Being short on resources is now the new normal for libraries, and having too little money and too few staff members always brings library staff to the same predicament: not enough time. While it is not possible to create more time by making use of the right time management tools and techniques, it is possible to make huge improvements in your productivity and, as side benefits, a decrease in job stress and frustration and a greater sense of work satisfaction. This book shows how to apply powerful time management strategies so you can get more done, deliver the best service possible to your patrons, and enjoy being in an environment that fosters greater creativity and workplace satisfaction. Topics include time tracking, task management, identifying goals and priorities, beating the obstacles of procrastination and perfectionism, as well as distractions and interruptions, and staying on top of time management when collaborating. Quotes and stories from individuals who work in libraries illustrate key points and concepts throughout the book. The final chapter explains how to set a personal plan for time management using the awareness of your own patterns, obstacles, and goals, and the experience you have gained with various time management techniques and tools to create your own unique time management strategy and make time management an ongoing long-term priority.

Virtual Coach, Virtual Mentor David Clutterbuck, Zulfi Hussain, 2010-10-01 In the case of virtual coaching and mentoring or e mentoring and ecoaching or coaching mentoring by wire choose your own preferred nomenclature there are hundreds perhaps thousands of programs and initiatives across the world Yet there is comparatively little in the way of comparison of good practice or academic evaluation of what does and doesn't work We found numerous individual case studies but a dearth of empirical research and no significant collection of cases to illustrate the diversity of applications Virtual Coach Virtual Mentor provides a wide variety of perspectives on a rapidly growing phenomenon We hope and intend that it should make a timely and significant contribution to good practice and to encouraging more practitioners and their clients and more organizations to experiment with using electronic media to enrich coaching and mentoring The view of ecoaching and e mentoring is firmly one that these new media are less a replacement for traditional face to face than an enhancement of learning alliances in general We see no evidence of fewer face to face coaching or mentoring relationships on the contrary they continue to become more popular and widespread Rather we see that virtual coaching and mentoring both enrich predominantly face to face relationships by connecting partners at times between formal meetings and open up coaching and mentoring to new audiences and new applications
