Language Planning from Practice to Theory Robert B. Kaplan, Richard B. Baldauf, 1997-01-01 Language Planning from Practice to Theory examines and reviews the field of language policy and planning In the first section of the book language policy and planning definitions current practices goals and ways of thinking are discussed as a foundation for understanding current practice in the discipline The central elements of language policy and planning practice are then described from two perspectives In the second section the methodology for collecting language planning data is outlined and the key cross societal issues of language in education planning literacy and economics in language planning are discussed In the third section case studies related to language and power bilingualism and status and specific purpose issues in language planning are covered The final two chapters draw together the critical issues and problems which have arisen from current practice and which must be considered in building a theory of the discipline A reference appendix to language planning in national situations is included The book provides the only up to date overview and review of the field of language policy and planning and challenges language planners to think more critically about their discipline Since language will be planned there is a need to consider how it will be done

Resisting Qualifications Reforms in New Zealand, 2019-02-18 New Zealand has been a veritable laboratory for a range of social experiments in the last twenty years including an arranged marriage with neo liberal economic policies during the late 80s and 90s These experiments extended to education where students teachers teacher educators and researchers have experienced wide ranging reforms in administration curriculum and qualifications The most contentious of these have been a series of untried and radical qualifications reforms This book offers a critical examination of these reforms from the perspective of a group of educators who resisted them by doing the unthinkable devising their own national qualification and making it work

Multilingual Learning and Language Supportive Pedagogies in

Sub-Saharan Africa Elizabeth J. Erling, John Clegg, Casmir M. Rubagumya, Colin Reilly, 2021-07-01 This edited collection provides unprecedented insight into the emerging field of multilingual education in Sub Saharan Africa SSA Multilingual education is claimed to have many benefits amongst which are that it can improve both content and language learning especially for learners who may have low ability in the medium of instruction and are consequently struggling to learn The book represents a range of Sub Saharan school contexts and describes how multilingual strategies have been developed and implemented within them to support the learning of content and language It looks at multilingual learning from several points of view including translanguaging or the use of multiple languages and especially African languages for learning and language supportive pedagogy or the implementation of a distinct pedagogy to support learners working through the medium of a second language The book puts forward strategies for creating materials classroom environments and teacher education programmes which support the use of all of a student s languages to improve language and content learning The contexts which the book describes are challenging including low school resourcing poverty and low literacy in the home and school policy which militates against the use of African languages in school The volume also draws on multilingual education approaches which have been successfully carried out in higher resource countries and lend themselves to being adapted for use in SSA It shows how multilingual learning can bring about transformation in education and provides inspiration for how these strategies might spread and be further developed to improve learning in schools in SSA and beyond Chapter 3 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com>
