a Context of Governance and New Public Management Annie Hondeghe, European Group of Public Administration, 1998
 Ethics and accountability have become important themes for modern government as in most of the countries there is a severe crisis of legitimacy Increasingly there is a feeling that performance management alone will not solve this crisis Citizens also expect from politicians and public servants ethical responsible conduct As to the ethics however there is a problem Governance and new public management have raised new problems which cannot be solved by referring to the traditional bureaucratic ethics Devolution and decentralisation processes have enhanced the responsibility of public servants The increase of transparency and openness and the service orientation of public organisations have challenged the traditional values of discretion and equality before the rule The growing interaction between the public and the private sector have raised the question of integrity In light of these developments it is important to update the ethical system or reversibly the traditional values of the public service can question some actual evolutions in government      A Near Century of Public Service in New Orleans Hugh Mercer Blain, 1927      Public Service Management ,1913      Public Service ,1907
