Text Of The Fourth Gospel In The Writings Of Origen:

The Text of the Fourth Gospel in the Writings of Origen Bart D. Ehrman, Gordon D. Fee, Michael William Holmes, 1992-01-01 The Text of New Testament B.M. Metzger, B.D. Ehrman, 1968 The Text of the New Testament Bruce Manning Metzger, Bart D. Ehrman, 2005 This thoroughly revised edition of Bruce M Metzger's classic work is the most up to date manual available for the textual criticism of the New Testament The Text of the New Testament Fourth Edition has been invigorated by the addition of Bart D Ehrman author of numerous best selling books on the New Testament as a coauthor This revision brings the discussion of such important matters as the early Greek manuscripts and methods of textual criticism up to date integrating recent research findings and approaches into the body of the text as opposed to previous revisions which compiled new material and notes into appendices The authors also examine new areas of interest including the use of computers in the collection and evaluation of manuscript evidence and the effects that social and ideological influences had upon the work of scribes The standard text for courses in biblical studies and the history of Christianity since its first publication in 1964 The Text of the New Testament is poised to become a definitive resource for a whole new generation of students Writing and Rewriting the Gospels James W. Barker, 2025-01-30 A compelling reappraisal of the relationships between the canonical gospels Biblical scholars have long debated the Synoptic problem and the literary relationship between the Gospel of John and the Synoptics During the twentieth century the consensus shifted decisively to the Two Source hypothesis for the Synoptic problem along with the view that John's Gospel was independent of the Synoptics In recent decades all consensus has dissolved yet these questions retain currency and significance James W Barker takes up these questions and reappraises the evidence Drawing on his expertise in ancient compositional practices he makes a persuasive case for a snowballing trajectory whereby each canonical gospel drew upon other canonical gospels Thus Mark was written first Matthew draws on Mark Luke draws on Mark and Matthew and the last of the four John is dependent on all three Synoptics and was meant to be read alongside them This judicious and ambitious study will be of interest to New Testament scholars as well as general readers who want to know more about the literary relationships between the gospels balanced and cohesive picture of the Early Church. It gives an overall view of the reception, transmission and interpretation of the Bible in the life and thought of the Church during the first five centuries of Christianity, the so-called patristic era. The handbook offers the context and presuppositions necessary for understanding the development of the interpretative traditions of the Early Church in its catechesis, its liturgy and as a foundation of its systems of theology. The handbook presents a comprehensive overview of the history of patristic exegesis. Apart from a general introduction to the major topics in this field, it contains essays by leading patristic scholars on the most important Church Fathers such as Augustine, Irenaeus, Origen, Gregory of Nyssa and others. The essays are supplemented by bibliographies of editions and studies on patristic exegesis published from 1945 until 1995. Together, these bibliographies form the only comprehensive bibliography presently available on this topic. The print edition is available as a set of two volumes. 9789004098152

A Textual Study of Family 1 in the Gospel of John Alison Welsby, 2013-12-12. This textual study of the Gospel of John in seventeen Greek manuscripts offers a fresh investigation into the textual group known as Family 1. Since Kirsopp Lake's 1902 study, Codex 1 of the Gospels and its Allies, Family 1 has been considered an important textual witness by all major critical editions of the New Testament; however, with the exception of a recent study of Matthew by Amy Anderson, The Textual Tradition of the Gospels, Family 1 in Matthew has received little further research. This study has been conducted into the family's text. By analysis of a full collation of John, this study examines manuscripts Gregory-Aland 1, 22, 118, 131, 205ab, 205, 209, 565, 872, 884, 1192, 1210, 1278, 1582, 2193, 2372 and 2713. The study has confirmed the place of codices 1 and 1582 as core members of Family 1 but has demonstrated the existence of a new core subgroup represented by codices 565, 884 and 2193 that rivals the textual witness of 1 and 1582. The discovery of this subgroup has broadened the textual contours of Family 1, leading to many new readings, both text and marginal, that should be considered Family 1 readings. The reconstructed Family 1 text with critical apparatus is based on the witness of this wider textual group and is offered as a replacement to Lake's 1902 text of John.

Exegeting the Jews: The Early Reception of the Johannine "Jews" Michael Azar, 2016-04-18. In Exegeting the Jews: The Early Reception of the Johannine Jews, Michael G. Azar analyzes the rhetorical function of the Gospel of John's Jews in the earliest surviving full-length expositions of John in Greek: Origen's Commentary on John (3rd cent.), John Chrysostom's Homilies on John (4th cent.) and Cyril of Alexandria's Commentary on John (5th cent.). While scholarship often has portrayed the reception history (Wirkungsgeschichte) of the Gospel's Jews as simply and uniformly anti-Jewish or antisemitic, Azar demonstrates that these three writers primarily read John's narrative typologically, employing the situation and characters in the Gospel not against contemporary Jews with whom they regularly interacted but as types of each patristic writer's own intra-Christian struggle and opponents.
