Author and Title Index*, 1975 Canadian Society: Sociological Perspectives NA NA, 2015-12-29 Science, Technology, and Society David D. Kumar, Daryl E. Chubin, 2012-12-06 David D Kumar and Daryl E Chubin We live in an information age Technology abounds information technology communication technology learning technology As a once popular song went Something's happening here but it's just not exactly clear The world appears to be a smaller less remote place We live in it but we are not necessarily closely tied to it We lack a satisfactory understanding of it So we are left with a paradox In an information age information alone will neither inform nor improve us as citizens nor our democracy society or institutions No improvement will take some effort It is a heavy burden to be reflective indeed analytical and disciplined but only constructively constrained by different perspectives The science based technology that makes for the complexity controversy and uncertainty of life sows the seeds of understanding in Science Technology and Society STS as it is known encompasses a hybrid area of scholarship now nearly three decades old As D R Sarewitz a former geologist now congressional staffer and an author put it After all the important and often controversial policy dilemmas posed by issues such as nuclear energy toxic waste disposal global climate change or biotechnology cannot be resolved by authoritative scientific knowledge instead they must involve a balancing of technical considerations with other criteria that are explicitly nonscientific ethics aesthetics equity ideology Trade offs must be made in light of inevitable uncertainties Sarewitz 1996 p 182 A Vision for Science Education Roger Cross, 2004-08-02 One of the most important and consistent voices in the reform of science education over the last thirty years has been that of Peter Fensham His vision of a democratic and socially responsible science education for all has inspired change in schools and colleges throughout the world Often moving against the tide Fensham travelled the world to promote his radical ideology He was appointed Australia's first Professor of Science Education and was later made a Member of the Order of Australia in recognition of his work in this new and emerging field of study. In this unique book leading science educators from around the world examine and discuss Fensham's key ideas. Each describes how his arguments, proposals and recommendations have affected their own practice and extend and modify his message in light of current issues and trends in science education. The result is a vision for the future of science teaching internationally. Academics, researchers and practitioners in science education around the world will find this book a fascinating insight into the life and work of one of the foremost pioneers in science education. The book will also make inspiring reading for postgraduate students of science education. Jacques Ellul and the Technological Society in the 21st Century Helena M. Jerónimo, José Luís García, Carl Mitcham, 2013-07-08. This volume rethinks the work of Jacques Ellul 1912-1994 on the centenary of his birth by presenting an overview of the current debates based on Ellul's insights. As one of the most significant twentieth-century thinkers about technology, Ellul was among the first thinkers to realize the importance of topics such as globalization, terrorism, communication technologies and ecology and study them from a technological perspective. The book is divided into three sections. The first discusses Ellul's diagnosis of modern society and addresses the reception of his work on the technological society, the notion of efficiency, the process of symbolization, de-symbolization and ecology. The second analyzes communicational and cultural problems as well as threats and trends in early twenty-first-century societies. Many of the issues Ellul saw as crucial, such as energy, propaganda, applied life sciences and communication, continue to be so. In fact, they have grown exponentially on a global scale, producing new forms of risk. Essays in the final section examine the duality of reason and revelation. They pursue an understanding of Ellul in terms of the depth of experience and the traditions of human knowledge, which is to say, on the one hand, the experience of the human being as contained in the rationalist, sociological and philosophical traditions. On the other hand, there are the transcendent roots of human existence as well as revealed knowledge in the mystical and religious traditions. The meeting of these two traditions enables us to look at Ellul's work as a whole, but above all, it opens up a space for examining religious life in the technological society.
