The Changing World Power Structure John N. Irwin, 1972 Perspectives in Defense Management, 1971 The Great Power (mis)management Alexander Astrov, 2011 Drawing on the empirical case of the Russian-Georgian war of 2008 this book explores the theoretical underpinnings of the idea of great power management first articulated within the English School of International Relations The contributors to the volume approach this idea from a variety of theoretical perspectives ranging from policy analysis to critical theory

How Power Shapes Energy

Transitions in Southeast Asia Jens Marquardt, 2016-12-01 An understanding of the role of energy related governance systems and the conditions required for a shift towards renewables in developing countries is urgently needed in order to tap into the global potential of low carbon development Although renewable energy sources have become technically feasible and economically viable social and political factors continue to persist as the most critical obstacles for their dissemination How Power Shapes Energy Transitions in Southeast Asia conceptualizes power for the field of sustainable energy governance Based on empirical findings from the Philippines and Indonesia the book develops an analytical approach that incorporates power theory into a multi level governance framework The book begins with a profound background on renewable energy development around the world and presents major trends in development cooperation A power based multi level governance approach is introduced that is rooted in development thinking Examining how coordination and power relations shape the development and dissemination of renewable energy technologies the book also shows how decentralization affects low carbon development in emerging economies Sparking debate on the ways in which energy transitions can be triggered and sustained in developing countries this book will be of great interest to students and scholars of renewable energy development and environmental politics and governance as well as practitioners in development cooperation

The Making of Southeast Asia Amitav Acharya, 2013-02-22 Developing a framework to study what makes a region Amitav Acharya investigates the origins and evolution of Southeast Asian regionalism and international relations He views the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN from the bottom up as not only a U S inspired ally in the Cold War struggle against communism but also an organization that reflects indigenous traditions Although Acharya deploys the notion of imagined community to examine the changes especially since the Cold War in the significance of ASEAN dealings for a regional identity he insists that imagination is itself not a neutral but rather a culturally variable concept The regional imagination in Southeast Asia imagines a community of nations different from NAFTA or NATO the OAU or the European Union In this new edition of a book first published as The Quest for Identity in 2000 Acharya updates developments in the region through the first decade of the new century the aftermath of the financial crisis of 1997 security affairs after September 2001 the long term impact of the 2004 tsunami and the substantial changes wrought by the rise of China as a regional and global actor Acharya argues in this important book for the crucial importance of regionalism in a different part of the world

The Great Power (mis)Management Assoc Prof Alexander Astrov, 2013-03-28 Drawing on the empirical case of the Russian Georgian war of 2008 the book explores the theoretical underpinnings of the idea of great power management first articulated within the English School of International Relations The contributors to the volume approach this idea from a variety of theoretical perspectives ranging from policy analysis to critical theory but all of them are addressing the same question What does the Russian Georgian war of 2008 tell us about great power management as an institution of international society Regionalism in Southeast Asia Nicholas Tarling, 2006-09-27 Regionalism in Southeast Asia provides the reader with an historical analysis of Southeast Asia from the distinct perspective of regionalism Southeast Asian history is usually written from a national point of view which underplays the links between neighbouring states and nations and the effects of these bonds on the development of regionalism This innovative book begins by defining the meaning of region and regionalism and then applies it to periods in history in Southeast Asia looking at how patterns of regionalism have shifted through time to the present day By focusing on the regional perspective Nicholas Tarling gives an original treatment of Southeast Asian history its political dynamics and its international relations Regionalism in Southeast Asia completes a trilogy of books on Southeast Asia by Nicholas Tarling published by Routledge the other two are Nationalism in Southeast Asia and Imperialism in Southeast Asia
