An Introduction to Chemistry Michael Mosher, Paul Kelter, 2023-03-18 This textbook is written to thoroughly cover the topic of introductory chemistry in detail with specific references to examples of topics in common or everyday life It provides a major overview of topics typically found in first year chemistry courses in the USA The textbook is written in a conversational question based format with a well defined problem solving strategy and presented in a way to encourage readers to think like a chemist and to think outside of the box Numerous examples are presented in every chapter to aid students and provide helpful self learning tools The topics are arranged throughout the textbook in a traditional approach to the subject with the primary audience being undergraduate students and advanced high school students of chemistry      Elementary Household Chemistry John Ferguson Snell, 2015-06-24 Excerpt from Elementary Household Chemistry An Introductory Textbook for Students of Home Economics The recent development of courses of instruction in Home Economics in America has created a field for textbooks prepared to meet the special needs of this new class of students The course in chemistry presented in this book is the outcome of several years experience with a class of students the majority of whom have had no previous instruction in the science The text has been written with the needs of such students primarily in mind but the hope is entertained that with suitable omissions it may also be found useful in the many institutions in which the student of household chemistry approaches the subject after a preliminary training in general chemistry The principle which has been kept constantly in mind is to introduce the applications of chemistry to household affairs as early and as often as possible and to present only such portions of the subject matter of theoretical chemistry as is essential to the comprehension of these applications In this way the student's interest is enlisted and maintained a most important consideration in the teaching of an applied science The author's thanks are due to the many friends who have taken an interest in the preparation of this volume and more particularly to Professor John Bonsall Porter of McGill University Mr F O Farey of the Robert W Hunt Company Montreal and Mr Peter H Walsh Chemist of the Dominion Textile Company Magog Quebec for suggestions in regard to the chapters on fuels soaps and textiles respectively to Miss Katharine A Fisher Head of the Household Science Department Macdonald College for the table of weights of one cupful of various food materials and to Professor H C Sherman of Columbia University for numerous suggestions About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Chemistry and Its Relations to Daily Life Louis Kahlenberg, 2015-06-26 Excerpt from Chemistry and Its Relations to Daily Life A Textbook for Students of Agriculture and Home Economics in Secondary Schools This book is intended to represent a year's work for students of agriculture and home economics in secondary schools The aim has been to make the subject matter thoroughly practical in character and to present it in an interesting and simple way so that the student may grasp it At the same time the delineation has been made on sound scientific lines and it will require patient and continuous application on the part of the student to accomplish the work intelligently Useful facts have naturally been placed in the foreground and no more theory has been presented than necessary Chemical formulas have been introduced to some extent but merely as an aid in expressing facts in simple compact and convenient form Atomic and molecular theories have not been presented for they are not calculated to aid students at this stage of advancement While the book is not intended as a preparatory course for colleges yet those who have completed it successfully will doubtless have gained information and sound scientific training which will compare favorably with that received in the pursuit of courses usually taken in preparatory schools The laboratory experiments detailed in Chapter XXI are to be performed by the student in connection with the study of each of the preceding chapters The teacher should supervise this work carefully and require the student to keep neat accurate records in a notebook At the end of Chapter XXII are given lists of apparatus and chemicals that will be needed About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Chemistry Theodore Lawrence Brown, Harold Eugene LeMay, Bruce Edward Bursten, Catherine Jones Murphy, Patrick M. Woodward, Matthew Stoltzfus, 2023 Publishing the fifteenth edition of this text bespeaks an exceptionally long record of successful textbook writing We are appreciative of the loyalty and support the book has received over the years and we are mindful of our obligation to justify each new edition We begin our approach to each new edition with an intensive author retreat in which we ask ourselves the deep questions that we must answer before we can move forward What justifies yet another edition What is changing in the world not only of chemistry but with respect to science education and the qualities of the students we serve How can we help your students not only learn the principles of chemistry but also become critical thinkers who can think more like chemists The answers lie only partly in the changing face of chemistry itself The introduction of many new technologies has changed the landscape in the teaching of sciences at all levels The use of online resources in accessing information and presenting learning materials has markedly changed the role of the textbook as one element among many tools for student learning Our challenge as authors is to maintain the text as the primary source of chemical knowledge and practice while at the same time integrating it with the new avenues for learning made possible by technology This book incorporates a number of technologies to improve pedagogy including use of computer based classroom tools such as Mastering Chemistry which is continually evolving to provide more effective means of testing and evaluating student performance while giving the student immediate and helpful feedback Video feedback for a select number of Exam Prep questions is also available in Mastering Chemistry which is new to this edition
