The Soviet Union and the Arms Race David Holloway,1984 The Soviet-American Arms Race Colin S. Gray,1976

Innovation and the Arms Race Matthew Evangelista,2023-08-15 Innovation and the Arms Race investigates the causes and mechanisms of the technological arms race between the United States and the Soviet Union Challenging the commonly held notion that Soviet weapons innovation processes simply mirror those of the United States Matthew Evangelista shows that the United States usually leads in introducing new military technology while the Soviets typically react to American initiatives Evangelista bases his study of pivotal nuclear weapons development decisions on a variety of US and USSR primary sources including the memoirs of weapons designers and scientists declassified intelligence analyses Soviet Academy of Science documents and Nikita Khrushchev's taped reminiscences He finds that in the United States impetus for innovation comes from the bottom at the initiative of corporate or government researchers and military officials whereas the centralized Soviet system produces innovations from the top in response to foreign developments A revelatory analysis of US military policy Soviet American relations and weaponry development Innovation and the Arms Race bears lessons for the study of great power competition and military innovation today The Soviet Union and the Arms Race David

Arms in the '80s John Turner, Stockholm International Peace Research Institute, 2020-11-19 In the 1980s the world spent an enormous amount on preparations for war Year by year more and more resources went into the military sector More and more complex weapon systems were devised At the time of all research scientists and engineers in the world more than one in four was working for the military Throughout the 40 years since the end of World War II the technological arms race continued Then began moving faster The United States lead the way followed by the Soviet Union Between them they possessed some 50 000 nuclear warheads more than enough to destroy the world They planned to increase the number to make the weapons more accurate and to base them on new weapon platforms closer to the borders of the other side Some people preferred not to think about these things Many however were becoming increasingly concerned wondering about the future for themselves and for their children Originally published in 1985 this book was for those who wanted to know what was happening What new missiles were being built What was happening in outer space What are the facts about chemical weapons What progress was being made if any in Geneva Vienna and Stockholm where the powers were negotiating on these matters
