1801 The sixteenth century saw the coming of the sailing ship and the great voyages of discovery The Catholic countries of Europe Spain and Portugal led the way and in 1494 the Pope's line sought to divide between them the newly discovered regions But such a division could not last Other nations England and Holland then France were determined to have their share of treasure and trade and the failure of the Armada broke the naval power of Spain By the eighteenth century the struggle for predominance at sea and in the new lands had narrowed down to the rivalry between England and France the France which rose to preeminence and power under Louis XIV By 1760 Britain was in control of India and North America but the struggle between the two nations went on with intervals for recovery for over fifty years The decision inevitably determined the fate of South Africa as well for the Cape was on the main sea route to the East and must fall a prize to the strongest power at sea Holland became involved in the conflict when she followed France in supporting the American colonists during the War of Independence Britain was hard pressed then and the result was a French garrison at the Cape from 1781 to 1783 in which year peace was declared between the new United States and Britain It is well known that about this time the burghers of the Cape were by no means happy under the rule of the Dutch East India Company Poverty and distress were rife and there was trouble in the East between the more distant Dutch settlers and the Natives It was the period of the French Revolution and the men of Swellendam and Graaff Reinet decided to have little republics of their own Even in Cape Town there was a republican party they called themselves Patrioten in imitation of the Patriot party in Holland About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

The Shaping of South African Society, 1652-1840. Richard Elphick,Hermann Giliomee,2014-01-15 History is a powerful aid to the understanding of the present and those who are concerned with the escalating crisis in South Africa will find this an invaluable source book This is the story of the evolution of a society in which race became the dominant characteristic the primary determinant of status wealth and power Cultural chauvinism of the first European colonists primarily the Dutch merged with economic and demographic developments to create a society in which whites relegated all blacks free blacks Africans imported slaves to a systematic pattern of subordination and oppression that foreshadowed the apartheid of the twentieth century From the beginning of the nineteenth century the new empire builders the British reinforced the racial order In the next century and a half the industrialized South Africa would become firmly integrated into the world economy Published originally in South Africa in 1979 and updated and expanded now a decade later this book by twelve South African British Canadian Dutch and American scholars is the most comprehensive history of the early years of that troubled nation The authors put South Africa in the comparative context of other colonial systems Their social political and economic history is rich with empirical data and rests on a solid base of archival research The story they tell is a complex drama of a racial structure that has resisted hostile impulses from without and rebellion from within South Africa a Century Ago Lady Anne Lindsay Barnard,1933 Letters written from the Cape of Good Hope between 1797 and 1801 A Historical Geography of the British Colonies Sir Charles Prestwood Lucas,1915
