

LOUISIANA MARITAL SEPARATION AGREEMENT

This Marital Separation Agreement ("Agreement"), to be effective as of the date of signature on this Agreement (the "Effective Date"), is made in a spirit of mutual cooperation between _____ ("Spouse 1") and _____ ("Spouse 2").

1. Introduction.

1.1 Purpose. Because of issues arising in our marriage, we have mutually agreed to dissolve our marriage and hereby agree to legally separate and dissolve our marital union, pursuant to the terms and conditions set forth below. We intend by this Agreement to make a final disposition of all matters relating to the marital dissolution of Spouse 1 and Spouse 2.

1.2 Consideration. The consideration for this Agreement is our contemplated marital dissolution and the mutual promises, agreements, and conditions contained herein.

1.3 Effective Date. This Agreement shall become effective as of the date of signature on this Agreement, and its effectiveness is expressly conditioned upon our marital dissolution. If, for any reason, and irrespective of fault, our dissolution of marriage does not take place, this Agreement shall be null and void.

2. Disclosures.

2.1 Financial Disclosures.

2.1.1 A fair and reasonable disclosure of the significant real and personal property of which Spouse 1 is possessed or in which he has an interest, to the extent of that interest, and in all forms, has been made by him to Spouse 2, for the purpose of describing with some particularity those assets recognized and acknowledged to be Spouse 1's sole and separate property.

2.1.2 A fair and reasonable disclosure of the significant real and personal property of which Spouse 2 is possessed or in which she has an interest, to the extent of that interest, and in all forms, has been made by her to Spouse 1, for the purpose of describing with some particularity those assets recognized and acknowledged to be Spouse 2's sole and separate property.

2.1.3. Each of us (i) has made a fair and reasonable disclosure to the other of his or her income, assets, and obligations, (ii) has had an opportunity to review the other's financial information, and (iii) has obtained answers satisfactory to him or her to any questions concerning the other's income, assets, and obligations. We understand that the disclosure of financial information, although intended to be reasonably accurate, is approximate only and not exact; and thus, the actual value of any asset or obligation may differ from the value set forth in the disclosure. Nevertheless, each of us expressly waives any right to disclosure of the other party's income, assets, and obligations beyond the disclosure provided for purposes of this Agreement.

Divorced Fathers and Their Families Florence W. Kaslow, 2012-12-09 This book focuses on the experience of father s lives after a divorce and how mental health professionals can help them create a healthy transition Through the use of case examples critical issues are highlighted and discussed with supportive empirical findings and clinical insights Traditionally the marital legal sessions as well as the ultimate marriage settlement focus on the issues confronted by the ex wife and mother and on the custody and visitation plan for the children This is actually supported by law in some places This can remove the father from important qualitative issues such as what it is like to have children in two households relationships with two sets of grandparents where holidays will be spent fair rotations of responsibility and how continuing parental discord can be resolved The issues examined in this volume are relevant to a range of professionals who deal with divorcing couples from psychologists and family therapists to legal advisors and judges Divorced Families Constance R. Ahrons, Roy H. Rodgers, 1987 This book describes some of the expectable difficulties for couples at different life cycle stages those with young children childless couples and midlife and aging couples and offers guidance for making the most of the transition from separation to remarriage

Psychological Counseling Research Focus James A. Patterson, Irina N. Lipschitz, 2008 Counselling psychology as a psychological speciality facilitates personal and interpersonal functioning across the life span with a focus on emotional social vocational educational health related developmental and organisational concerns Through the integration of theory research and practice and with a sensitivity to multicultural issues this speciality encompasses a broad range of practices that help people improve their well being alleviate distress and maladjustment resolve crises and increase their ability to live more highly functioning lives Though closely related to clinical psychology counselling psychology differs from that field in a several subtle ways First counselling psychologists typically focus on less severe psychopathology e g depression and anxiety while clinical psychologists deal with more seriously disturbed individuals e g those with schizophrenia or personality disorders Second counselling psychologists are more likely than clinical psychologists to assume a client centred or humanistic theoretical approach Finally counselling psychology is unique in its attention both to normal developmental issues as well as the problems associated with physical emotional and mental disorders Despite these differences counselling and clinical psychology are becoming increasingly indistinguishable leading some to suggest that these fields be combined Populations served by counselling psychologists include persons of all ages and cultural backgrounds Examples of those populations would include late adolescents or adults with career educational concerns and children or adults facing severe personal difficulties Counselling psychologists also consult with organisations seeking to enhance their effectiveness or the well being of their members This book focuses on new research in the field from around the world
