Technology And Economic Development The Dynamics Of Local Regional And National Change:

Technology and Economic Development Edward J. Malecki, 1991 Technology and Economic Development Edward J. Malecki, 2009 This study examines the effects of technological change on economic growth and development synthesizing extensive research from multiple disciplines including geography and planning regional science entrepreneurship technology policy and economics It uses the framework of regional development to encompass economic dynamics at all spatial scales national regional and local The concept of regional development is introduced as the qualitative or structural features of a region's economy as opposed to its sheer size or growth rate The analysis also examines the core periphery dichotomy where the core is defined as a set of regions in which complexity technology and control are the norm and where linkages to other nodes and the global system are common The discussion also draws a distinction between economic growth and economic development the former designates increases in population within a specific area or increases in the quantity or the value of the goods and services and does not necessarily lead to qualitative improvements in life the way development does Technological capability is closely related to capability in R conventional strategies are changing to encompass people their contacts and skills as another vital basis for success of firms in new technologies and in alliances and other cooperations The location of economic activities is explored There are two major sets of influences on the innovativeness and competitiveness of places 1 technical skills and information are key in the process of technological change and competition and 2 urban areas contain a complex synergy of factors that smaller more remote places cannot attain Producer services which are strongly based on knowledge and symbolic analysis are therefore typically clustered in cities Small firms and entrepreneurship are examined as a crucial part of a well functioning regional economy Research has demonstrated the close relationship between entrepreneurship and regional and local development Innovativeness developed within local inter firm networks both supports existing firms and presents opportunities for starting new businesses in order to serve newly identified markets Networks of firms complement and sometimes substitute for a firm's own technological capability Networks of large firms and the globalization of economic activity are then considered Policy attempts at national regional and local scales to influence the location of economic activity are analyzed The economic progress and prospects of developing countries are assessed Policies for innovation entrepreneurship and the functioning of the economy are essential and require flexibility in order to respond to changing conditions in the world economy in specific product markets and in technology Concludes with a discussion of some of the central themes that were facing society at the end of the 1990s including basic needs for human development environmental issues employment and human capital and infrastructures for future technologies AT

Technology and Economic Development Edward J. Malecki, 1997 Continues to provide an excellent coverage on the effects of technological change on economic growth and development The text retains its international focus together with a broad coverage of the activities which constitute technological innovation High-Technology Development in Regional Economic Growth Byung-Rok Choi,2019-06-04 This title was first published in 2003 Korea has had considerable success in developing its high technology industries and these have become significant employers in this region By analysing the situation in Korea this book explores the effects of dynamic externalities on the growth of regional employment in the high technology industries It puts forward innovative simultaneous equation models to test three sets of hypotheses related to so called Jacobs and MAR effects differentiated by firm size organizational type and product Clear evidence is found for endogenous technological progress marked by positive feedback especially for small firms in diversified high technology enclaves There are technological externalities associated with knowledge spillovers and local employment has indirect effects on employment growth via dynamic externalities The implications for local economic development policy are outlined in a concluding section

The Myths of Regional Innovation Rider W. Foley,2025-08-08 Billions of dollars Euros yen and yuan in public funds are spent annually to promote innovation in metropolitan regions attempting to transform the economy by attracting technology based companies and supporting small startups to secure high paying jobs The impacts of those investments are typically assessed in terms of economic growth venture capital and jobs Regional innovation is assessed with financial measures that do not account for the distribution of wealth nor do they evaluate if innovation addresses broader sustainability concerns This book draws on evidence from 144 interviews with civic leaders in three urban regions Atlanta Phoenix and the Twin Cities to illuminate three commonly accepted but flawed myths about innovation that misdirect policymakers and civic leaders and perpetuate the idea that innovation is solely about economic growth This book offers evidence of the social networks labor divisions and conditions enabling innovation to dispel those three myths and propose more nuanced and realistic ways of thinking about regional innovation This book is not an argument against innovation Rather it critically reflects upon investments in innovation and showcases laudable efforts to create a livable and sustainable city The book offers a novel method to assess the processes and outcomes of innovation in a manner that can complement economic approaches The author lays bare the human values that motivate city staff corporate officers and academic partners and highlights the efforts of organizations that often remain underappreciated The evidence presented in this book puts forward a means to assess if and how innovation contributes to an equitable and sustainable future or if it perpetuates injustices and economic stratification The Myths of Regional Innovation will appeal to scholars across broad fields including innovation studies technology management entrepreneurship economic development and public policy global in scope involving an international set of contributors Given its broad inclusive scope and unique online accessibility it is anticipated that the International Encyclopedia of Human Geography will become the major reference work for the discipline over the coming decades The Encyclopedia will be available in both limited edition print and online via ScienceDirect featuring extensive browsing searching and internal cross referencing between articles in the work plus dynamic linking to journal articles and abstract databases making navigation flexible and easy For more information pricing options and availability visit http://info.sciencedirect.com/content/books/ref_works coming Available online on ScienceDirect and in limited edition print format Broad interdisciplinary coverage across human geography Philosophy Methods People Social Cultural Political Economic Development Health Cartography Urban Historical Regional Comprehensive and unique the first of its kind in human geography Beyond Territory Harald Bathelt, Maryann Feldman, Dieter F. Kogler, 2012-03-29 The main purpose of the book is to discuss new trends in the dynamic geography of innovation and argue that in an era of increasing globalization two trends seem quite dominant rigid territorial models of innovation and localized configurations of innovative activities The book brings together scholars who are working on these topics Rather than focusing on established concepts and theories the book aims to question narrow explanations rigid territorializations and simplistic policy frameworks it provides evidence that innovation while not exclusively dependent on regional contexts can be influenced by place specific attributes The book will bring together new empirical and conceptual work by an interdisciplinary group of leading scholars from areas such as economic geography innovation studies and political science Based on recent discussions surrounding innovation systems of different types it aims to synthesize state of the art know how and provide new perspectives on the role of innovation and knowledge creation in the global political economy The Geography of the World Economy 5th Edition Paul Knox, John Agnew, Linda McCarthy, 2014-04-04 The Geography of the World Economy provides an in depth and stimulating introduction to the globalization of the world economy The book offers a consideration of local regional national and global economic development over the long historical term The theory and practice of economic and political geography provide a basis for understanding the interactions within and among the developed and developing countries of the world Illustrated in colour throughout this new edition has been completely reworked and updated to take account of the substantial changes in the world economy and includes a new chapter on services It is ideal for upper level university undergraduates and for post graduates in a variety of specializations including geography economics political science international relations and global studies Linking Industries Across the World Eike W. Schamp, 2019-06-04 Originally published in 2005 This book examines how regional industries use different networks on various geographical scales in order to withstand increasing competition in a globalising world It argues that new forms of global governance of networked industries are emerging in particular in those areas that have only recently been incorporated into the global economy such as Eastern Europe Asia and Southern Africa The book addresses a number of issues including the different forms of institutional arrangements that contribute to the formation of heterogeneous global industrial networks It also raises the issue of national institutions that still matter in network formation The focus of the book is on how to improve regional and sectoral competitiveness in a global context and it suggests this is best achieved by a close analysis of global linkages an evolutionary perspective on processes taking place and a more differentiated view on globalisation

New Money, Nice Town Leonard Nevarez, 2014-01-14 The economic restructuring that has gone on since the 1980s has produced a new economic space in which service and high tech firms are at the forefront of innovation One of the features of the new economy is what pop geographer Joel Kotkin calls nerdistans or smaller cities with a substantial high tech sector limits on growth environmentally friendly policies and a generally well educated population In New Money Nice Town Leonard Nevarez takes a close look at how new economy firms in quality of life cities interact with local political structures finding that they are both more liberal and more detached than their traditional counterparts This new global economy has created communities whose politics are more democratic but also more tenuous and unstable

Science and Technology in Southern Africa and East and South Asia, 2022-07-11 The theme of Science Technology and Development in Southern Africa and East and Central Asia is threefold The first component concerns the proposition that no underdeveloped nation will be empowered to meet the needs and aspirations of its citizens without the adoption of advancing Science Technology The adoption of S T processes by examining the questions of political leadership initiation in Botswana and Singapore is explored in chapters one and two Component number two engages what is widely regarded as potentially the most enabling cluster of advanced technologies for development in the South information technologies IT Articles three through five take up IT and development in Malaysia South Africa South Korea and Namibia The final component discusses the crucial subject of technology transfer by comparing Japan s technology transfer to Southeast Asia and Southern Africa Contributors are James Bozeman Jong Ho Kim Takahashi Motoki Meera Nanda Rubin Patterson Sakano Taichi Ernest J Wilson III and William Wresch

Quality and Inequality in Regional and Urban Systems Karima Kourtit, Peter Nijkamp, Roger Stough, 2019-11-25 In the aftermath of both ongoing globalisation with both widening and deepening effects on countries regions and cities and structural changes resulting from the 2008 economic recession regions and cities in our world are confronted with a different arena of players performances and institutions The challenges are formidable and numerous Many regions and cities seem to resort to their indigenous strength without much regard to other players in the field This has enormous consequences for the competitive behaviour and profile of regional and urban actors but has at the same time deep impacts on the distribution of wealth income and employment over and within countries regions and cities There is indeed much evidence that disparities among regions and in cities are increasing in this new force field This special issue of REGION makes a solid scientific attempt i to map out the spatial consequences of recent transitions in growth trajectories of countries or regions and ii to trace policy strategies and design effective policy information to cope adequately with these new challenges The present special issue does so by highlighting the new force field of regional and urban dynamics from three angles in the context of spatial quality and inequality These will be briefly sketched below

Innovation and Institutions Steven Casper, Frans van Waarden, 2005-01-01 The idea behind this book is that institutions are important when it comes to explaining the specialisation and performance of national innovation systems The idea is not new But largely the institution concept has remained somewhat vague and unspecified in the literature This book is valuable since it succeeds in opening up the black box of institutions and organisations The distinction between institutions at different levels and how they link up and form a systemic whole is especially original and fruitful The interdisciplinary team behind the book has also produced a welcome antidote to the current tendency to benchmark innovation systems exclusively on the basis of quantitative indicators The analysis demonstrates that some national systems do better in some specific areas because of being supported by institutions that are sometimes deeply rooted in history and culture This is why imitating best practice across countries is not a straight forward thing to do Bengt ke Lundvall Aalborg University Denmark Innovation and Institutions is an extensive elaboration on the make up of systems of innovation It examines why some countries are more innovative than others why national styles of innovation differ and goes on to explore why some countries make radical innovations but fail to successfully market them whilst others making incremental innovations have more commercial success The book draws on a variety of different literatures and perspectives to illustrate the organizational and institutional dimensions of national innovation systems Literatures discussed include the economics of innovation organizational sociology administrative science institutional economics organizational learning network analysis business systems economic governance and regulation This truly interdisciplinary book will be invaluable to academics and researchers focussing on innovation in a wide range of fields It will also strongly appeal to practitioners and policymakers concerned with innovation

Creating Knowledge over Distance Harald Bathelt, Sebastian Henn, 2025-06-04 Creating Knowledge over Distance shows that economic knowledge creation fundamentally depends on benefits from and is structured by temporary geographical proximity that is by economic actors meeting in person or interacting in a co present context to discuss business opportunities problems and solutions are face to face During the Covid 19 pandemic personal meetings often had to be reduced or were replaced by virtual meetings leading many observers to assume a fundamental reconfiguration of economic life in the future as face to face interaction may be substituted by virtual interaction through the use of new information and communication technologies While communication patterns certainly changed during this period this book demonstrates that the face to face meetings the authors investigate across a sequence of 11 chapters with different knowledge creation contexts are unlikely to be fully substituted by distant interactions and may even become more important over time The book develops the argument by systematically analyzing three configurations of knowledge transfers over distance 1 international community gatherings such as trade fairs delegation travel conventions and conferences 2 mobile business practices including intra firm business coordination inter firm projects producer user meetings and corporate expansions inter firm negotiations as well as 3 transnational networks related to transnational corporations and transnational migrant firms including new transnational firms new Argonauts and transnational family networks

The Elgar Companion to Innovation and Knowledge Creation Harald Bathelt, Patrick Cohendet, Sebastian Henn, Laurent Simon, 2017-11-24 This unique Companion provides a comprehensive overview and critical evaluation of existing conceptualizations and new developments in innovation research It draws on multiple perspectives of innovation knowledge and creativity from economics geography history management political science and sociology The Companion brings together leading scholars to reflect upon innovation as a concept Part I innovation and institutions Part II innovation and creativity Part III innovation networking and communities Part IV innovation in permanent spatial settings Part V innovation in temporary virtual and open settings Part VI innovation entrepreneurship and market making Part VII and the governance and management of innovation Part VIII

Britain's Cities Michael Pacione, 2002-11-01 Uneven distribution of life is a dominant feature of the city Major social economic and spatial divisions are apparent in terms of income and wealth health crime housing and employment This text offers an introduction to current processes of urban restructuring geographies of division and contemporary conditions within the city The geography of Britain's cities is the outcome of interaction between a host of public and private economic social and political forces operating at a variety of spatial scales from the global to the local A deeper understanding of the nature of urban division and of the problems of and prospects for local people and places in urban Britain must be grounded in an appreciation of the structural forces processes and contextual factors which condition local urban geographies This book combines structural and local level perspectives to illuminate the complex geography of socio spatial division within urban Britain It combines conceptual and empirical analyses from researchers in the field

Rural America and the Changing Structure of Manufacturing, 1993

The Entrepreneurship Dynamic Claudia Bird Schoonhoven, Elaine Romanelli, 2001 New organizations do not emerge full blown from the idiosyncratic minds of individual entrepreneurs Their ideas for new organizations their ability to acquire capital and other essential resources and their likelihood of survival as entrepreneurs derive from the contexts in which they live and work The Entrepreneurship Dynamic explores the conditions that prompt the founding of large numbers of new organizations or entirely new industries and the effects on existing industries economies and societies

The Handbook of Global Science, Technology, and Innovation Daniele Archibugi, Andrea Filippetti, 2015-06-29 This unique Handbook provides an in depth overview of the themes and direction of science technology innovation and public policy in an increasingly globalized world Leading authorities discuss current debates research issues and prospects and present a foundation for the development of global policy Presents a state of the art overview of science technology and innovation in the context of globalization and global policy Offers an accessible introduction for students researchers and policy makers in the fields of economics sociology political science business studies global studies and international relations Addresses emerging issues and provides clear policy implications and analysis in each chapter Includes crucial coverage of the activities of established and emerging geographical areas Explores the ways in which reforms in intellectual property rights and world trade have been affected by the increasingly international flows of knowledge technology and innovation Examines major policy trends including a significant shift toward private scientific research and a heightened awareness amongst policy makers of the economic and technological impact of scientific activity

The Golden Age Illusion Michael John Webber, 1996-09-20 What happened to the so called golden age of the postwar boom Unprecedented rates of economic growth profitability and wage increases during the 1950s and 60s have given way to a global capitalist economy in disarray Reassessing common interpretations of postwar economic history and geography this book focuses on the evolution of the global economy from the 1950s to the present Based on extensive research the book assesses histories of growth profitability and technological change in core industrial economies Japan and the USA raw material dependent economies Australia and Canada and several newly industrializing countries Brazil South Korea and Taiwan The authors build on standard models of economic change to incorporate new developments in regional dynamics they use nonlinear nonequilibrium and evolutionary arguments to frame discussions of profit rates technological change and interregional capital flows
