Adding Value to Libraries, Archives, and Museums Joseph R. Matthews, 2016-03-28 This book explains the concept of adding value and shows staff at libraries and other organizations why they need to take steps now to ensure they are adding new value to their communities, whether it be a local town or neighborhood, a faculty and student body, or a school. Value is at the core of every organization's purpose. Without value, organizations die. Libraries, as well as museums, archives, and galleries, have traditionally added value to their communities through their collections and services, but yesterday's collections and services are no longer enough. In order to remain sustainable, today's libraries, archives, museums, and galleries must explore new ways to add value that resonate in the lives of their customers. This unique book explains how addressing the 5 C's of adding value: content, context, connection, collaboration, and community, enables organizations to find new ways to invigorate their services, better serve their communities, and thrive today and tomorrow. It addresses adding value in the context of other key topics such as crowdsourcing, embedded librarianship, makerspaces, self-publishing, and repurposing spaces. Filled with charts, tables, screenshots, and other visual representation, this is a useful and provocative guide that anyone interested in vesting in the successful future of libraries, archives, and museums needs to read.

Klinkowitz,1992 If as the literary theorists of postmodernism contend content does not exist then how can fiction continue to be written Jerome Klinkowitz himself a veteran practitioner and theorist of fiction addresses this question in Structuring the Void an account of what today s novelists and short story writers do when they produce a fictive work Klinkowitz focuses on the ways in which writers finding themselves in the same position as abstract painters and death of God theologians have turned their inquiry itself into subject matter and he shows how this approach has in recent years produced something more than mere metafictional self questioning With no subject to structure the writers Klinkowitz discusses nonetheless persist in the act of structuring For Kurt Vonnegut this has meant finding a form for an otherwise unrepresentable world by organizing his autobiography as a narrative device In the generation following Vonnegut Max Apple makes a similar move in the ritualization of a national history and popular culture while Gerald Rosen and Rob Swigart invent a style of literary comedy based on their comic response to a new imaginative state the state of California Klinkowitz also considers subjects that though they cannot be represented nevertheless exercise constraints on a writer's intention to structure In recent decades two of these pressing themes have been gender as seen here in the works of Grace Paley and war the Vietnam conflict itself as well as the struggles of two generations to come to terms with it Structuring the void left when content collapses these writers have as Klinkowitz demonstrates developed an entirely new style of fiction one that necessarily privileges space over time and self invention over representation
