THE FRANCES SLOCUM TRAIL

There is no place in the Old Northwest Territory where you can travel twenty-five miles on a public highway along which there has never before passed a woman. The trail which Frances Slocum by what she has called the "Indian's Trail" will open up to the people of this Territory is one of the most interesting in our country. It is a trail which has led to the discovery of the Indian life in the Northwest, and it is a trail which has led to the discovery of the Indian life in the Northwest. The story of Frances Slocum and of her long life among the Indians, and how she was found by her eastern relatives after a search of nearly sixty years is one of the most thrilling of all American home of the Indians, and here their last chief lived.
