Spatial Choice And Spatial Behavior Geographic Essays On The Analysis Of Preferences And Perceptions:

Spatial Choice and Spatial Behavior Reginald G. Golledge, Gerard Rushton, 1976 Previous research in the field of geography has generally supported the contention that much of the information that man receives from and about his external environment is filtered through and distorted in the very mind that receives the data For the observer this filtered information comes to constitute the objective world Behavioral geography has concentrated on examining this complex phenomenon seeking to isolate and to understand the influence of those components of external reality that pass these filters and how they have been altered in the very act of being perceived and assimilated The argument is made that if scientists can come to understand how and why human minds process information they have received from the outside and can identify what is transmuted and used it then becomes possible not only to explain the basis on which individual choices are made by those inhabiting cognized environments but also to shape the environments themselves so as to influence behavior within them Spatial Choice and Spatial Behavior :geographic Essays on the Analysis of Preferences and Perceptions R.G. Golledge (editor.), 1976 Spatial Semiotics and Spatial Mental Models Martin Thiering, 2014-12-12 This book presents novel data from endangered languages and cultures that are ever so often still not focused on It combines different disciplines to capture the intricacies of spatial orientation and navigation Also the interplay between culture through language and practices presents new insights in the importance of combining cognitive semantics with cognitive anthropology Research Advances in Behavioral, Economic and Health Geography Inspired by Gerard Rushton Alan G. Phipps, 2016-07-01 This is a festschrift including nine scientific papers and six abstracts of papers written by Dr Gerard Rushton or his former graduate students and colleagues to celebrate his retirement from teaching at the University of Iowa Iowa City Iowa USA The festschrift begins with Rushton s own review of his research advances in Behavioral Geography Economic Geography and Health Geography that coincide with three recurring phases of his academic career during 45 years of teaching at the University of Iowa Following this each paper by a former student or colleague reviews the special personal and academic contributions of Rushton to him or her in one of those research areas Each paper then proceeds to review the author s or authors contributions to scientific theory and empirical analysis that he or she or they have subsequently advanced or evolved from Rushton s original contributions These papers are scientific contributions of interest to an academic readership as opposed to personal or anecdotal recollections Geography in America at the Dawn of the 21st Century Gary L. Gaile, Cort J. Willmott, 2005 Geography in America at the Dawn of the 21st Century surveys American geographers current research in their specialty areas and tracks trends and innovations in the many subfields of geography As such it is both a state of the discipline assessment and a topical reference It includes an introduction by the editors and 47 chapters each on a specific specialty The authors of each chapter were chosen by their specialty group of the American Association of Geographers AAG Based on a process of review and revision the chapters in this volume have become truly representative of the recent scholarship of American geographers While it focuses on work since 1990 it additionally includes related prior work and work by non American geographers The initial Geography in America was published in 1989 and has become a benchmark reference of American geographical research during the 1980s This latest volume is completely new and features a preface written by the eminent geographer Gilbert White The Physical Environment and Behavior Joachim F. Wohlwill, Gerald D. Weisman, 2012-12-06 The field of Environment and Behavior This bibliography is aimed at the researcher and advanced student working in the field of environmental psychology as it has come to be designated over the past decade A more appropriate term might be environment behavior studies to suggest the important characteristic of this field as one that transcends the province of the psychologist and brings together workers as well as problems methods and concepts from a great diversity of disciplines and professional fields Among these we may include geography and sociology architecture landscape architecture and planning forestry natural resource management and leisure and recreation research to name only the most important of the diverse fields from which material for this bibliography has been drawn This is in fact one of the primary reasons for our belief in the value of such a volume The literature in the environment behavior field is scattered through the most diverse sources including not only the major periodical and monographic literature in each of the above mentioned disciplines and professions and others as well but also a variety of more specialized publications of varying degrees of accessibility Thus it seemed to us helpful to the researcher teacher and student in this area to bring this far flung literature together in a single volume that might be used as a guide to the field We aimed at a comprehensive treatment including both basic and applied aspects and relations of behavior both to the man made or artificial and to the natural environment Migration and Residential Mobility Martin T.

Cadwallader, 1992 Analyzes the phenomenon of human migration especially in the industrialized countries of the west Explains and applies various kinds of models most of them statistical and most derived from the general linear model Organized around two axes micro vs macro approaches and interregional vs intracity migration Paper edition unseen 18 95 Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR Electronic Spatial Sensing for the Blind D.H. Warren, Edward R. Strelow, 2013-03-09 During September 10 14 1984 we held a Research Workshop at the Lake Arrowhead Conference Center California bringing together leaders in the field of electronic spatial sensors for the blind from the psychology engineering and rehabilitation areas Our goal was to engage these groups in discussion with one another about prospects for the future of electronic spatial sensing in the light of emerging technologies and the increasing sophistication of behavioral research related to this field The papers in this book give an update on several of the key research traditions in this field Broader overviews are provided in the paper by Brabyn and in our Historical Overview Final Commentary and the Introductions to each section In a field as complex as this some overlap of discussion is desirable and the reader with a serious interest in this field is advised to sample several opinions This volume and the conference on which it is based received assistance from many people and organizations The Scientific Affairs Division of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization supported the conference as part of their program of Advanced Research Workshops and the Science and Technology to Aid the Handicapped Program of the National Science Foundation provided additional major financial support The Center for Social and Behavioral Sciences Research of the University of California Riverside provided financial as well as major logistical support

Spatial Search B. H. Massam, 2013-10-22 This book offers a wide ranging review of the problems associated with the search for the best location for public facilities Typical examples of public facilities include roads and railways pipelines and transmission wires airports power stations community clinics universities and schools In an attempt to provide a general structure for tackling location problems in the public sector this book offers an approach based upon the notion of spatial search This book reviews the state of the art of formal procedures in language and style which is comprehensible to the non specialist and places the formal procedures into the broader context of planning The author discusses problems of measurement and has also reviewed literature on collective decision making public participation efficiency and Etopia Case studies are included to clarify the general principles

Urban Geography in America, 1950-2000 Brian J.L Berry, James Wheeler, 2014-05-01 Urban Geography in America offers a comprehensive historiography of this major field Compiling the best essays from the flagship journal Urban Geography it shows the evolution of the field from the 1950s to 2000 as it shifted from data driven social science modeling in the 1960s to the more critical perspectives of the 1970s to postmodernism in the 1980s to feminism and globalization in the 1990s It covers all the major trends and figures and features some of the most important names in the field Ultimately this will be a necessary reference for all scholars in the field and all graduate students taking introductory courses and preparing for their comprehensive exams

The SAGE Handbook of Human Geography, 2v Roger Lee, Noel Castree, Rob Kitchin, Vicky Lawson, Anssi Paasi, Chris Philo, Sarah Radcliffe, Susan M. Roberts, Charles Withers, 2014-05-22 Superb How refreshing to see a Handbook that eschews convention and explores the richness and diversity of the geographical imagination in such stimulating and challenging ways Peter Dicken University of Manchester Stands out as an innovative and exciting contribution that exceeds the genre Sallie A Marston University of Arizona Captures wonderfully the richness and complexity of the worlds that human beings inhabit This is a stand out among handbooks Lily Kong National University of Singapore This wonderfully unconventional book demonstrates human geography's character and significance not by marching through traditional themes but by presenting a set of geographical essays on basic ideas practices and concerns Alexander B Murphy University of Oregon This SAGE Handbook stands out for its capacity to provoke the reader to think anew about human geography essays that offer some profoundly original insights into what it means to engage geographically with the world Eric Sheppard UCLA Published in association with the journal Progress in Human Geography edited and written by the principal scholars in the discipline this Handbook demonstrates the difference that thinking about the world geographically makes Each section considers how human geography shapes the world interrogates it and intervenes in it It includes a major retrospective and prospective introductory essay with three substantive sections on Imagining Human Geographies Practising Human Geographies Living Human Geographies The Handbook also has an innovative multimedia component of conversations about key issues in human geography as well as an overview of human geography from the Editors A key reference for any scholar interested in questions about what difference it makes to think spatially or geographically about the world this Handbook is a rich and textured statement about the geographical imagination

Geography Since the Second World War Ron Johnston, Paul Claval, 2014-01-23 The discipline of geography has undergone much change and growth in recent years With growth has come diversity Before 1945 there were differences between countries in the emphases on subject matter and research approach although these were all related closely to three main models French German and American Since then the relative importance of French and German influences has declined substantially including within their own national territories and the Anglo American model has grown to world dominance With that model however there is no dominant point of view but rather a multiplicity of competing approaches These various approaches have had a different reception in other parts of the world reflecting the base of pre 1945 geographical scholarship the goals of geographical work set by societies and the nature of the international contacts The result is substantial international diversity in the practice of geography This authoritative volume provides much needed information to make them aware of current international trends

Equilibrium versus Understanding Mark Addleson, 1995-09-28 Equilibrium versus Understanding argues that neo classical theory is incapable of explaining or understanding human conduct The author asserts that a different sort of economic theory is required and proposes a hermeneutic one The book presents a comprehensive description and analysis of the methodologies involved ultimately rejecting the positivist

Mobility and Geographical Scales Guillaume Drevon, Vincent Kaufmann, 2023-08-01 The concept of mobility has grown enormously over the last two decades A large part of the social sciences has been interested in the different forms of mobility from a wide variety of spatial and temporal scales This book presents the different spatial and temporal scales of mobility and the way in which they form a system by associating them with essential and original research objects It provides an in depth review of scientific knowledge a perspective on major societal issues analytical tools and a discussion on the main current academic debates The authors highlight the need to take into account both the spatial and temporal scales of mobility in order to address contemporary environmental and societal issues The book invites us to think about the entanglement of these different scales from the analysis of rhythms by founding a rhythmology of contemporary mobilities

Sacred Darkness Holley Moyes, 2012-09-01 Caves have been used in various ways across human society but despite the persistence within popular culture of the iconic caveman deep caves were never used primarily as habitation sites for early humans Rather in both ancient and contemporary contexts caves have served primarily as ritual spaces In Sacred Darkness contributors use archaeological evidence as well as ethnographic studies of modern ritual practices to envision the cave as place of spiritual and ideological power and a potent venue for ritual practice Covering the ritual use of caves in Europe Asia Australia Africa Mesoamerica and the US Southwest and Eastern woodlands this book brings together case studies by prominent scholars whose research spans from the Paleolithic period to the present day These contributions demonstrate that cave sites are as fruitful as surface contexts in promoting the understanding of both ancient and modern religious beliefs and practices This state of the art survey of ritual cave use will be one of the most valuable resources for understanding the role of caves in studies of religion sacred landscape or cosmology and a must read for any archaeologist interested in caves Perceptual and Cognitive Image of the City Chiranji Singh Yadav,1987 Meaning and
