the intersection between political science and area studies this book is of interest to students and scholars of contemporary Southeast Asian politics and political scientists and Asian Studies specialists with a broader research interest in comparative democratization studies

Breen, Laura Allison-Reumann, 2023-06-23 He Breen and Allison Reumann combine qualitative and quantitative research to compare the successes and failures of attempts at federalism in Asian countries Federalism is an increasingly common approach to improving governance and resolving ethnic conflict in Asia However Asian federalism faces three thorny problems First the ethnic federalism paradigm dominates political and intellectual life rendering political compromise difficult and creating an obstacle to establishing or improving federalism in Asia Second religious fundamentalism and secular refusal to accommodate religious demands pose an existential threat to federal politics Third a majoritarian democracy is itself a threat to federalism in Asia and the peace and stability that it is meant to underpin Through a truly comparative analysis He Breen and Allison Reumann investigate the potential for a hybrid ethnic approach religious moderation and deliberative democracy to overcome these challenges They analyse cases from across Asia both successes and failures These include countries encompassing the first generation of federalism in Asia India Malaysia and Pakistan and challenges faced by the new emerging and aspiring federal states namely Nepal Myanmar and Sri Lanka They demonstrate how federalism can be achieved through compromise and a continual renegotiation of its underpinning values A vital resource for scholars of political systems in Asia and of federalism more broadly Buddhism, Politics and the Limits of Law Benjamin Schonthal, 2016-11-17 Examining Sri Lanka's religious and legal pasts this is the first extended study of Buddhism and constitutional law Recentring Southeast Asia Himanshu Prabha Ray, 2024-11-19 This book assesses the impact of European colonization in the late 19th and early 20th century in restructuring the shared past of India and Southeast Asia It provides case studies that transcend colonial constructs and adopt newer approaches to understanding the shared past The authors explore these developments through the lens of political figures like Jawaharlal Nehru 1889 1964 and re-examine themes such as the Greater India Society 1926 1959 established in Calcutta and the role of Buddhism in post World War II connections as the repatriation of the mortal remains of Japanese soldiers killed in Burma Myanmar acquired urgency Drawing on a diverse range of sources including archaeology Buddhist texts the afterlives of the Hindu temples maritime networks and inscriptions from Vietnam and central India the book will be an essential read for scholars and researchers of history Buddhism archaeology heritage studies cultural studies and political history as well as South and Southeast Asian history Writing the City in British Asian Diasporas Sean McLoughlin, William Gould, Ananya Jahanara Kabir, Emma Tomalin, 2014-07-11 In 1962 the Commonwealth Immigrants Act hastened the process of South Asian migration to postcolonial Britain Half a decade later now is an opportune moment to revisit the accumulated writing about the diasporas formed through subsequent settlement and to probe the ways in which the South Asian diaspora can be re-conceptualised Writing the City in British Asian Diasporas takes a fresh look at such matters and will have multi-disciplinary resonance worldwide The meaning and importance of local multi-local and trans-local dynamics is explored through a devolved and regionally accented comparison of five British Asian cities Bradford the East End of London Manchester Leicester and Birmingham Analysing the writing of these differently configured cities since the 1960s its main focus is the significant discrepancies in representation between differently positioned texts reflecting both dominant institutional discourses and everyday lived experiences of a locality Part I offers a comprehensive yet still highly contested reading of each city's archives
