Soviet Industry from Stalin to Gorbachev Joseph S. Berliner,1988      Soviet Industry from Stalin to Gorbachev Joseph S. Berliner,1988-01 This is an admirable collection of essays by a first class student of the internal workings of the Soviet economy they present a brilliant account of the development of our understanding of managerial behaviour in a centrally planned economy Highly recommended Michael Bleaney The Economic Journal      The Forest Industrial Sector of Russia: Opportunity Awaiting C.A. Backman,1999-02-15 This is one of the first public documents to present accurate reliable data describing the forest sector of Russian industry including data revealing behavior within the forest sector at a regional level and possibly the only one to include analyses that look far beyond the present to provide a glimpse of what the future might hold Following an introduction Chapter 2 reviews the forest sector in Russia including the deciduous resource and prices and costs Chapters 3 6 cover regional diversity in forest resources and utilization in European Russia West Siberia East Siberia and the Far East Chapter 7 deals with the trade patterns of Russia and former Soviet Union republics Chapters 8 and 9 cover analytical methods and scenarios focusing on accessibility capital requirements and product demand Chapter 10 examines policy implications and future avenues of research The book includes bibliographic references a glossary and an appendix with extensive statistical data      Karl W. Ryavec,2005 This unique study provides an original nitty gritty view of the true nature and operation of Russia s state bureaucracy from the imperial period to the present including the Putin presidency The only book length exploration of the problems and deficiencies of Russian bureaucracy since tsarist times this detailed work sheds important new light on Russian public administration an often overlooked but key barrier to Russian normalization and democratization      Modernisation in Russia since 1900 Markku Kangaspuro,Jeremy Smith,2006-12-27 Modernisation has been a constant theme in Russian history at least since Peter the Great launched a series of initiatives aimed at closing the economic technical and cultural gap between Russia and the more advanced countries of Europe All of the leaders of the Soviet Union and post Soviet Russia have been intensely aware of this gap and have pursued a number of strategies some more successful than others in order to modernise the country But it would be wrong to view modernisation as a unilinear process which was the exclusive preserve of the state Modernisation has had profound effects on Russian society and the attitudes of different social groups have been crucial to the success and failure of modernisation This volume examines the broad theme of modernisation in late imperial Soviet and post Soviet Russia both through general overviews of particular topics and specific case studies of modernisation projects and their impact Modernisation is seen not just as an economic policy but as a cultural and social phenomenon reflected through such diverse themes as ideology welfare education gender relations transport political reform and the Internet The result is the most up to date and comprehensive survey of modernisation in Russia available which highlights both one of the perennial problems and the challenges and prospects for contemporary Russia      Russia and Western Civilization Russell Bova,2015-02-12 This volume introduces readers to an age old question that has perplexed both Russians and Westerners Is Russia the eastern flank of Europe Or is it really the heartland of another civilization In exploring this question the authors present a sweeping survey of cultural religious political and economic developments in Russia especially over the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Based on the inter disciplinary Russian studies program at Dickinson College this splendid collection will complement many curricula The text features highlight boxes and selected illustrations Each chapter ends with a glossary study questions and a reading list

Planning in Cold War Europe Michel Christian, Sandrine Kott, Ondrej Matejka, 2018-10-08 The idea of planning economy and engineering social life has often been linked with Communist regimes will of control However the persuasion that social and economic processes could and should be regulated was by no means limited to them Intense debates on these issues developed already during the First World War in Europe and became globalized during the World Economic crisis During the Cold War such discussions fuelled competition between two models of economic and social organisation but they also revealed the convergences and complementarities between them This ambiguity so often overlooked in histories of the Cold War represents the central issue of the book organized around three axes First it highlights how know how on planning circulated globally and were exchanged by looking at international platforms and organizations The volume then closely examines specificities of planning ideas and projects in the Communist and Capitalist World Finally it explores East West channels generated by exchanges around issues of planning which functioned irrespective of the Iron Curtain and were exported in developing countries The volume thus contributes to two fields undergoing a process of profound reassessment the history of modernisation and of the Cold War

The Kravchenko Case Gary Kern, 2013-10-18 Victor Kravchenko the most discussed Soviet defector at the height of the Cold War The Emergence of Organizations and Markets John F. Padgett, Walter W. Powell, 2012-10-14 A dynamic framework for studying social emergence The social sciences have sophisticated models of choice and equilibrium but little understanding of the emergence of novelty Where do new alternatives new organizational forms and new types of people come from Combining biochemical insights about the origin of life with innovative and historically oriented social network analyses John Padgett and Walter Powell develop a theory about the emergence of organizational market and biographical novelty from the coevolution of multiple social networks They demonstrate that novelty arises from spillovers across intertwined networks in different domains In the short run actors make relations but in the long run relations make actors This theory of novelty emerging from intersecting production and biographical flows is developed through formal deductive modeling and through a wide range of original historical case studies Padgett and Powell build on the biochemical concept of autocatalysis the chemical definition of life and then extend this autocatalytic reasoning to social processes of production and communication Padgett and Powell along with other colleagues analyze a very wide range of cases of emergence They look at the emergence of organizational novelty in early capitalism and state formation they examine the transformation of communism and they analyze with detailed network data contemporary science based capitalism the biotechnology industry regional high tech clusters and the open source community Kremlin Capitalism Joseph R. Blasi, Maya Kroumova, Douglas Kruse, 2018-10-18 The first book to describe Russia's massive economic transformation for an American audience Kremlin Capitalism provides a wealth of data and analyses not previously available in this country The authors articulate the political and economic goals of Russian privatization examine the current ownership of the largest enterprises in Russia and chart the serious problem of corporate governance in the new private businesses Kremlin Capitalism is based on the only continuous study of Russian privatization throughout the Russian Federation from 1992 to the present The authors tracked down the story of the transition in the cities towns and villages of fifty of Russia's eighty nine provinces updating their findings after the June 1996 election The result is an up to the minute report of the largest property transfer in history and an analysis of one of this century's most significant economic transformations The volume also characterizes the position of workers in terms of unemployment wages union power and their changing role as employee shareholders What really happened when Russia privatized its economy The Kremlin brokered the initial struggle among different interest groups eager to claim a portion of Russian property workers managers the Mafia the old Soviet bureaucracy regular citizens entrepreneurs Russian banks and foreigners While competing with one another all struggled to free themselves from seventy years of Communist economic culture Four years after the process began have large companies learned to offer goods and services profitably and pay dividends to shareholders Individual stories come alive as the book explores problems Russians face in structuring a new economic system defining the ownership and governance of thousands of corporations one by one Russian economic practices are being forged in the heat of fierce political struggles between resurgent Communists and nationalists and old Soviet managers on the one hand and more liberal elements of its infant democratic system on the other Whether a few big conglomerates and the powerful banks and holding companies from Soviet days will dominate the new Russian economy to the exclusion of most citizens remains to be seen Many questions persist How will billions of dollars of capital be raised to retool restructure and reorient the heart and soul of Russia's economy Will open stock markets stimulate a new economic order or will that new order be imposed through strong state supports and subsidies What role will be played by shadowy conglomerates that are trying to shape a disorganized economy into something resembling the old Soviet system The authors note the paradox of a capitalism conceived designed implemented and evaluated by the Kremlin when one aim of reform is to allow market forces to play freely Kremlin Capitalism asks whether rapid privatization has catalyzed or complicated the transition to a more liberal political and economic system a question that will reverberate for decades Russia Automobile Industry Directory - Strategic Information and Contacts IBP, Inc.,2009-03-30 Russia Automobile Industry Directory

Gorbachev's Russia And American Foreign Policy Seweryn Bialer,2019-03-01 The Soviet post Stalin period is examined in its economic political and foreign policy dimensions stressing the factors that provided the gestation environment for Gorbachev's reforms There follows an analysis of the nature sources and plausible outcomes of Gorbachev's revolution and the strategies he is applying to it A separate part of the book examines the changing goals of past U S policies toward the Soviet Union and their effectiveness in influencing Soviet behavior The final part puts forth suggestions and prescriptions for a U S approach to the changes in Soviet economic security and foreign policies The East West Forum is a New York based research and policy analysis organization sponsored by the Samuel Bronfman Foundation Its goal is to bring together experts and policy leaders from differing perspectives and generations to discuss changing patterns of East West relations It attempts to formulate long term analyses and recommendations In preparing the chapters of this book the authors drew upon the work of a series of workshops initiated by the Forum Russia and NIS Mineral Industry Handbook Volume 1 Russia Mining Industry: Strategic Information, Regulations, Contacts IBP USA, Factory and Community in Stalin's Russia Kenneth M. Straus,2010-11-23 Kenneth Straus weaves together many threads in Russian social history to develop a new theory of working class formation in the years of Stalin's First Five Year Plan. In so doing he addresses a long standing debate among historians by suggesting new answers to an old question: Was there social support for the Stalin regime among the Soviet working class during the 1930s and if so why? Straus argues that the keys for interpreting Stalinism lie in occupational specialization on the one hand and community organization on the other. He focuses on the daily life of the new Soviet workers in the factory and community, arguing that the most significant new trends saw peasants becoming open hearth steel workers, housewives becoming auto assembly line workers and machine operatives, and youth training en masse rather than occupations categories in the vocational schools in the factories. The FZU Tapping archival material, only recently available and a wealth of published sources, Straus presents Soviet social history within a new analytical framework suggesting that Stalinist forced industrialization and Soviet proletarianization is best understood within a comparative European framework in which the theories of Marx, Durkheim, and Weber best elucidate both the broad similarities with Western trends and the striking exceptional aspects of the Soviet experience.
