The Paris Framework

for Climate Change Capacity Building Mizan R Khan, J. Timmons Roberts, Saleemul Huq, Victoria Hoffmeister, 2018-04-09

The Paris Framework for Climate Change Capacity Building pioneers a new era of climate change governance performing the foundational job of clarifying what is meant by the often ad hoc one off uncoordinated ineffective and unsustainable practices of the past decade described as capacity building to address climate change As an alternative this book presents a framework on how to build effective and sustainable capacity systems to meaningfully tackle this long term problem Such a reframing of capacity building itself requires means of implementation The authors combine their decades long experiences in climate negotiations developing climate solutions climate activism and peer reviewed research to chart a realistic roadmap for the implementation of this alternative framework for capacity building As a result this book convincingly makes the case that universities as the highest and sustainable seats of learning and research in the developing countries should be the central hub of capacity building there This will be a valuable resource for students researchers and policy makers in the areas of climate change and environmental studies

Closing of the Frontier John G Butcher, 2003-08-01 This book is the first on the history of the marine fisheries of Southeast Asia It takes as its central theme the movement of fisheries into new fishing grounds particularly the diverse ecosystems that make up the seas of Southeast Asia This process accelerated between the 1950s and 1970s in what the author calls the great fish race Catches soared as the population of the region grew demand from Japan and North America for shrimps and tuna increased and fishers adopted more efficient ways of locating catching and preserving fish But the great fish race soon brought about the severe depletion of one fish population after another while pollution and the destruction of mangroves and coral reefs degraded fish habitats Today the relentless movement into new fishing grounds has come to an end for there are no new fishing grounds to exploit The frontier of fisheries has closed The challenge now is to exploit the seas in ways that preserve the diversity of marine life while providing the people of the region with a source of food long into the future

Coastal Zone Management Imperative for Maritime Developing Nations B.U. Haq, Gunnar Kullenberg, Jan H. Stel, 2013-03-09 Anthropogenic transformation of the coastal zone continues at a steady pace especially in the developing maritime countries where coastal resources are often crucial to national economies However exploitation of these resources is often indiscriminate ill planned or carried out without adequate scientific knowledge This leads to rapid resource depletion and often irreversible environmental degradation The 1992 Rio de Janeiro UN Conference on Environment and Development recognized the expediency of an integrated and sustainable use of all coastal resources functions and services grounded on sound scientific data The present volume is based on the 1994 international workshop Integrated Coastal Zone Management and brings together contributions by leading specialists both on basic concepts and on applications of coastal management The work is divided into six parts dealing with the conceptual framework of ICZM regional and global aspects of coastal management environmental assessment in ICZM capacity building and technology transfer monitoring and environmental analysis and case studies and status of ICZM plans The book also incorporates an interactive ICZM planning module COSMO which can be of use in designing a management plan for a coast Attention is also given to long term environmental effects of present day actions It is hoped that COSMO will prove an additional learning tool for ICZM practitioners and enhance the value of the book This work is intended to give a broad coverage of conceptual and technical aspects of ICZM and will be of use to operational executives as well as students of ICZM environmental economists policy makers and senior managers in the international development agencies and governmental and non governmental organizations It can be recommended as a textbook and as a reference work
