Space Odysseys Spatiality And Social Relations In The 21st Century:

Space Odysseys Jørgen Ole Bærenholdt, Kirsten Simonsen, 2017-05-15 The nature of spatial imaginations has become central to a range of major social and political debates Narratives on spatial inequality from the North South divide in global economic and political visions to marginalisation and ghettoisation in Western cities appear regularly in our daily newspapers Such examples indicate that issues of space spatiality are as crucial in our current societies as never before Space Odysseys brings together leading social scientists including John Urry and Derek Gregory to address a number of central issues in spatiality and social relations in the early 21st century Starting from the presupposition that space is a social dimension and a social construct it then presents examples of these conceptions of space at work While the book title s indirect reference to the film 2001 A Space Odyssey indicates the contributors interest in questions of voyages and mobility the plural use shows that the approaches to this conceptual exploration are multiple reflecting differences in experience in social context and or in gender class and ethnicity The book is divided into three main sections The first explores issues of mobility immobility and embodied narratives the second section deals with territoriality mobility and identity politics and the final section concludes with chapters on the spatial production of knowledge Spatial Theories of Education Kalervo N. Gulson, Colin Symes, 2007-11-21 This collection of original work within the sociology of education draws on the spatial turn in contemporary social theory The premise of this book is that drawing on theories of space allows for a more sophisticated understanding of the competing rationalities underlying educational policy change social inequality and cultural practices The contributors work a spatial dimension into the consideration of educational phenomena and illustrate its explanatory potential in a range of domains urban renewal globalisation race markets and school choice suburbanisation regional and rural settings and youth and student culture

Making European Space Ole B. Jensen, Tim Richardson, 2004-08-02 Making European Space explores how future visions of Europe s physical space are being decisively shaped by transnational politics and power struggles which are being played out in new multi level arenas of governance across the European Union At stake are big ideas about mobility and friction about relations between core and peripheral regions and about the future Europe s cities and countryside The book builds a critical narrative of the emergence of a new discourse of Europe as monopia revealing a very real project to shape European space in line with visions of high speed frictionless mobility the transgression of borders and the creation of city networks The narrative explores in depth how the particular ideas of mobility and space which underpin this discourse are being constructed in policy making and reflects on the legitimacy of these policy processes In particular it shows how spatial ideas are becoming embedded in the everyday practices of the social and political organisation of space in ways that make a frictionless Europe seem natural and part of a common European territorial identity What is Rhythmanalysis? Dawn Lyon, 2018-11-15 This book is available as open access through the Bloomsbury Open Access programme and is available on www.bloomsburycollections.com In recent years there has been growing interest in Henri Lefebvre's posthumously published volume Rhythmanalysis. For Lefebvre and subsequent scholars, rhythmanalysis is a research strategy which offers a means of thinking space and time together in the study of everyday life and this remains its strength and appeal. What is Rhythmanalysis addresses the task of how to do rhythmanalysis. It discusses the history and development of rhythmanalysis from Lefebvre to the present day in a range of fields including cultural history and studies of place, work and nature. For Lefebvre it is necessary to be grasped by a rhythm at a bodily level in order to grasp it. And yet we also need critical distance to fully understand it. Rhythmanalysis is therefore both corporeal and conceptual. This book considers how the body is directly deployed as a research tool in rhythm-analytical research as well as how audio-visual methods can get at rhythm beyond the capacity of the senses to perceive it. In particular, the book includes detailed discussion of research on different forms of mobility from driving to dancing and on the social life of markets from finance to fish. Dawn Lyon highlights the gains, limitations and lively potential of rhythmanalysis for spatially, temporally and sensually attuned practices of research. This engaging text will be of interest to students and researchers in sociology, criminology, socio-legal studies, geography, urban studies, architecture, anthropology, economics and cultural studies.

Coping with Distances Jørgen Ole Bærenholdt, 2011-03. The Nordic Atlantic area has seen remarkable examples of social formations in areas that many would perceive as too remote to allow the construction of functioning communities. But through innovations, networking and the formation of identities, people have coped with distances, thus continuously rebuilding societies in Northern Norway, Iceland, the Faroes and Greenland. Living conditions in the Nordic Atlantic are so extreme that one might ask whether the notion of society is applicable under these circumstances. The author argues that yes, there is a meaningful way of comprehending these social formations which is through the spatial and temporal practices that produce, reproduce, stabilize, destabilize and change them. He introduces the concept of coping which means neither mastering nor adapting but relating to in-between strategies and tactics reflected in practices of securing people's way of life under conditions that are never totally under their control. Restless Subjects in Rigid Systems Susanne

Wegener, 2014-06-15. The anticipatory logic of speculation and preemptive politics of risk are increasingly gaining significance in a globalizing neoliberal world. This study traces risk and speculation as aesthetic and political-economic strategies in factual and fictional discourses emerging at the North American Pacific Rim within a decade around 2000. Its exemplary close readings in particular focus on three fictional texts: Kathryn Bigelow's Hollywood film Strange Days (1995), Karen T. Yamashita's novel Tropic of Orange (1997) and Larissa Lai's novel Salt Fish Girl (2002), whose intricate aesthetics pass perceptive critique on concurrent political-economic discourses and their subtle reconfiguration of race, class and gender. The speculative near-future scenarios projected by these artifacts expose the rise of risk as a new rationality of governance. At the same time, they illustrate neoliberal speculation as a new paradigm of subject formation at a hyper-capitalist millennial Pacific Rim. Mapping Worlds Rob Kitchin, 2013-09-13. Social and cultural geography is practised by geographers from around the world However for various reasons including language and publishing traditions knowledge of the research being undertaken can often remain confined to those working within those countries This book draws together for the first time into one volume reports of social and cultural geography undertaken in several countries from around the world It provides an important overview of geographic ideas and traditions and the history of human geography more generally allowing comparison between countries and details of key studies and references As such the book will be of interest to geographers schooled in different national traditions and those interested in the production and history of geographic knowledge Entries are written in both English and the country's own national language

Rhythmanalysis Dawn Lyon, 2021-11-26 This collection brings together new and original research on the concept and practice of rhythmanalysis in urban sociology as a means to analyse the relationship between the time and space of the city

Non-representational Theory Paul Simpson, 2020-11-22 Non representational Theory explores a range of ideas which have recently engaged geographers and have led to the development of an alternative approach to the conception practice and production of geographic knowledge Non representational Theory refers to a key body of work that has emerged in geography over the past two and a half decades that emphasizes the importance of practice embodiment materiality and process to the ongoing formation of social life This title offers the first sole authored accessible introduction to this work and its impact on geography Without being prescriptive the text provides a general explanation of what Non representational Theory is This includes discussion of the disciplinary context it emerged from the key ideas and themes that characterise work associated with Non representational Theory and the theoretical points of reference that inspires it The book then explores a series of conjunctions of Non representational Theory and taking an area of geographic enquiry and exploring the impact Non representational Theory has had on how it is researched and understood This includes the relationships between Non representational Theory and Practice Affect Materiality Landscape Performance and Methods Critiques of Non representational Theory are also broached including reflections on issues on identity power and difference The text draws together the work of a range of established and emerging scholars working on the development of non representational theories allowing scholars from geography and other disciplines to access and assess the animating potential of such work This volume is essential reading for undergraduates and post graduate students interested in the social cultural and political geographies of everyday living

Staging Mobilities Ole B. Jensen, 2013-03-05 In recent years the social sciences have taken a mobilities turn There has been a developing realisation that mobilities do not just happen Mobilities are carefully and meticulously designed planned and staged from above However they are equally importantly acted out performed and lived as people are staging themselves from below Staging mobilities is a dynamic process between being staged for example being stopped at traffic lights and the mobile staging of interacting individuals negotiating a passage on the pavement Staging Mobilities is about the fact that mobility is more than movement between point A and B It explores how the movement of people goods information and signs influences human understandings of self other and the built environment Moving towards a new understanding of the relationship between movement interaction and environments the book asks what are the physical social technical and cultural conditions to the staging of contemporary urban mobilities Jensen argues that we need to understand the contemporary city as an assemblage of circulating people goods information and signs in relational networks creating the meaning of movement The book will be of interest to students and scholars of sociology urban studies mobility studies architecture and cultural studies

New Mobilities Regimes in Art and Social Sciences Susanne Witzgall, Gerlinde Vogl, 2016-04-29 New Mobilities Regimes analyses how global mobilities are changing the world of today and the role of political and economic power Bringing together essays by leading scholars and social scientists including Mimi Sheller and B lent Diken with the work of well known artists and art theorists such as Jordan Crandall Ursula Bieman G ls n Karamustafa and Dan Perjovschi this book is a unique document of the cross disciplinary mobility and power discourse The specific design integrating the text and art elements to create a singular dialogue makes for an exciting intellectual and aesthetic experience Illustrated by a range of studies which examine the regulation and structure of mobility such as the daily routines of teleworkers Ukrainian cleaners in Western Europe the mobility policies of global corporations and the impact of bicycle policies on public space New Mobilities Regimes emphasizes the routes and crossroads of migration flows as well as at the interaction of mobility and new spatial concepts The contributors are concerned with both the positive outcomes and the disappointments of the global mobilizations in modern lives This book is ground breaking in that it calls for the reassessment of the figurative arts in providing independent and insightful knowledge generating research on the nature of mobility and highlights the new appreciation of visual representations in sociology cultural geography and anthropology

Transforming Cities Through Temporary Urbanism Lauren Andres, Amy Y. Zhang, 2020-12-18 This book advances the reflexion into how temporary urbanism is shaping cities across the world Temporary urbanism has become a core concept in urban development and its application is increasingly crossing the borders of both the North and the Global South There is a need to reflect upon the diverse ways of understanding and implementing the temporary in the production of space internationally and discuss what this means for both research and practice Divided into two sections the book compiles and reflects upon the various attempts to reframe and reconceptualise temporary urbanism The first section focuses on reframing and reconceptualising temporary urbanisms It develops the argument that temporary urbanism allows a reinterrogation of the role of temporalities and non permanence into the place making process and hence in the production and reproduction of cities including the adaptability of existing spaces and production of new spaces While drawing upon different theoretical and conceptual framings permeability assemblage rhythms waiting authors bring insights from various case studies the Dublin Biennial Ireland temporary uses in Geneva Switzerland temporary urban settlements in sub Saharan Africa refugees camp in Beirut Lebanon and political protests in Skopje Republic of Macedonia The second section looks at unwrapping the complexity and diversity of temporary urbanisms It aims at securing a better understanding of the complexity and diversity of temporary urbanism including a dialogue between various experiences both in the Global North and in the Global South It looks at the implications of temporary urbanism in the delivery of planning and considers how and by whom cities are governed and transformed Again a range of examples are mobilised by contributors spanning from temporary uses and projects in London UK Santiago Chile Paris France Vancouver Canada Barcelona Spain Budapest Hungary Beijing China Sao Paulo Brazil and Milwaukee USA This book will be of interests to all researchers practitioners and students who want to gain a more thorough understanding of the topic of temporary urbanism compare its diversity and similarities across different contexts and reflect on the wider implications of temporary urbanisms for urban transformations

Lifestyle Mobilities

Tara Duncan, Scott A. Cohen, Maria Thulemark, 2016-05-06 Being mobile in today's world is influenced by many aspects including transnational ties increased ease of access to transport growing accessibility to technology knowledge and information and changing socio cultural outlooks and values These factors can all engender a re formation of our everyday life and moving as and for lifestyle has in many ways become both easier and much more complex This book highlights the crossroads between concepts of lifestyle and the growing body of work on mobilities The study of lifestyle offers a lens through which to study the kinds of moorings dwellings repetitions and routines around which mobilities become socially culturally and politically meaningful Bringing together scholars from geography sociology tourism history and beyond the authors illustrate the breadth and richness of mobilities research through the concept of lifestyle Organised into four sections the book begins by dealing with aspects of bodily performance through lifestyle mobility Section two then looks at how we can use mobile methods within social research whilst section three explores issues surrounding ideas of mobility immobility and belonging Finally section four draws together a number of chapters that focus on the complexities of identity within mobility Often drawing on ethnographic research contributors all share one common feature they are at the forefront of research into lifestyle mobilities

The Figure of the Migrant Thomas Nail, 2015-09-23 This book offers a much needed new political theory of an old phenomenon The last decade alone has marked the highest number of migrations in recorded history Constrained by environmental economic and political instability scores of people are on the move But other sorts of changes from global tourism to undocumented labor have led to the fact that to some extent we are all becoming migrants The migrant has become the political figure of our time Rather than viewing migration as the exception to the rule of political fixity and citizenship Thomas Nail reinterprets the history of political power from the perspective of the movement that defines the migrant in the first place Applying his kinopolitics to several major historical conditions territorial political juridical and economic and figures of migration the nomad the barbarian the vagabond and the proletariat he provides fresh tools for the analysis of contemporary migration

Transnational Mobilities in Action Sport Cultures

H. Thorpe, 2014-05-30 This book contributes to recent debates in transnationalism mobilities and migration studies by offering the first in depth sociological examination of the global phenomenon of action sports and the transnational networks and connections being established within and across local contexts around the world

Performing Tourist Places Jørgen Ole Bærenholdt, Michael Haldrup, John Urry, 2017-07-05 This book looks at the making and the consuming of places in the contemporary world Illustrated through a case on Denmark it considers the general arguments about the intersections of places performances and peoples It is shown that those who are visitors to a place in part produce that place through their performances Places are intertwined with people through various systems that generate and reproduce performances in and of that place These systems comprise networks of hosts guests buildings objects and machines that contingently realize particular performances of specific places The studies reported here further develop what we might describe as the new mobility paradigm that is developing within the social sciences

The Walkable City Jennie Middleton, 2021-08-18 This book explores everyday walking in contemporary urban life It brings together important theoretical and empirical insights to understand how the walkability of urban spaces can be imagined planned for and experienced The book focuses on the everyday experiences of the urban walker the bodily experiences of walking and different walking research methods It goes beyond the conventional focus on walkable places by delving into the ways in which urban space is consumed and produced through different ways of walking Drawing on fieldwork in the UK and international secondary sources the book examines how walking is socially and materially co produced focusing on pedestrian practices infrastructures and the social nature of walking Chapters in the book offer key explorations of the cultural and social inclusions and exclusions of navigating the city on foot The book considers transport planning and policy promoting pedestrian movement pedestrian infrastructures the politics of walking and social interactions of urban pedestrians The book offers vital analyses of how different but overlapping dimensions of walking and their relationship with urban space are often overlooked and the importance of centring the lived experiences of walking in understandings of pedestrian practices This book provides a timely contribution to the field of mobilities due to a growing interest in urban walking It will be of interest to students and scholars of urban studies human geography sociology and public health

Re-imagining Academic Staff Development Lynn Quinn, 2012-11-01 Re-imagining Academic Staff Development Spaces for Disruption a book with a strong commitment to social transformation is a welcome addition to the field of academic development studies South Africa may have unique social challenges but in highlighting higher education s central role in responding to them this book reminds academic developers everywhere of the intrinsic politicalness of our work In a series of theoretically diverse chapters all written by members of the Centre for Higher Education Research Teaching and Learning at Rhodes University we are provoked to reconsider the meaning of our practice and why we do it An enlivening read Barbara Grant The University of Auckland New Zealand
