Missional Youth Ministry Brian Kirk, Jacob Thorne, 2011-06-07 The mainline church in the past few decades has witnessed a ghettoization of youth within the church segregating them off to a particular room perhaps in the basement where they engage in ministry in isolation from the rest of the congregation They are assigned a youth minister or youth director often the staff person with the least experience freeing up the real ministers to serve the adults in the church They seldom serve on church boards or governing bodies in anything other than a cursory manner Their leadership in worship is limited to one

special Sunday a year their activities seen more as programming than ministry and their place often described as the church of the future rather than the body of Christ in the here and now For decades youth ministry in mainline churches has been program driven assuming that the primary function of youth ministry was to use activities and events to attract young people to church and keep them occupied until they were ready to be adult members in the faith In recent years it has become increasingly obvious that this paradigm has failed to develop youth as life long participants in the Christian church and in the Christian faith The result of such a model of ministry is that youth come to see church only as those segregated activities reserved for teenagers most of which bear little resemblance to the practices of the rest of church life Consequently when youth graduate from high school and youth group they perceive that their most meaningful church experiences are ended Mainline congregations are now seeing the evidence of the real lack of impact of their youth ministries as the population of young adults in churches continues to shrink even those young adults who were once regular participants in church youth group programs In short the program driven model of youth ministry has failed to help youth find their place within the mission of the Church Rethinking Youth Ministry critiques this older paradigm and invites the reader into a dialogue to help rethink many of the deepest assumptions of youth ministry in the mainline church We challenge the consumerist goal of judging a youth ministry's success by the number of its participants We push back against the notion that a youth ministry is the sum total of the events on the calendar We rethink the place of volunteers and parents calling for a greater role of adults as spiritual mentors in the lives of church youth We send out a call for greater understanding of modern methods of teaching and the impact of brain research on the intellectual and spiritual development of youth and we re imagine a new role for mission within youth ministry which calls youth to see mission not as isolated activities but as the very heart of their faith journey Rethinking Youth Ministry serves as a theological companion and practical guide for all those working in the trenches of youth ministry who are seeking to offer students a deeper more consequential and active life long relationship with God through the ministry of Jesus Christ

Ph.D, Chapel Hill USA, 2005-01-25 In innumerable discussions and activities dedicated to better understanding and helping teenagers one aspect of teenage life is curiously overlooked Very few such efforts pay serious attention to the role of religion and spirituality in the lives of American adolescents But many teenagers are very involved in religion Surveys reveal that 35% attend religious services weekly and another 15% attend at least monthly 60% say that religious faith is important in their lives 40% report that they pray daily 25% say that they have been born again Teenagers feel good about the congregations they belong to Some say that faith provides them with guidance and resources for knowing how to live well What is going on in the religious and spiritual lives of American teenagers What do they actually believe What religious practices do they engage in Do they expect to remain loyal to the faith of their parents Or are they abandoning traditional religious institutions in search of a new more authentic spirituality This book attempts to answer these and related questions as definitively as possible It reports the findings of The National Study of Youth and Religion the largest and most detailed such study ever undertaken The NYSR conducted a nationwide telephone survey of teens and significant caregivers as well as nearly 300 in depth face to face interviews with a sample of the population that was surveyed The results show that religion and spirituality are indeed very significant in the lives of many American teenagers Among many other discoveries they find that teenagers are far more influenced by the religious beliefs and practices of their parents and caregivers than commonly thought They refute the conventional wisdom that teens are spiritual but not religious And they confirm that greater religiosity is significantly associated with more positive adolescent life outcomes This eagerly awaited volume not only provides an unprecedented understanding of adolescent religion and spirituality but because teenagers serve as bellwethers for possible future trends it affords an important and distinctive window through which to observe and assess the current state and future direction of American religion as a whole Advocate ,1985
