Technology and Science in the Industrializing Nations, 1500-1914 Eric Dorn Brose, 2006 In this revised expanded edition of his critically acclaimed book Eric Dorn Brose weaves a fabric from three histories that until now have been thought of as mutually exclusive The history of technology the history of science and the history of economic development leading to the Industrial Revolution have been written to a very great degree as three histories For decades historians of science and technology agreed with one another that until the 1900s there was little causative interaction between the subjects they studied Moreover economists treated science and technology as residual factors that were important only to the extent that they could be measured Few historians have attempted as Brose does here to demonstrate the relationships among science technology the economy and general political developments Incorporating much new research Professor Brose continues his work of synthesising economic and scientific factors along with the role of social and political institutions The result is an up to date tightly written and concise survey of the history of technology and science over four centuries The narrative starts with the opening of the modern historical epoch around 1500 and ends with the outbreak of World War I in 1914 and covers events in both Europe and the United States Brose constructs his account from the standpoint of technological systems the idea that each epoch evolves a system to meet the material demands of society and the rise and fall of each such system within the period This is a fine introductory overview of the interrelationships among science technology and society in the early modern and modern periods and the impact of each upon the other

Technology and Science in the Industrializing Nations, 1500-1914 Eric Dorn Brose, 1998 The narrative starts with the opening of the modern historical epoch around 1500 and ends with the outbreak of World War I in 1914 and covers events in both Europe and the United States Brose constructs his account from the standpoint of technological systems the idea that each epoch evolves a system to meet the material demands of society and the rise and fall of each such system within the period

George Wilson's Vision of Early Victorian Science and Technology David F. Channell, 2022-10-14 This volume is a comprehensive study of George Wilson a leading advocate for evangelical science and for the role of biology in technology it examines his work to develop a unitary vision of Victorian science and technology by drawing upon religion transcendental natural history and Baconian philosophy George Wilson was the first Regius Professor of Technology at the University of Edinburgh and the founding Director of the Industrial Museum of Scotland now the National Museum of Scotland Throughout his career he lectured and published on a wide range of topics including the prospect of life on other planets the history of science natural theology chemistry and poetry His works were very popular he was praised by Charles Dickens and his lectures drew large audiences particularly women Wilson sought to educate people about the significant scientific and technological developments taking place during the first half of the nineteenth century and create a unitary vision of science and technology This book is largely based on Wilson's own writings and it is the first book length study of him published in the last 160 years This book is essential for researchers and scholars alike interested in Victorian science and technology

Reconceptualizing the Industrial Revolution Jeff Horn, Leonard N Rosenband, Merritt Roe Smith, 2010-10-29 Closely linked essays examine distinctive national patterns of industrialization This collection of essays offers new perspectives on the Industrial Revolution as a global phenomenon The fifteen contributors go beyond the longstanding view of industrialization as a linear process marked by discrete stages Instead they examine a lengthy and creative period in the history of industrialization 1750 to 1914 reassessing the nature of and explanations for England's industrial primacy and comparing significant industrial developments in countries ranging from China to Brazil Each chapter explores a distinctive national production ecology a complex blend of natural resources demographic pressures cultural impulses technological assets and commercial practices At the same time the chapters also reveal the portability of skilled workers and the permeability of political borders The Industrial Revolution comes to life in discussions of British eagerness for stylish middle class products the Enlightenment's contribution to European industrial growth early America's incremental rather than revolutionary industrialization the complex connections between Czarist and Stalinist periods of industrial change in Russia Japan's late and rapid turn to mechanized production and Brazil's industrial financial boom By exploring unique national patterns of industrialization as well as reciprocal exchanges and furtive borrowing among these states the book refreshes the discussion of early industrial transformations and raises issues still relevant in today's era of globalization

The Machines of Leonardo Da Vinci and

Franz Reuleaux Francis C. Moon, 2007-05-30 This fascinating book will be of as much interest to engineers as to art historians examining as it does the evolution of machine design methodology from the Renaissance to the Age of Machines in the 19th century It provides detailed analysis comparing design concepts of engineers of the 15th century Renaissance and the 19th century age of machines from a workshop tradition to the rational scientific discipline used today American Big Business in Britain and Germany Volker R. Berghahn, 2016-05-31 While America's relationship with Britain has often been deemed unique especially during the two world wars when Germany was a common enemy the American business sector actually had a greater affinity with Germany for most of the twentieth century American Big Business in Britain and Germany examines the triangular relationship between the American British and German business communities and how the special relationship that Britain believed it had with the United States was supplanted by one between America and Germany Volker Berghahn begins with the pre 1914 period and moves through the 1920s when American investments supported German reconstruction rather than British industry The Nazi seizure of power in 1933 led to a reversal in German American relations forcing American corporations to consider cutting their losses or collaborating with a regime that was inexorably moving toward war Although Britain hoped that the wartime economic alliance with the United States would continue after World War II the American business community reconnected with West Germany to rebuild Europe's economy And while Britain thought they had established their special relationship with America once again in the 1980s and 90s in actuality it was the Germans who with American help had acquired an informal economic empire on the European continent American Big Business in Britain and Germany uncovers the surprising and differing relationships of the American business community with two major European trading partners from 1900 through the twentieth century Toys, Consumption, and Middle-class Childhood in Imperial Germany, 1871-1918 Bryan Ganaway, 2009 Drawing on a variety of techniques from history anthropology and literary criticism the author argues toy consumption helped adults negotiate the transmission of middle class values regarding modernity technology gender roles and nationalism to their children Practices of consumption permitted self fashioning from above and below women used their control over childhood to insert themselves into political debates about the future shape of the nation at a time when they lacked the vote Although the project to build a middle class utopia via shopping never succeeded millions of Germans happily bought toys at Christmas and birthdays showing their faith in the ability of modern society to make the world a better place To understand why ordinary consumers made these choices the book draws on a variety of sources including periodicals trade journals advertisements pedagogical literature memoirs and toys Media and Communications Technologies Stephen Lax, 2017-09-16 Complex technology is now widely available and commonplace with new developments emerging almost every day So how are we to keep up with and make sense of technological changes behind media and communication systems Do new technologies change society or are new media the products of social forces This book examines how media and communication technologies work and considers the society that develops and uses them From the telegraph to the future of mobile communication Stephen Lax takes the reader through a critical examination of the most important technologies to come out of the past century Each chapter is filled with insightful case studies and thought provoking examples that clearly explain key concepts whilst exploring historical context and chronological developments to show that new technology depends upon its history Assuming no prior technical knowledge the book addresses both technical and social aspects of these developments explaining bandwidths and frequencies alongside issues of policy and regulation Illustrated with clear diagrams boxes and tables Media and Communication Technologies helps students to confront and make sense of the technological changes taking place in communications today The Path Not Taken Jeff Horn,2008-08-29 In The Path Not Taken Jeff Horn argues that contrary to standard Anglocentric accounts French industrialization was not a failed imitation of the laissez faire British model but the product of a distinctive industrial policy that led over the long term to prosperity comparable to Britain's Despite the upheavals of the Revolution and the Napoleonic Wars France developed and maintained its own industrial strengths France was then able to take full advantage of the new technologies and industries that emerged in the second industrial revolution and by the end of the nineteenth century some of France's industries were outperforming Britain's handily The Path Not Taken shows that the foundations of this success were laid during the first industrial revolution Horn posits that the French state's early attempt to emulate Britain's style of industrial development foundered because of revolutionary politics The threat from below made it impossible for the state or entrepreneurs to control and exploit laborers in the British manner The French used different means to manage labor unruliness and encourage innovation and entrepreneurialism Technology is at the heart of Horn's analysis and he shows that France unlike England often preferred still profitable older methods of production in order to maintain employment and forestall revolution Horn examines the institutional framework established by Napoleon's most important Minister of the Interior Jean Antoine Chaptal He focuses on textiles chemicals and steel looks at how these new institutions created a new industrial environment Horn's illuminating comparison of French and British industrialization should stir debate among historians economists and political scientists Autonomous Nature Carolyn Merchant,2015-08-27 Autonomous Nature investigates the history of nature as an active often unruly force in tension with nature as a rational logical order from ancient times to the Scientific Revolution of the seventeenth century Along with subsequent advances in mechanics hydrodynamics thermodynamics and electromagnetism nature came to be perceived as an orderly rational physical world that could be engineered controlled and managed Autonomous Nature focuses on the history of unpredictability why it was a problem for the ancient world through the Scientific Revolution and why it is a problem for today The work is set in the context of vignettes about unpredictable events such as the eruption of Mt Vesuvius the Bubonic Plague the Lisbon Earthquake and efforts to understand and predict the weather and natural disasters This book is an ideal text for courses on the environment environmental history history of science or the philosophy of science Totalitarian

Science and Technology Paul R. Josephson, 2005 No Marketing Blurp      Marriage and Revolution Siân Reynolds, 2012-06-07

Marriage and Revolution is a double biography of Jean Marie Roland 1734 1793 and Marie Jeanne Phlipon later Madame Roland 1754 1793 leading figures in the French Revolution J M Roland was minister of the Interior for a total of eight months during 1792 The couple were close to Brissot and the Girondins and both died during the Terror Mme Roland became famous for her posthumous prison memoirs and is the subject of many biographies but her husband despite being a key figure in administration of France seldom out of the limelight during his time in office is often marginalized in histories of the Revolution Si n Reynolds examines the Roland marriage from its beginnings in an ancien r gime m salliance opposed by both families through its close cooperation in the 1780s to its final phase as a political partnership during the Revolution Both Roland s actions as minister and Mme Roland s role as a woman close to power were praised and blamed at the time and the controversies have persisted Based on manuscript sources including many unpublished letters Marriage and Revolution sets out to examine an unusually companionate marriage over the long term its intimacy parenthood everyday life in the provinces friendships academic cooperation political enthusiasms and quarrels and finally its dramatic ending during the Revolution

Fire and Light James MacGregor Burns, 2013-10-29 The Pulitzer Prize winning historian explores history s most daring and transformational intellectual movement the European and American Enlightenment In this engaging provocative history James MacGregor Burns illuminates the two hundred year conflagration of the Enlightenment when audacious questions and astonishing ideas tore across Europe and the New World They transformed thought overturned governments and inspired visionary political experiments Fire and Light brings to life the revolutionary leaders who armed with a new sense of human possibility created the modern world Burns traces the origins of a distinctive American Enlightenment to men like Benjamin Franklin John Adams Thomas Jefferson and James Madison and their early encounters with incendiary European ideas about liberty and equality It was these thinker activists who framed the United States as a grand and continuing experiment in Enlightenment principles Today the same principles have taken on new urgency around the world in the turmoil of the Arab world in the former Soviet Union and in China as well as in the United States itself What should a nation be What should citizens expect from their government Who should lead and how can leadership be made both effective and accountable What is happiness and what can the state contribute to it Burns s exploration of the ideals and arguments that formed the bedrock of our modern world shines a new light on these ever important questions Praise for Fire and Light With this profound and magnificent book Burns takes us into the fire s center Essential for deciphering the challenges of the world we will live in tomorrow Michael Beschloss New York Times bestselling author of Presidential Courage James MacGregor Burns is a national treasure and Fire and Light is the elegiac capstone to a career devoted to understanding the seminal ideas that made America for better and for worse what it is Joseph J Ellis Pulitzer Prize and National Book Award winning author of Revolutionary Summer A captivating tale Briskly and beautifully told Superb
