The Evaluation of Teaching in Medical Schools Robert M. Rippey,1981-01-01 Resources in Education ,2001

Assessment Measures in Medical School, Residency, and Practice Joseph S. Gonnella,1993 Curriculum

Design, Evaluation, and Teaching in Medical Education Jochanan Benbassat,2024-12-06 This concise and challenging examination of medical education aims to discuss curriculum design and evaluation in medical schools and to take a fresh look at current trends in patient care and continuing education teaching methods The ideas and insights provided here are based on the author s long career in clinical practice and teaching medical students and residents Medical education is no exception to the changes at every level in medicine For example the ready access to medical information via the Internet and other media has produced smarter and informed patients Multi specialty hospital practice has replaced the individual doctor patient relationship perhaps compromising patient care to some extent New subjects have been added over the years to medical curricula Nevertheless there has often been a reluctance to remove older topics possibly limiting the medical training course s ability to develop as expected The transition from theories of higher education to the reality of curriculum planning and design is a huge leap An important question is how to translate the mission of higher education in general which has been variably described as a training of reflective individuals who possess both culture and expertise and can master any subject with facility into a coherent teaching program The mission of medical education includes the promotion of professionalism in learners by including courses in medical ethics that have become integral to medical education in the USA However despite the development of standards and competencies related to professionalism there is no consensus on the specific goals of medical ethics education the knowledge and skills expected of learners and the best pedagogical methods and processes for their implementation and assessment A significant contribution to the clinical teaching literature Curriculum Design Evaluation and Teaching in Medical Education should be of interest to a variety of readers including clinical educators administrators health care professionals and especially residency directors Cumulated Index

Medicus ,1966 Research in Education ,1974 Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),1980 First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70 Change and Reform in Medicine and Health Education in China - A Teaching Staffs Perspective Xiangyun Du, Jiannong Shi, Yuhong Zhao,2022-09-01 In recent decades medicine and health education has been challenged worldwide by changes in its profession Being a doctor nowadays encompasses much more than having biomedical knowledge and includes interdisciplinary skills related to societal needs communication skills and ethical consideration among other things In order to provide these skills and competences many medical schools are implementing changes in different aspects of the education These changes are also occurring in China In the past twenty years medical education in China has initiated a series of reforms The current reforms have mainly been led by the Ministry of Education and Ministry of Health These initial actions have evidenced both positive and negative attitudes and reactions Is there a need to make further reforms and changes If so in what aspects This book documents a national investigation of attitudes from teaching staff on the reforms and changes Nearly 1800 teaching staff from 23 medical universities participated in this investigation The results suggest that sustainable educational change demands not only supports from policy makers and leaderships but also active participation from teaching staff In order for the implementation of reforms and changes to be successful two factors are essential from the teaching staff s perspective First it is important for teaching staff to gain a deep understanding of educational reform and change and second they should develop appropriate skills to be able to conduct the reforms through their teaching practice To provide these two factors institutional facilitation is necessary and crucial

Health Manpower in Four Countries Ruth Roemer, Milton Irwin Roemer, 1975 Fostering Learning in Small Groups Jane Westberg, PhD, Hilliard Jason, MD, EdD, 2004-01-01 Drawing on years of experience the authors address the questions that educators may have about teaching small groups in the health professions The first half of the book focuses on practical strategies involved in planning and facilitating learning in small groups The authors discuss the characteristics of effective groups and emphasize the importance of using a collaborative approach The second half focuses on planning for leading small groups that have specific purposes such as providing a forum for discussion and dialogue teaching communication skills and helping learners to reflect on their patient care experience and more The book s broad orientation and practical emphasis will be useful to all educator in health care
