Van Dyke,2015-06-12 Excerpt from A Text Book of the History of Painting The object of this series of text book is to provide concise teachable histories of art for class room use in schools and colleges The limited time given to the study of art in the average educational institution has not only dictated the condensed style of the volumes but has limited their scope of matter to the general features of art history Arch logical discussions on special subjects and aesthetic theories have been avoided The main facts of history as settled by the best authorities are given If the reader choose to enter into particulars the bibliography cited at the head of each chapter will be found helpful Illustrations have been introduced as sight help to the text and to avoid repetition abbreviations have been used wherever practicable The enumeration of the principal works of a school or period and where they may be found which follows each chapter may be serviceable to travelling students in Europe This volume on painting the first of the series omits mention of such work in Arabic Indian Chinese and Persian art as may come properly under the head of Ornament In treating of individual painters it has been thought best to give a short critical estimate of the man and his rank among the painters of his time rather than the detailed facts of his life Students who wish accounts of the lives of the painters should use Vasari and the various encyclopedias and histories cited in the bibliography in connection with this text book About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

A Text-Book of the History of Painting John Charles Van Dyke, 2018-08-09 A Text Book of the History of Painting by John Charles Van Dyke INTRODUCTION The origin of painting is unknown The first important records of this art are met with in Egypt but before the Egyptian civilization the men of the early ages probably used color in ornamentation and decoration and they certainly scratched the outlines of men and animals upon bone and slate Traces of this rude primitive work still remain to us on the pottery weapons and stone implements of the cave dwellers But while indicating the awakening of intelligence in early man they can be reckoned with as art only in a slight arch ological way They show inclination rather than accomplishment a wish to ornament or to represent with only a crude knowledge of how to go about it The first aim of this primitive painting was undoubtedly decoration the using of colored forms for color and form only as shown in the pottery designs or cross hatchings on stone knives or spear heads The second and perhaps later aim was by imitating the shapes and colors of men animals and the like to convey an idea of the proportions and characters of such things An outline of a cave bear or a mammoth was perhaps the cave dweller s way of telling his fellows what monsters he had slain We may assume that it was pictorial record primitive picture written history This early method of conveying an idea is in intent substantially the same as the later hieroglyphic writing and historical painting of the Egyptians The difference between them is merely one of development Thus there is an indication in the art of Primitive Man of the two great departments of painting existent to day We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works To ensure a high quality product each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for you it becomes an enriching experience
