The Arms Concert Part :

The Part and the Whole in Early American Literature, Print Culture, and Art Matthew Pethers, Daniel Diez Couch, 2024-04-12 The essays in this pathbreaking collection consider the significance of varied early American fragmentary genres and practices from diaries and poetry to almanacs and commonplace books to sermons and lists to Indigenous ruins and other material shards and fragments often overlooked by critics in a scholarly privileging of the whole Contributors from literary studies book history and visual culture discuss a host of canonical and non canonical figures from Edward Taylor and Washington Irving to Mary Rowlandson and Sarah Kemble Knight offering insight into the many intellectual ideological and material variations of form that populated the early American cultural landscape As these essays reveal the casting of the fragmentary as aesthetically eccentric or incomplete was a way of reckoning with concerns about the related fragmentation of nation society and self For a contemporary audience they offer new ways to think about the inevitable gaps and absences in our cultural and historical archive

Solo for Piano by John Cage, Second Realization, Part 1 David Tudor, 2020-01-01 When I think of music I think of you and vice versa John Cage told David Tudor in the summer of 1951 Looking back years later Cage said that every work he composed in the ensuing two decades was composed for Tudor even if it was not written for the piano Tudor s nominal instrument The collaboration of Cage and Tudor reached an apex in the Solo for Piano from Cage s Concert for Piano and Orchestra 1957 58 None of Cage s previous works had employed more than a single type of notation In contrast the Solo for Piano consists of eighty four notational types ranging from standard line and staff notation to extravagant musical graphics The notational complexity of the Solo for Piano led Tudor to write out or realize a performance score from which he played at the premiere of the Concert for Piano and Orchestra in May 1958 The next spring when Cage requested music to complement his ninety minute lecture Indeterminacy Tudor created a second realization for which he devised a new temporal structure to implement Cage s notations This edition of Tudor s second realization of the Solo for Piano presents Tudor s performance score in the spatial temporal layout of its proportional notation An introductory essay discusses the early collaborations of Cage and Tudor as well as the genesis creative process and performance history of the Solo for Piano The critical commentary examines each of Tudor s methods of realization which notations from Cage s score Tudor selected and why how Tudor interpreted Cage s often ambiguous performance instructions how Tudor distributed the resulting sounds temporally and the ways in which Tudor s realization fulfills transcends and sometimes contravenes the instructions of Cage s score
