Mystifying China's Southwest Ethnic Borderlands Yuqing Yang, 2017-12-28 The Confucian notion of Harmony with difference he er bu tong has great political and cultural resonance in contemporary China which propagates the quest for a pluralist harmony between cultural and ethnic components of society In an attempt to examine a range of responses to this state envisioned ideal of accommodating ethnic differences this book analyzes the literary and cultural discourses that surround three minority regions in Southwest China Dali which was once the location of the ancient Nanzhao and Dali Kingdoms the homeland of the matrilineal Mosuo known as the Country of Women and the Tibetan areas associated with utopian Shangri La This book borrows Foucault's concept of heterotopia to address the contradictory and often simultaneously existing views of the minority region as rich treasure house of tradition and as intractable barrier to modern development which combine to give rise to productive tensions in scholastic and artistic creations Through reconstituting and performing the myths and legends of or about minority culture the representations of the three places turn into heterotopias which are posed between the mythical and the real in different ways Functioning as a self reflective mirror they simultaneously offer images of the actual habitats of the ethnic other which have been subject to socialist projects of modernity and become a viable means by which to exert material effects on the real landscape Products of a fascination with alternative social spaces the three mystified lands all contain conceptualizations of harmony be it spiritual gender based or ecological that are conceivably absent in the imperfect actuality of the Chinese heartland In conclusion these aesthetically constructed spaces of the other negotiate and enrich the discourse of Harmony with difference reacting to ethnic politics in PRC history and creating an audience that grows attentive to the traditions of minorities Routledge Library Editions:

Kozakavich, 2023-01-24 This volume describes and discusses historical archaeologists contributions to our understanding of intentional communities throughout American history Structured according to the scale of methodological focus from settlement patterns and landscape to the built environment to artifact studies the case studies presented in this volume will give readers a thorough introduction to archaeological research to date in this field

Women's Utopias in British and American Fiction Nan Bowman Albinski, 2019-11-21 Utopian writing offers a fascinating panorama of social visions and the related forms of dystopia and anti utopian satire extend this into the range of social nightmares Originally published in 1988 this comparative study of utopian fiction by British and American women writers demonstrates the continuity of a well established but little known tradition emphasising its range and diversity and providing ample evidence of women s aspirations and documenting the restrictions and exclusions in private and public life that their novels challenge Historically the growth of each national tradition is traced in relation to social and political movements particularly the suffrage movement and contemporary feminism Comparatively the quite different responses of British and American women to what are in many instances the same social problems are examine in the light of changing expectations Definitions of human nature and gender relationships are assessed on a nature culture continuum as a means of understanding this change Women s attitudes to their social and political roles their working lives to sexuality marriage and the family are reflected in their visions of fruitful change and so also is the impact of two world wars socialism and fascism the debate on peaceful uses of nuclear energy and fears of a nuclear holocaust

The Architecture and Cities of Northern Mexico from Independence to the Present Edward R. Burian, 2015-08-15 The states of Northern Mexico Tamaulipas Nuevo Le n Coahuila Chihuahua Durango Sonora Sinaloa and Baja California Norte and Sur have architecture urbanism and landscape design that offer numerous lessons in how to build well but this constructed environment is largely undervalued or unknown To make this architecture better known to a wide professional academic and public audience this book presents the first comprehensive overview in either English or Spanish of the architecture urban landscapes and cities of Northern Mexico from the country s emergence as a modern nation in 1821 to the present day Profusely illustrated with color and black and white photographs maps and analytical drawings of urban cores of major cities The Architecture and Cities of Northern Mexico systematically examines significant works of architecture in large cities and small towns in each state from the earliest buildings in the urban core to the newest at the periphery Edward R Burian describes the most memorable works of architecture in each city in greater detail in terms of their spatial organization materials and sensory experience He also includes a concise geographical and historical summary of the region that provides a useful background for the discussions of the works of architecture Burian concludes the book with a brief commentary on lessons learned and possible futures for the architectural culture of the region as well as the first comprehensive biographical listing of the architects practicing in Northern Mexico during the past two centuries

Southwest Review, 1891

Confederates against the Confederacy Jon L. Wakelyn, 2002-03-30 Far from being a monolith with unanimous leadership loyalty to the cause of a separate nation the Confederacy was in reality deeply divided over how to achieve independence Many supposedly loyal leaders civilian as well as elected officials opposed governmental policies on the national and state levels and their actions ultimately influenced non support for military policies Congressional differences over arming the slaves and bureaucratic squabbles over how to conduct the war disrupted the government and Cabinet of President Jefferson Davis Rumors of such irreconcilable differences spread throughout the South contributing to an overall decline in morale and support for the war effort and causing the Confederacy to come apart from within When asked to make sacrifices civilian leaders found themselves caught in the dilemma of either aiding the Confederacy or losing money through poor utilization of slave labor To sustain profits the business and planter classes often traded with the enemy Upon consideration of arming the slaves many members of Congress proclaimed that the war effort was not worth the demise of slavery and preferred instead to take their chances with the Northern government Cultural leaders clergy newspapermen and men of letters claimed their loyalty to the war effort but often criticized government policies in public By asking for financial support and instituting a military draft the national government infuriated local patriots who wanted to defend their own states more than they desired to defeat the enemy
