Ecosystem Goods and Services from Plantation Forests Jurgen Bauhus, Peter van der Meer, Markku Kanninen, 2010-09-23 Plantation forests often have a negative image They are typically assumed to be poor substitutes for natural forests particularly in terms of biodiversity conservation carbon storage provision of clean drinking water and other non timber goods and services Often they are monocultures that do not appear to invite people for recreation and other direct uses Yet as this book clearly shows they can play a vital role in the provision of ecosystem services when compared to agriculture and other forms of land use or when natural forests have been degraded This is the first book to examine explicitly the non timber goods and services provided by plantation forests including soil water and biodiversity conservation as well as carbon sequestration and the provision of local livelihoods The authors show that if we require a higher provision of ecosystem goods and services from both temperate and tropical plantations new approaches to their management are required These include policies methods for valuing the services the practices of small landholders landscape approaches to optimise delivery of goods and services and technical issues about how to achieve suitable solutions at the scale of forest stands While providing original theoretical insights the book also gives guidance for plantation managers policy makers conservation practitioners and community advocates who seek to promote or strengthen the multiple use of forest plantations for improved benefits for society Published with CIFOR

Fostering Riparian Cooperation in International River Basins Syed S. Kirmani, Guy J.-M. Le Moigne, 1997-01-01 This report describes the World Bank s successful interventions in three international river basins the Indus the Mekong and the Aral Sea to foster riparian cooperation and agreements It discusses the key features of the Bank s role and the following strategies intervening solely to promote development and peace timing interventions when issues were serious when riparians were not able to address them on their own and when they needed and wanted Bank assistance initiating dialogue with riparian countries at the highest levels to inspire confidence playing a proactive role in exploring pragmatic solutions acceptable to all parties rather than pursuing ideal but unworkable solutions using quiet diplomacy in negotiating sensitive issues making the required long term staff and budgetary commitment despite final outcome uncertainty mobilizing donor countries support and analyzing risks and taking appropriate measures to minimize them The paper concludes that the Bank can succeed in other international river basin conflicts if it follows these same strategies

Civil Service Reform in Francophone Africa 'Ladipo Adamolekun, Guy de Lusignan, Armand Atomate, 1997-01-01 The world's financial markets are rapidly integrating into a single global marketplace and developing countries are being drawn into this process starting from different points and moving at various speeds Those with adequate institutions and sound policies in place may proceed smoothly along the road toward financial integration and gain the many benefits that integration can bring Most of the developing economies lack many of the necessary prerequisites for such a move a few are so unprepared that integration may do them more harm than good Developing countries may have little choice about whether to follow this path advances in communications and new developments in finance have made the course inevitable but they may still choose the ways in which they proceed choosing the policies that benefit the economy and averting potential shocks This World Bank report looks at the important challenges both sets of countries face in a new age of global capital The book presents new and compelling evidence that while low interest rates in industrial countries provided an initial impetus to the surge in private capital flows during 1989-93 these flows have entered a new phase driven by increased financial integration The report analyzes the causes and effects of integration with a particular emphasis on how developing countries in the nascent stages of integration can learn from the experiences of the more rapidly integrating developing countries

The Legal Framework for Water Users' Associations Salman M. A. Salman, 1997-01-01 Recent experience confirms that participation of farmers in managing parts of an irrigation system and collecting water charges usually results in a more efficient use of water To be effective farmers in the hydraulic unit would need to organize themselves by establishing a water users association This paper presents a comparative study of the legal framework for these associations in Colombia India Mexico Nepal the Philippines and Turkey Building on the theory that participation of farmers in managing and operating parts of an irrigation system will result in an optimum use of water the document analyzes in a comparative manner how each of these countries addressed the basic aspects related to the establishment and functioning of such associations Additional emphasis is placed on the collection of water charges
