Television And The Press Since 1945:

Television and the Press Since 1945 Ralph M. Negrine, 1998 This new volume of documents provides a comprehensive account of the dramatic development of the British media from 1945 95 Negrine brings to life the story of the growth of television and newspapers in British society

New Television, Old Politics Hernan Galperin, 2004-05-24 This book examines the economic political and technological forces that are shaping the future of broadcasting in advanced industrialized nations by comparing the transition from analog to digital TV in the US and Britain Digital TV involves a major reordering of the broadcast sector that requires governments to rethink governance tools for the digital media era By looking at how the transition is unfolding in these nations the book uncovers the political underpinnings of the emerging governance regime for digital communications and explores the implications of the transition for the development of the Information Society in the US and Europe The findings challenge much conventional wisdom about media deregulation and the globalization of communications The transition to digital TV has not weakened but rather reinforced government control over broadcasting Moreover contrary to what many globalization theories would predict it has reinforced preexisting differences in the organization of media across nations

Television Production in Transition Gillian Doyle, Richard Paterson, Kenny Barr, 2021-05-03 Focusing on the growing power of transnational media corporations in an increasingly globalized environment for distribution of television content and on the effects of mergers and acquisitions involving local and independent television production companies this book examines how current and recent re structurings in ownership across the television industry reflect changing business models how they affect creativity and diversity of television output and to what extent they call for new approaches to regulation and policy Based on a major study of the UK production sector as a case study it offers a unique analysis of wider transformations in ownership affecting the television production industry worldwide and of their economic socio cultural and policy implications

The Tories and Television, 1951-1964 Anthony Ridge-Newman, 2016-11-08 This book explores the role of television in the 1950s and early 1960s with a focus on the relationship between Tories and TV The early 1950s were characterized by recovery from war and high politics Television was a new medium that eventually came to dominate mass media and political culture But what impact did this transition have on political organization and elite power structures Winston Churchill avoided it Anthony Eden wanted to control it Harold Macmillan tried to master it and Alec Douglas Home was not Prime Minister long enough to fully utilize it The Conservative Party s relationship with the new medium of television is a topic rich with scholarly questions and interesting quirks that were characteristic of the period This exploration examines the changing dynamics between politics and the media at grassroots and elite levels Through analysing rich and diverse source materials from the Conservative Party Archive Anthony Ridge Newman takes a case study approach to comparing the impact of television at different points in the party s history In mapping changes across a thirteen year period of continual Conservative governance this book argues that the advent of television contributed to the party's transition from a membership focused party to a television centric professionalized elite

The Galaxy Is Rated G R.C. Neighbors, Sandy Rankin, 2011-08-10 Through spaceships aliens ray guns and other familiar trappings science fiction uses the future and sometimes the past to comment on current social cultural and political ideologies the same is true of science fiction in children's film and television This collection of essays analyzes the confluences of science fiction and children's visual media covering such cultural icons as Flash Gordon the Jetsons and Star Wars as well as more contemporary fare like the films Wall E Monsters vs Aliens and Toy Story Collectively the essays discover applaud and critique the hidden and not so hidden messages presented on our children's film and TV screens

Politics and the Media in Britain Raymond Kuhn, 2017-09-16 This important new text provides an up to date account of the complex interrelationship between politics and the media in Britain It starts by setting key policy areas in the context of technological convergence globalization and initiatives at European level It then addresses the key issues the role of the media in politics and elections

The Media in Britain Jeremy Tunstall, 1983 British newspapers The Times The Guardian Daily Telegraph and Financial Times have long been considered among the best in the world and the BBC has become the world's most venerated television and radio organization In this book Jeremy Tunstall author of The Media are American surveys British media since 1945 including television radio films newspapers and magazines with the purpose of studying how they operate and what the future holds for them In the course of the book he discusses such issues as the relationship of politics to the media media audiences media biases control of the media by conglomerates and policies for the future

Television and Consumer Culture Rob Turnock, 2007-07-30 The radical expansion of television broadcasting in the post war years and beyond both reflected and promoted a cultural revolution sweeping across British society Reaching out to a mass audience for the first time the new television industry made visible the transition from drab austerity and seeming cultural consensus to the brash heady glitz and individualism of the new consumer age Television and Consumer Culture explores television's institutional technological and programming developments during this period revealing how genres as different as action adventure series serious dramas situation comedies and quiz and game shows simultaneously promoted both consumer culture and class conflict Drawing on historical analysis and sociological theory and looking at issues such as celebrity scheduling intimacy and sociability Turnock argues that television during this era established and promoted itself as a culturally powerful force a fact that has implications for the way that media power is understood to operate today

Towards a Market in Broadcasting C. Potschka, 2012-03-27 A comparative analysis of the evolution of UK and German broadcasting policies adding to the developing area of comparative research on media and communications policy The book focuses on processes of marketization and liberalization as they have affected policy making national regulatory frameworks and media structures

Television Across Asia Michael Keane, Albert Moran, 2003-10-16 This book explores the trade in television program formats which is a crucially important ingredient in the globalisation of culture in Asia It examines how much traffic there is in program formats the principal direction of flow of such traffic and the economic and cultural significance of this trade for the territories involved and for the region as a whole It shows how new technology deregulation privatisation and economic recession have greatly intensified competition between broadcasters in Asia as in other parts of the world and discusses how this in turn has multiplied the incidence of television format remakes with some countries developing dedicated format companies and others becoming net importers and adapters of formats
