Contemporary Composition Studies Edith Babin, Kimberly Harrison, 1999-12-30 Composition studies is a rapidly growing and constantly changing field At present however graduate students new to the field and writing teachers who want to make new connections between theory and practice have little choice of current reference works that define key terms in composition studies and provide information about the scholars and researchers who have shaped and are shaping the discipline This book supplies this information in an easily accessible format and places both scholars and terms in the context of the field s development Included are alphabetically arranged entries for 108 individuals who have developed the field and 128 terms central to the discipline The first part of the book provides entries for leaders in composition studies Each entry identifies the areas in which the scholar has contributed most influentially to the field and provides both a chronological overview of the person s contributions and a bibliography of representative works The second part includes entries for terms that are problematic both for newcomers and for those already familiar with the discipline The entries for the terms show how the disciplinary context has shaped the ways in which they have been used The entries also indicate how established thinkers in composition studies and other disciplines have explained or defined the terms provide examples of the terms in context and list scholars often associated with them An appendix includes entries for scholars from other disciplines who have contributed to the field

Rhetorics, Poetics, and Cultures James A. Berlin, 2003 Rhetorics Poetics and Cultures is James Berlin s most comprehensive effort to refigure the field of English Studies Here in his last book Berlin both historically situates and recovers for today the tools and insights of rhetoric displaced and marginalized he argues by the allegedly disinterested study of aesthetic texts in the college English department Berlin sees rhetoric as offering a unique perspective on the current disciplinary crisis complementing the challenging perspectives offered by postmodern literary theory and cultural studies Taking into account the political and intellectual issues at stake and the relation of these issues to economic and social transformations Berlin argues for a pedagogy that makes the English studies classroom the center of disciplinary activities the point at which theory practice and democratic politics intersect This new educational approach organized around text interpretation and production not one or the other exclusively as before prepares students for work democratic politics and consumer culture today by providing a revised conception of both reading and writing as acts of textual interpretation it also gives students tools to critique the socially constructed politically charged reality of classroom college and culture This new edition of Rhetorics Poetics and Cultures includes JAC response essays by Linda Brodkey Patricia Harkin Susan Miller John Trimbur and Victor J Vitanza as well as an afterword by Janice M Lauer These essays situate Berlin s work in personal pedagogical and political contexts that highlight the continuing importance of his work for understanding contemporary disciplinary practice     Resources in Education ,1997     Play and the Politics of Reading Paul B. Armstrong,2018-07-05 Classrooms and curricula should be structured to foster the playful interaction that can teach students how to negotiate social and political differences in an emancipatory noncoercive manner Teaching reading as a playful exercise of reciprocity with otherness can help prepare students for a democracy understood as a community of communities from the Pedagogical Postscript Reading is socially useful in Paul B Armstrong s view and can model democratic interaction by a community unconstrained by the need to build consensus but aware of the dangers of violence irrationality and anarchy Reading requires mutual recognition but need not culminate in agreement Armstrong says instead the social potential of reading arises from the active exchange of attitudes ideas and values between author and reader and among readers Play and the Politics of Reading which has important implications for education draws on Wolfgang Iser s notion of free play to offer a valuable response to social problems Armstrong finds that Joseph Conrad E M Forster Henry James and James Joyce provide apt examples of the politics of reading for reasons both literary and political In making the transition from realism to modernism these authors experimented with narrative strategies that seek simultaneously to represent the world and to question the means of representation itself The formal ambiguities and complexities of such texts as Howards End and Ulysses are ways of staging for the reader the difficulties and opportunities of a world of differences Innovative formal structures challenge readers to reconsider their assumptions and beliefs about social issues     Pedagogy is Politics Maria-Regina Kecht,1992     Writing Ourselves Into the Story Sheryl I.
